

On Christmas Eve

When Pa and Ma Their Vigils
Keep, and Little Boys
Should Be Asleep.

LAST night I had a dandy time.
'Twas night 'fore Christmas too.
Ma put me early into bed,
'Zee! like they always do.
The night 'fore Christmas, an' I lay
As still as I could keep.
An' made my pa an' ma believe
'At I was fast asleep.

I SAID "BOO, MR. SANTA CLAUS!"
Well, by an' by I heard a noise,
An' then I seen my pa.
Who says to ma, "Is he asleep?"
"Of course he is," says ma.
An' then they fetched a lot uv stuff,
A photograph an' sled,
An' skates an' things, an' put 'em all
Beside my trundle bed.
An' then pa filled my stockin' full,
An' then both slipped near,
An' ma she tucked me in ag'in,
An' said, "The little dear."
An' then I see right up in bed,
An', eh, I had such fun!
I said "Boo, Mr. Santa Claus!"
An' pa an' ma both run.

CHRISTMAS CANDIES.

Recipes Which the Amateur Confectioner May Find Useful.
Peanut Candy.—To make peanut candy, shell and break into small pieces with a rolling pin one quart of peanuts. Boil for ten minutes, stirring constantly, one pound of light brown sugar and six ounces of butter. Just before taking from the fire add the peanuts. Pour into fat, buttered tins and set away to cool.
Peppermint Creams.—Roll together, without stirring, two cups of sugar and half a cup of water. When thick enough to spin a thread remove the tin to a basin of cold water and beat the mixture rapidly until it becomes of a white, creamy consistency. Flavor with peppermint and squeeze through a pastry tube into quarter dollar sized drops on waxed paper.
Chocolate Peppermint Creams.—Make like the above, and when the drops are almost cooled dip into a pan of melted and sweetened chocolate. These are particularly delicious.
Hickory Nut Creams.—Roll sugar and water as for peppermint creams. Cool, beat, and when the mixture is white stir in one cup of hickory nut meats. Turn into a fat, warm tin and cut into squares.

CHRISTMAS TREES.

From Time Immemorial Part of the Holiday Celebration.

From time immemorial a tree has been a part of the Christmas celebration. It may be seen outside the traditional manger in the mistle and early paintings of the preaphaelite Italian school. In the tree or near it are seen angels in flowing robes singing out of a scroll of illuminated paper the "Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Men" or "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah!"
The correct German Christmas tree always has an angel or a Christkind on the topmost branch, with a tinset star at the end of a staff, like a pantomime fairy, and if the tree belongs to a very orthodox family there is usually at its foot a small toy group representing the Saviour's birth in the stable at Bethlehem.

The lights on the tree are said to be of Jewish origin. In the ninth month of the Jewish year, corresponding nearly to our December, and on the twenty-fifth day, the Jews celebrated the feast of dedication of their temple. It had been desecrated on that day by Antiochus. It was dedicated by Judas Maccabeus, and then, according to the Jewish legend, sufficient oil was found in the temple to last for the seven branched candlestick for seven days, and it would have taken seven days to prepare new oil. Accordingly the Jews were wont on the 25th of Kislev in every house to light a candle, on the next day two, and so on till on the seventh and last day of the feast seven candles twinkled in every house. It is not easy to fix the exact date of the last day of Kislev, when every Jewish house in Bethlehem and Jerusalem was twinkling with lights. It is worthy of notice that the German name for Christmas is Weihnachts (the night of dedication), as though it were associated with this feast. The Greeks also call Christmas the feast of lights, and, indeed, this was also the name given to the dedication festival, Chanuka, by the Jews.—New York Mail and Express.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

W. A. Dobson, R. A., It Is Claimed,
Was Their Originator.

Until now most people who took an interest in the matter would have credited either the late Sir Henry Cole or J. C. Horsley, R. A., with the production of the first Christmas card, and they would have put the date down as 1843. But a new claimant is now put forward, the late W. A. Dobson, R. A., and his claim is supported with circumstantial detail.
The birth of the Christmas card is put back two years, to 1844. Mr. Dobson was a lonely young man, who one day conceived the idea of acknowledging the kindness of a friend by sending him a picture illustrative of the festive season—a cheerful family group surrounded by the familiar Christmas accessories.
The distant friend was delighted, showed it to other friends, and Mr. Dobson was encouraged the following year to secure the aid of the local lithographer. Then came imitations one after another until ten years later the business man stepped in to make money out of what was originally a work of love. But the ambitious Christmas cards of today are a long remove from the primitive Father Christmas and Robin Redbreasts of sixty years ago.—London Chronicle.

Alone at Christmas.

