

Words of Wisdom.

We should not retain the remembrance of faults we have once forgiven.

There is no greater slave than a man who owes another money he cannot pay.

A man proves himself fit to go higher who shows that he is faithful where he is.

Real happiness is cheap enough; yet how dearly are we in the habit of paying for its counterfeit!

It is much better to work in earnest and to play in earnest than to mix work and play carelessly together.

Men of the noblest disposition think themselves happiest when others share their happiness with them.

True liberty consists in the privilege of enjoying our own rights—not in the destruction of the rights of others.

Nature is very careful to provide against scarcity. In the moral world it is the same. Goodness and beauty lie thick around us, in spite of sin, and sorrow, and wrong of all kinds.

The more I meditate, the more I am convinced that to tread firmly in the path of virtue, it is necessary that we be supported by the staff of knowledge. Ignorance is the mother of follies.

Above all things, avoid laziness. There is plenty to do in this world for every pair of hands placed on it, and we must so work that the world will be richer because of our having lived in it.

If young people are induced—led, not forced—to begin their reading aright, the chances are largely in their favour that their critical knowledge will make them pretty good judges afterwards.

Bacon says that "whenever it is possible, knowledge should be instilled into the mind of another in the manner in which it was first discovered." If this principle were fairly carried out, it would work great changes in our methods of teaching.

The right to freedom is vested in those only who have the capacity and the will to act in a proper manner. Freedom of action conferred upon those who possess not both of these attributes must inevitably disorganize society, demoralize the people, and force them back to barbarism.

Every object in nature is impressed with God's footsteps, and every day repeats the wonders of creation. There is not an object, be it pebble or pearl, weed or rose, the flower spangled sky above, not a worm or an angel, a drop of water or a boundless ocean, in which intelligence may not discern, and piety adore, the providence of Him who took our nature that He might save souls.

Self-love leads us to do certain things because we choose them for ourselves, although we would not do them at another's bidding, or from mere obedience. If things are our own originating, we like them, but not when they come through other people. Self is forever seeking self, self-will and self-love; but if we were perfect in the love of God, we should prefer to obey, because in obedience there is more of God and less of self.

TRUTH.

One of the sublimest things in the world is plain truth.—Bulwer.

Truth is the foundation of all knowledge, and the cement of all society.—Gassambon.

Truth whether in or out of fashion, is the measure of knowledge, and the business of the understanding.—Locke.

He that finds truth without loving her is like a bat, which though it have eyes to discern that there is a sun, yet hath so evil eyes that it cannot delight in the sun.—Sir Philip Sydney.

General abstract truth is the most precious of all blessings; without it man is blind; it is the eye of reason.—Rousseau.

After all, the most natural beauty in the world is honesty and moral truth, for all truth is beauty. True features make the beauty of the face, and true proportions the beauty of architecture, as true measures that of harmony and music.—Shaftesbury.

Truth will be uppermost one time or other like cork, though kept down in the water.—Sir W. Temple.

Truth can hardly be expected to adapt herself to the crooked policy and wily sinuosity of worldly affairs, for truth, like light, travels only in straight lines.—Colton.

A FUNNY CANDIDATE.

A young Mr. Cox is running for Congress in an independent way in the Fourth District of Georgia. At a recent gathering of young men he declared his intentions in the following outburst: "If you see fit to send me to Congress I will go to the best of my ability. (Cheers.) I believe I would like to go. (Renewed cheers.) In fact I know I want to go. (Loud cheers.) I have heard that the salary is ample, and, as I have a small family, won't insist on its increase. (Cheers.) As I am fond of vindication I want to vindicate myself. It has been hurled at me like a thunder-bolt that I am too young. In answer to this I say, first, I can't help it and it is not my fault. Second, I am trying to grow older every day. Third, I am succeeding. Fourth, I am afraid I will be much older than I am before I get to Congress. (Prolonged applause.)"

Household Hints.

TO PEELE ANY KIND OF FRUIT EASILY.—Pour boiling water over it, and this loosens the skin.

TO STORE RAISINS EASILY.—Pour boiling water over them, and drain it off. This loosens them and they come out clean and with ease.

