had seldom if ever pressed, and had lain there for ages-one vade the sacred crater of old Krokato in search of a treasure that be apt to believe this a dream conjured up in the mind of a mad-man; and yet here was a little company of free lances pledged to carry the wonderful scheme to a success-ful termination or leave their bones

Lord Bruno, with regard to the mysterious white god whom the impis worshipped—he was grimly determined to have an interview with her ere quitting the enchanted realm, and it could be readily understood that such a project must bring them face to face with new and startling

Having seen the last of the weird dance of the black braves, and been duly impressed by the grotesque appearance of the medicine man, they proceeded to leave the shelf in the

and the monotonous tom-tom of the

which they were sincerely thankful, as it had tortured their ears while in Again they crept along that nar-row ledge and lost sight of the kraal with its nundreds of pointed lodges, his eyes had just rested.

appealed to his nature, and had been so impressed upon his mind that he would be able to reproduce it at any moment, with all its hideous accom-

The Englishman had looked upon many remarkable things in his day, for he had spent years in restless wandering in strange lands where scenes bordering on the fantastic and the bizarre could be found, to illustrate the pages of his magazine and interest an eager public; but he stood ready to confess that he had never run across a more fascinating theme for brush and pencil than the gathering of the black clans around the witch-doctor's green council fire, to-

Fortune came near playing them a

The moon still remained hidden by drifted up from the north, but it was must be the body of a desperate man.

ing root or rock, to which he manity on the rocks below.

suggest itself.

situation instantly.

erring precision

a Jack Tar.

Red Eric had clutched some project-clinging with a grip like that of

To climb the face of that blank wall was an utter impossibility, while if he released his hold, the only result must be a mangled mass of hu-

Rex felt powerless to lend assistance to the imperiled cowboy, ready though he was to tax his strength or his agility in any effort that might

But there were others.

Jim Bludsoe chanced to be the man ahead of Rex, and he understood the hustled his way back to a point that was just above his comrade, he took hitch over a spur of rock with his hung suspended below. How Red Eric ever got it Though panting heavily from his ex ertions he seemed to be rather tickled ver his narrow "squeak" as he term ed it, than anything else. It took who yearned for adventure with all

When the hedge was left behind there had always been a chance that Still higher they mounted, climbing over the rough elevations and push ing a passage through brush that op-posed them. Hastings kept his wits wide-awake, for te him was entrusted the task of serving as guide to the expedition, and the success or failure attending their movements would de-under his arms was a le. but he managed it, and the others laid hold to steady rope, the reckless fellow came up lariat, and dropped the loop with un

When he upon the man who was quick to dis-

gether with their fetish dance soul of the artist had been same manner they had reached it. The council fire was burning low, war drum had finally ceased.

teeming with black life

paniments

the ledge.

careful scrutiny.

Thus Hastings

among the kopjes.

Then there was the mission

A Story of the Golden Fleece.

->>

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBORNE

Author of "MISS CAPRICE," "DR. JACK'S WIFE," "DR. JACK," ETC., ETC.

When all had gathered in a great semi-circle, with the fire in the midst, still keeping up a monotonous chant that would ring forever and a day in the ears of those who eagerly looked on, a tall buck suddenly sprang into the open where all eyes could behold his sinuous twists and curves, and began a pantomine to illustrate what a terror to the foe he would the day of battle.

He leaped high into the air with a ous thrust of his assegai that would have driven the terrible wea-point through an ox. Next he would crouch as though creeping upon an enemy, to suddenly bound erect, strike with his weapon, and finish with a whirl that would have done credit to a dervish.

A second joined him in the ring, to be followed by a third, and present-ly there were a dozen leaping and jabbering and spitting imaginary focs upon their keen-pointed assega-

Those who observed this remarkable scene could not withdraw their eyes, such was the horrible fascination that appeared to chain them. Gradually the ring cleared, as the eccentric dancers wearied of their fantastic quick step movement.

the end was not yet. A single figure advanced with the ddest side leaps or springs imagin-ble. Bludsoe whispered in Lord Bruno's ears that this was the witchdoctor or high priest, a crafty schemer whose power over the people was even greater than that ex-ercised by the war chiefs themselves.

