

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., APR. 2, 1915.

Editorial Brevities.

The rumor that the wet canteen would be restored in Canada has been killed by Maj. Gen. Sam Hughes, who says he favors more strongly than ever the dry canteen, as he has yet to see the position that either a civilian or a soldier addicted to liquor can fill.

No men find tax-paying a pleasant or easy task, but no man should seek to evade payment of a fair and reasonable proportion of his citizen's obligations. Every citizen gets the benefit of the facilities and conveniences that community life provides in the way of streets, sidewalks, water, light, sewerage, police, fire protection, etc.

Each new German restriction with regard to the food supply means growing anxiety as to the future. No doubt Germany took precautions early and still has enough for months, but the tightening of the sea grip makes the outlook one of dark despair. Germany is as powerless to get in food as to make headway against the walls of steel rapidly asserting their superiority over the greatest military machine the world has ever known.

All Germans are not as bad as some of those we read about. Those of Waterloo, Ontario, for instance, gave the members of the third contingent a great send-off in the Town Hall, which was crowded to the doors and Mayor Kaufman presented each volunteer with a ten dollar gold piece. The ladies of the town also presented them with many useful articles. Waterloo is practically all German, but they are good, loyal Canadians, just the same.

The Ottawa Women's Canadian Club, which has done such effective work for the Belgian relief, has planned to make some special appeals on April 8th which is the birthday of King Albert, of Belgium. The club is working to have all the other women's organizations in Canada make some special effort to honor the Belgian King and his people on that day. The Ottawa Women's Canadian Club is sending one horse to the front under the auspices of the Ottawa branch of the Red Cross Society. The Club is contributing $500 to keep the nurse for a year.

The net earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for January showed an increase of $140,059. This is described as a very remarkable showing because there was a decrease of over $2,000,000 for each month in December, November and October. The change was brought about by a reduction of nearly $2,000,000 in operating expense, as compared with the figures for January, 1914. The showing is the more remarkable because the gross earnings for the month were nearly $2,000,000 less than in January, 1914. With operating expenses so very greatly reduced it is expected the showing for February will be even more satisfactory than that of January. The showing of the Canadian Northern Railway for January is not so satisfactory, as its net earnings for the month showed a decline of nearly 50 per cent.

A Noble Memorial.

Visitors to Boston will be able to see a memorial building erected in honor of a man whose great contribution to human progress was along the line of humane education. Mr. George T. Angell was the founder of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and the American Humane Educational Society. He was the founder of our Dumb Animals, the first magazine devoted to animal protection that has ever been published, and which is still in existence doing a splendid educational work. On Logwood avenue, Boston, the two societies with which Mr. Angell's name is associated have erected the 'George T. Angell Animal Hospital,' and it was formally dedicated last month in presence of four hundred guests representing Massachusetts and adjoining states. The hospital has every provision for the care of injured animals. The April number of our 'Dumb Animals' gives a full account of many of its rooms. There is a room for operations on small animals, a surgical ward for horses and a horse operating room; a ward for dogs, a ward for cats, a department for small pets, an irrigating and dental room, exercise yards on the roof for small animals, an electric ambulance for use in connection with the hospital, and every provision for the care of horses, dogs, cats and birds. The new memorial building cost $200,000 and its appointments are of the best. The Boston Herald pays this tribute to Mr. Angell:

'When George T. Angell' took up the cause of the dumb animals he was laughed at, but he could not be laughed down. His memory will survive as a public benefactor, and the societies which he founded and in this noble memorial, the complete agency in the world for the work to which he devoted his life.'

J. D. CHAMBERS has opened this week two cases of English Linens and Cottons, imported direct from Manchester. You too would be able to enjoy a special discount of ten per cent off regular prices. See the display in Experimental Farms Report.

The work and scope of the Experimental Farms and Stations has developed to such an extent that it has been found necessary for the sake of convenience to devote two volumes of nearly five hundred pages each to the main or aggregate report for the year ending March 31st, 1914. In the first volume is presented the reports of the Director of the Divisions of Chemistry, Field Husbandry and Animal Husbandry. It is by a study of these chronicles that an idea can be obtained of the vast amount of work that is being done and an appreciation arrived at of a resultant good.

In the first few pages are given the usual comparative tables of grain yields and prices and of live stock for the five years extending from 1909 to 1913, each of which, excepting horses and swine, show a decrease in the Eastern Provinces, since 1910. In the Western Provinces there was a deficiency of upwards of 300,000 cattle between the same year and 1913, but an increase of nearly half a million horses and only a slight disparity in sheep, which, however, are showing a tendency to improvement. Swine increased by upwards of 500,000. In British Columbia the numerical changes were comparatively slight. Naturally much space is given to reports of experiments at the different farms or stations. These experiments, it is hardly necessary to state, cover every variety of grain, fruit and vegetable production, as well as soil development, crop management, cultivation of forage plants and grasses, live stock, breeding and dairying. It would be impossible to over estimate the importance of the information thus furnished.

Of course at this time when the value of increase by improvement of production is being strenuously urged the reports are of special interest. It is not alone with what may be termed activities of the farm proper that they deal but also with buildings, with clearing with road making, with ornamental gardening. In short, the reports constitute virtually an encyclopedia of farming and its branches brought up to date.

While, as has been said, volume one is devoted to the review by the Director and reports of the Divisions of Chemistry, Field Husbandry and Animal Husbandry, volume two presents the reports of the Divisions of Cereals, Botany, Entomology, Horticulture, Poultry and Ology, Forage Plants, Poultry and Tobacco. All that has been said of the completeness in its contents of the first volume can be repeated of the second. It, too, is a useful compilation and a sample in detail of the benefits to be derived from scientific and painstaking research.

As in the preceding years, the matters dealt with in this volume are divided into sections, giving precise information of the work at the Experimental Farms in the Divisions referred to, and (b) treating of the various lines of experimental work under way throughout the system. It is explained that the latter section is devised and designed with a view to aiding the farmer more directly in the details of his vocation. It is worthy of wide distribution. One thing certain is that the nature of the reports makes them deserving of the closest attention. Copies may be obtained by making application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.