SQUASH PIE.—To a pint of boiled, mashed and strained squash, add two cups of sweet milk, a cup of white sugar, four beaten eggs, half a teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon and ginger, and a pinch of salt. Beat thoroughly and bake in tins lined with a good paste.

TOMATO SALAD.—Pare with a sharp knife—do not scald—and cut into thin slices. Put into a salad-dish and pour over a mixture made of two tablespoonfuls of good oil, mixed with a teaspoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of made mustard, salt and pepper, after which whip in a little at a time, five tablespoonfuls of vinegar.

TOMATO SOUP, WITH MEAT.—Skim and strain a gallon of stock made from fresh meat, skim and slice a dozen large, ripe tomatoes, put through a sieve and add to the stock. Boil half an hour. Mix smooth a spoonful of flour, a little butter, be careful not to have it lumpy, season it with pepper, salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Simmer ten minutes and it is ready to serve.

TOMATO SOUP, WITHOUT MEAT.—Put a spoonful or more of nice pork drippings into the soup-pot over the fire, when hot throw in a sliced onion and when the pieces are of a brownish hue add 15 medium-sized ripe tomatoes, peeled and sliced. Stir until well heated through, then add a quart of boiling water and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Cook slowly half an hour, strain, pressing through the tomatoes. Return to the pot, season with pepper and salt, a teaspoonful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter rolled in a spoonful of flour and a teaspoonful of hot boiled rice. Cook slowly ten minutes longer and pour out.

MASHED POTATO.—To make it light and delicate, beat it with a spoon after you have seasoned it. Mash it well, salt it first. It is often made too salt for my taste, and as I can not take out the salt, it sometimes seems to me it would be quite fair to put in only a little, and those who do not care to taste anything else but salt in their food can add it at their pleasure. Butter is sometimes added when the potatoes are mashed, but I think thin cream the best of anything, and next to this good sweet milk. Now stir all thoroughly together, beating it well with a large, stiff spoon. The product is something quite superior to the lumpy, poorly seasoned mashed potato often found. A dish may be called "well-seasoned" only when good seasoning is used, and that properly put into or upon it.

CHOPPED PICKLES.—Take green tomatoes, wash clean, cut away a small piece from each end, slice and place in a large wooden bowl, chop fine, place in a crock, and mix salt with them (one pint to a peck), let stand twenty-four hours, and drain thoroughly; take twice or three times as much cabbage, chop fine, mix salt in same proportions, add enough water to make it moist, and let stand same as tomatoes; drain, place again in separate jars, cover each with cold weak vinegar, after twenty-four hours drain well, pressing hard to extract all the juice; mix tomatoes and cabbage together, take a double handful at a time, squeeze as tightly as possible, and place in a dry crock; take the stone jar in which they are to be pickled, place in it a layer of tomatoes and cabbage, sprinkle with radish, whole mustard seed, and horse-radish, then another layer of tomatoes and cabbage, next spice, and so on until the jar is almost full, occasionally sprinkling with cayenne pepper; cover with strong cider vinegar, to each gallon of which a teaspoon of sugar has been added. Place a saucer, or pieces of broken china on the pickles to keep them under the vinegar. If a white scum rises, drain off vinegar, broil, skin, and pour hot over the pickles. Prepare mustard, pepper, and horse-radish, as follows: Take green garden peppers, cut in two, place in salt water overnight; the next morning drain and chop quite fine; to a pint of mustard seed add a teaspoon of salt, pour in boiling water, let stand fifteen minutes and drain; slice horse-radish and chop fine. Tomatoes and onions are excellent prepared in the same way. For sliced pickles, take cucumbers and onions, or tomatoes and cucumbers, and slice and prepare as above.

HOME EVIDENCE

IN FAVOR OF THE PAIN-KILLER.

WHY experiment with unknown mixtures without character or reputation, when this world-renowned PAIN-KILLER which has stood the test of over 40 years, can be had for the same price as any Drug Store in the Dominion!

READ THE FOLLOWING

OTTAWA, ONT., March 9, 1880.

The writer has been selling Perry Davis Pain-Killer now for the last 25 years, and can confidently recommend it to the public as a sure remedy for Cholera, Diarrhoea, Sore Throat, Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Burns, Scalds, &c. Have known it to cure a case of Syphilitic Sore Throat of two years' standing, when all the usual remedies failed. The patient took half a teaspoonful in water three times a day, and gargled the throat three times a day as follows: one teaspoonful in a wine glass of water, and used as a gargle.