By means of these eccentric bounds this high priest, black and horrid, made the round of the fire, singing the most terrifying chant that ever racked mortal ears.

He was partially covered with gree-grees, or charms, consisting of human bones, small gourds containing pebbles of gold, and balls of hu-man hair and bird feathers. Taken in all he looked like a worthy satel-lite of the Old Nick, running loose on earth in a search for souls, and this was doubtless the very idea he meant to convey, since his prime obect in life was to terrify those who elleved him in league with the great od M'limo. In his bony hand this smon-like dancer held a small woodidol which he waves in the air om time to time as though invokthe good will of the oracle

Hastings could not tear his eyes away from this grisly figure, which seemed an epitome of all that was horrible in the land of the fetish worshipper. Every deed of blood that marks the dark pages in the history of South African colonization. tory of South African colonization may be laid at the door of these wizard priests whole sole business it is to incite by every devilish means in their power, the evil passions of the impls, and send them forth burning with the desire to do murder, to burn and destroy, so that the whites may be utterly wiped from the face of the Long the war council kept up, unpriest had cast some witch powder the flames that turned everything green and ghastly, and had ne effect upon the superstitiblacks, though simple enough to those who watched from above. Gradually the assemblage dispersed. Hastings had many times looked eagerly in the direction of the ledge ere on his previous visit the fair less had appeared to ravish his ses, but alas, she came not.

As the fierce warriors trooped back hrough the wooden gates of the kraal, the hand of his hearty Engfriend fell on his shoulder. "Come." said Lord Bruno. "now the great work we have cut out

CHAPTER IX.

W THEY WENT DOWN INTO KROKATO. eed, the task which these bold nauts of the South African erness had set for themselves, most ht well stagger the urous of men, and none se of Anglo-Saxon blood ve dared undertake it.

eak, Sickly

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

any children are pale, weak, and dless from their birth. Many others their blood and nerves exhaustind their systems broken down by ravages of disease, or as the reof over-study at school.

Chase's Nerve Food is the ideal of over-study at school.

Chase's Nerve Food is the ideal ment for children. It supplies the elements which are lacking in the weak, and nervous. It restores colour and richness to the blood, orates the nerves, and builds up at the sting and debilitating effects of es, scarlet fever, and such allit is of incalculable worth. Stephen Dempsey, Albury, P. E. Ont., writes:—"My little grandter, nine years old, was very pale teak, and had no appetite. She tired, wornout appearance, and elicate and sickly. I got some Chase's Nerve Food for her, and helped her very much. She is considerably in weight and al healthy."

ase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, at considerable to alarm this dare-devil, the eagerness shown by a Don Quix-Hastings drew a breath of relief, for any of them might take the dizzy plunge, and he hardly dared hope that in case it fell to him to lose his footing he would be quite as fortun-se's Nerve Food, 50c a box, at pend a great deal on how well he re-membered his bearings.

Considering the fact that he had would

for

It

been in this vicinity once before, and then while the night held sway, he was really doing remarkably well.
So they scrambled and worked their way up the side of the extinct volcano, until the edge of the crater had been gained. Once upon a time.ages ago, a magnificent cone must have towered above this vast cavity, which had been gradually undermined by the herce fires below, and finally some ancient eruption more violent than its predecessors, this crown had been blown off, leaving the awful gulf of boiling lava, which as centuries rolled on, cooled, became covered with soil, and finally posses-To venture into the enemy's coun sed a growth of rank vegetation. where the foot of a white man

The crater was now a valley, sur rounded on all sides by walls of dark stone-a valley where in years long long ago, some people who inhabited the land had built a temple, which in turn mouldered in the grasp of re morseless time, and became a vast ruin, almost hidden from view by bushes and vines. To descend into this dark abyss was a difficult task, and one that might have brought the cowboys' lassoes into play, only that Hastings' memory failed him not, and he took unerringly to the path which ran along the face of the rocky wall. Lord Bruno noted with considerable curiosity that this trail had been cut out from the solid rock, and by mortal hands, but in ages long since past. Thousands of feet had swept up and down this path. What a strange and interesting story it could tell if giften with the power of speech.