If in this age of organizations innumerable there is room for one more, it is for an organization which would bring together, especially on Christmas, those who are alone in the world, particularly women, says the Ladies' Home Journal. Many of us who have our kin closest to us on Christmas day do not stop to realize what our feelings would be if they were not with us. It is so hard to imagine ourselves in a position other than the one we are in. We remember some poor family at Christmas, but at least it is a family. It is together. The one is company for the other even in poverty. We remember the sick, and God blesses those who do. Would that some of us might cast a look around and give a thought to those who are not sick, who are not perhaps poor as the world judges, yet who are alone—some girl, perhaps, alone some woman, alone some young man, some old man, alone! Alone at Christmas!

Bolled Turkey and Oyster Stuffing.
Take a medium sized turkey and stuff it with the following ingredients: Chop four ounces of suet very fine, mix it with six ounces of breadcrumbs, the grated rind of half a lemon, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt, cayenne pepper and grated nutmeg to taste. Take the beards off two dozen oysters, add them and their liquor, strained, and lastly two eggs. Truss the bird, tie it in buttered paper and then in a cloth. Place the turkey, breast downward, in boiling water; let it come again to boil, skin it well and simmer gently for an hour and a half or longer, according to the size of the bird. Serve with rich white sauce.

Immune.

"You know, they say," remarked Mr. Sloman, gazing dubiously at the mistletoe above her head, "that kissing really spreads disease sometimes."
"Yes," replied the sweet girl, "By the way, did you know I was vaccinated recently?"

What's in a Name?

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Legal Contest Over the Admissibility of Ante-Mortem Statement of Miss Clarke

ST. JOHN, Dec. 9.—The interest this morning in the preliminary examination of Dr. Preston centered in the legal contest as to the admissibility of Miss Clarke's ante-mortem statement, upon the settlement of which apparently depends to a large extent the fate of the prisoner. Arguments for and against the admission of this evidence were made this morning by the respective counsel, and the magistrate reserved his decision until this afternoon. The point upon which the matter hinges is that an ante-mortem statement is only admissible when made by a person in actual expectation of death, and in this connection the evidence of Mrs. Clark, step-mother of the deceased, as given this morning, is very important. She gave evidence to the effect that Miss Clarke did not expect to recover and seemed so certain of death that she arranged for the disposal of her personal effects, and even made requests concerning her funeral and burial place. The other witnesses were Dr. Scumell, Coroner Berryman and Mrs. Reynolds, who added little of importance to their testimony given at the inquest.

SEIZED FIREARMS.

A large consignment of rifles and shot guns of various makes was received at the Crown Land office yesterday from Game Warden John Robinson of Newcastle. They were seized during the past season from North Shore residents found hunting without a license. In all probability they will be sold at auction. The collection is a rather unique one and includes everything in the shape of arms, from the old gas pipe smoothbore to the modern high power Winchester rifle.—Herald. 8th

I. C. K. HUNTING FOR CHINAMEN

Were Travelling in Bond and Escaped Between Halifax and Montreal

MONTREAL, Dec. 9.—Four chinamen escaped from the custody of the I. C. K. somewhere between Halifax and Montreal, and the railway officials are now anxious to recapture them to save the payment of $2,000. The Chinamen were in bond for Vancouver, and unless recovered the railway must pay $500 head tax each. The payment would be from one department of the government to another, but would cost the I. C. K. finances just the same.

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT

At the provincial government meeting Thursday Hon. W. P. Jones solicitor general, was appointed to enquire into the operation and administration of the liquor license law in Gloucester and Victoria counties. A special court will be held to enquire into charges made against the liquor license commissioners and inspector in Gloucester county for not prosecuting when information is furnished them. An investigation will take place with regard to alleged irregularities by G. Miles McCrae the inspector of Victoria county, who is reported not to have made returns. The solicitor general will also enquire into the charges against John B. Stevenson, J. P., of Tobique River, who is alleged to have used his official position improperly protecting alleged violators.
It was arranged that the premier and Surveyor General Sweeney should attend the convention of the Canadian Foresters' Association in Quebec next week.

Orders were issued for the payment of smallpox accounts in Chatham and Charlotte and Sunbury counties.

How to get Consumption

Ninety per cent. of the "lungers" contract consumption by allowing power of resistance to fall so low that a favorable condition for the development of the bacilli is provided. In a healthy system consumption can't take root. But where there is weakness and debility, there you find tuberculosis. For developing strength and building up the weak, nothing equals Ferrozone. It makes the blood nutritious and the nerves enduring. The way it converts food into nutriment, the appetite it gives is surprising. Just what the man yearning on consumption needs,—that's Ferrozone. If tired and weak don't put off! Fifty cents buys a box of fifty tablets—at all dealers.