They moved down into what seemed the bowels of the earth — silent as spectres, each man keenly on the alert for danger, and making both hands and feet do service in guarding against such a mishap as fell to Red

All seemed peaceful about them from the crater came only the sound of some night bird's song, and the whirr of wings close to their ears was occasioned by the flitting of some bat, disturbed in his crevice by deeply stirred by the picture upon

Once Lord Bruno knew that his leader had passed, but what the cause of it might be Jim Bludsoe said

Hastings too had caught what emed to be a single flash of light in the valley, and was mystified guess its meaning. Could it be possible some vagrant flame from the fires far below had found an outlet such a thing was really beyond the bounds of reason. He was more inclined to lay it to human agency than it a will-o'-the-wisp the ruined temple which to believe haunting perhaps also served as a sepulchre in ages agone.

At any rate, remembering his own experience with the guards who watched the remains of the temple, he was a little worried by the flash sorry trick on the way, and it was Red Eric who had the harrowing exing of that light, fearing that it might prove to be a signal which would bring enemies down upon them with the same eagerness that wolves his hand slipped just when it should and hyenas display when running have been steadiest. At any rate, their quarry to earth. while upon the narrowest part of the . All drew a breath of relief when edge he was heard to scramble, and finally they ceased to longer descend. Hastings,, who was just ahead, upon twisting his head to discover what A stream gurgled at their feet, and several stooped to drink. Hastings had gone amiss, was just in time to looked keenly around in order to get see the cowboy slip over the edge. his bearings, while Lord Bruno and The sight gave him a severe shock, the cowboy chief kept very close in and he strained his ears in the enorder that if necessary they might and he strained his ears in the en-deavor to hear when the poor devil confer. struck far below, little doubting but There

There seemed to be something un that he would have his brains dash- canny in the singular condition the war council kept up, un.

No such sound reached him, and pressed with its remarkable history dancers were exhausted, and filled with a curiosity he could not of the past, and in fancy might expect the spirit of those who had worthe orators hoarse with wild haranguing. Then the great fire was allowed to burn down, after the high ranks when the desecration of their heathen temple by godless hands was that dense veil of clouds that had threatened

Truth to tell, however, these very far from dark.— Even the lodges in the kraal could have been seen by practical invaders who had come in search of the Golden Fleece, orried about the resistance they might meet with from the hi cover an object that dangled some man sources than that proceeding seven feet or more down the face of from spirits of the departed the cliff, and which upon closer scrutiny he was constrained to believe

Hastings had figured upon the matter since his last visit to this mysterious region, and was firmly con vinced that there must be some connecting link between the wizard valley of the temple and that ledge where the white god had shown hersome passage underground. constructed by artful priests for a purpose of their own, and utilized under the present regime.

As they once more set themselves in motion, every one of the little com-pany felt his nerves tingling with intense eagerness. The spirit of adventure was upon them, and those advocates who worship at this shrine scent the presence of a carnival riotious action just as readily as the war horse discovers the odor burnt powder drifting from the battlefield

Backache for 18 Years

op-Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

Too many endure the misery of backache without knowing that it is the unmistakable symptom of kidney disease. As you value your life do not neglect a backache. It tells of the beginning of the most fatal of diseases—Bright's Disease of the kidneys.

Mr. D. C. Simmons, Mabee, Ont., writes:—"My kidneys and back were so bad that I was unable to sleep or work. My urine had sediment like work. My urine had sediment like brickdust, and I had to get up three or four times every night.

I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised, and decided to give them a trial. I have only used one them a trial. I have only used one box, and am a yell man again. I can saw wood or do any kind of work, and am not bothered with backache or kidney troubles. I also enjoy good rest and sleep, which is a great relief after suffering for eighteen years."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

Dyspepsia's direful ills.

It is because they always take Laxa-Liver Pills.

These little pills work while you sleep without a gripe or pain, curing biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia and sick headache, and making you feel better in the morning.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE and cures the SYRUP.

Heals and soothes the lungs worst kinds of coughs and colds.

It spurred them on as with a They yearned for excitement and had come a long distance to find it. No danger then, of any weakening among these hardy fellows should the worst happen. Secretly, per-haps, they were in great hopes of a battle with the black hosts before quitting the neighborhood. If this vere so, the most zealous among them could find no occasion to complain in the treatment accorded by a benigh fortune, for they were certainly destined to see much of action ere old Phoebus again gilded the tips of the cliffs that guarded the crater.

In and out, under the matted foliage, and between black rocks that remained to tell of the infernal fires mained to tell of the infernal fires that had once tossed their red arms this mouth of Hades, they moved, in a sinuous array, now starting a bird from its roost, and anon hearing the hissing of a ser-pent as it glided away from their line of march, until at length Hastings slackened his pace and finally came to a halt.

Then they knew they were close to the secret entrance of the orater tem-

CHAPTER X. THE GRARDIAN DIETIES OF THE TEMPLE. Rex had not forgotten.

He had taken his bearings as well as the circumstances permitted, for the tops of the cliffs being outlined against the heavens, certain trees were marked in silhouette which on the occasion of his former visit he had especially noted.

Here he had throttled a fierce black who had hurled himself upon the intruder with a recklessness that could only spring from the abandon of a fanatic, set to guard a sacred shrine

Having made sure of his position, Rex suddenly dropped on har knees and began crawling along the ground. The others, realizing that this was a genuine game of "follow my leader" did not hesitate an instant about doing the same, and considerable dexterity was shown in the endeavor to accomplish the task.

As yet there had been no signs of the guards whom Rex had found in the valley, mutes selected for this especial purpose by the great medi-cine-man whose word was law throughout the land of the Zambodi. Nevertheless, it would not do to grow careless. Perhaps the former invasion of the whites had aroused they had set a trap so arranged that it would insure the capture or destruction of these daring adventurers intent upon robbing the ancient tem-

Ah! Rex no longer continued creep along under the bushes. He had come to a halt and appeared to be ntently examing the ground. this meant something they readily guessed, and the whisper he started back along the line confirmed the su

Closing up around him they for that he gazed upon a pile of rocks, some large, others small, the whole appearing like a cairn some live leet

Just such a monument might the old worthies of Abraham's time have made in order to comme tain events; and Lord Bruno had than once in his strange derings seen a similar heap of stones

"Here is where the entrance lies. 1 know it from many things; yes, could swear to it. But the pile rocks is new. You can see yourse! ves no moss has grown over them They have filled the opening up, taking warning from my other Well, here goes to remove the deb

As he thus whispered Rex set to work, and raising one of the pieces of rock carried it away as silently as he could.

The others waited for no other invitation, but started in at once working like beavers to accomplish To have dropped the task. them without warning must have en one the impression that gnomes or Brownies were at work, for not a word was spoken, though the pile of rocks diminished in size with incredible rapidity.

Nor was Hastings' prediction at all wrong, as they discovered when the last of the stones had been removed, for there was revealed a cavity that yawned before them, above which the builders had raised the cairn after the fashion of an arch The entrance to the ruins was dis played.

was in the humor to believe these black idol worshippers would be equal to any deviltry in order to trap

Rex, however, was filled with eagerness to advance, remembering how near he had been to this rich haul on the former occasion

TO BE CONTINUED.

THE UNION ADVOCATE

IS AN UP-TO-DA WEEKL NEWSPAPE

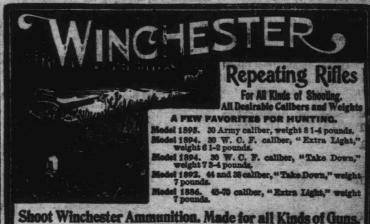

PAYSTO JAN. 1, 1902.

> WATCH FOR OUR ELECTION EXTRAS.

We will have special telegraphic service that will enable us to give the very latest election returns early Wednescay night and Thursday.

> Every elector on the North Shore should be a subscri If you do not care to take t for a year send us 25c for three months and get all these election extras.

ANSLOW BROS. PUBLISHERS NEWCASTLE. - N.B.

FREE. —Send Rame and Address on Postal for 160-page Illustrated Catalog HESTER REPEATING ARMS CO. . . NEW RAYER