Yours, H. F. MCCARTHY.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have much pleasure in adding to the number of the numerous testimonials you have already received, as to the value of your renowned Pain-Killer. I have sold it and used it in my family for twenty years or more, and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best patent medicine I have ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended; and, moreover, every person to whom I have ever sold it, has been perfectly satisfied with it, and I know many persons who will not go to bed at night unless they are sure there is a bottle of "Perry Davis" in the house. All who have used it once, will use it again; it makes friends and retains them.

Yours truly, JOHN DUMBRILLE, Druggist.

SPENCERVILLE, ONT., February 26, 1880.

We have much pleasure in certifying that we have kept Perry Davis Pain-Killer constantly in stock for upwards of twenty years, during which time it has taken the lead in sales over all other patent preparations, and has become an old, reliable family medicine. No effort is required now on our part to sell it, as it is as staple an article as flour in our trade.

Yours truly, W. P. IMRIE & CO.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

It gives me much pleasure to state that during a drug career of more than a quarter century, I can testify that your justly celebrated Pain-Killer has not only held its own as a family medicine, but still occupies the front rank wherever duty calls it. My customers speak very highly of it, and I could send you end of testimonials showing up its merits and intrinsic worth, were it necessary, which it is not. It should, however, be called "Excellent Pain-Killer." I pride myself in never being out of it.

Yours very respectfully, JOHN G. DEANS.

STOCK, ONT., February 17, 1880.

We have great pleasure to state that the Pain-Killer holds its position in this place as the old, reliable family medicine. Although there are a great many other remedies in the market—some bearing nearly the same name—as Pain Relief, Pain Remover, Pain Destroyer, and such like names, we find the people know the difference, and are sure to ask for "Perry Davis" Pain-Killer. We have been selling Pain-Killer for the last fourteen years.

Yours truly, P. & P. MURPHY.

PORTLAND, ONT., March 9, 1880.

I have been using the Pain-Killer for many years with results that justify me in recommending it. As a family medicine, we consider it almost indispensable; being good not only as a pain killer, but for colds and sore throat, and many other ailments, for which it appears specially adapted. I have used it myself, singly as a stimulant, and find it valuable for rheumatism and sprains and stiffness belonging to old age. I pronounce the Pain-Killer a good and cheap medicine, and worthy of all acceptance. I have used it for many years, and I can assure the public that it is the best remedy in the world for which it is recommended.

Yours truly, THOS. GRAHAM.

ESCOTT, ONT., March 4, 1880.

We hereby certify that we have used Perry Davis Pain-Killer in our families for several years. We consider it a very useful and necessary article to be kept in all households as a resort in case of accidents and exposure to attacks occasioned by cold.

JEREMIAH CURTIN, J. J. DOWSLEY, JOSEPH P. REDMOND, ARCH. GREER.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 25, 1880.

I have used your Pain-Killer for the last twenty years. I carried it with me all through the American War. I believe I would have been dead long ago, if it had not been for your Pain-Killer. I think it is the best remedy in the world for which it is recommended.

Yours very truly, N. W. LAFONTAINE.

PORTLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have sold the Perry Davis Pain-Killer for over thirty years, and the same has always given my customers entire satisfaction, and I have much pleasure in recommending it as a good and reliable family medicine.

S. S. SCOVILL.

PRESCOTT, ONT., February 27, 1880.

I have sold your Pain-Killer for the last nineteen years in this place, and feel safe in recommending it to the public for the diseases given in your circular. I can assure you my customers speak well of it as a general family medicine. It takes the lead of all other similar preparations.

Yours, &c., GEO. DIRKS.

COBURG, ONT., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in this time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined itself, that goes to make a first class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry-Davis Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

Your Pain-Killer as a family cure all has been in constant use in my household for a long term of years, and I would never desire a better one. It never fails me. I call it the "Old Reliable."

Yours very truly, HORACE SEYMOUR.

TANWORTH, ONT., March 4, 1880.

For twenty-three years last past I have sold Perry Davis Pain-Killer, and have always found it to give good satisfaction. I have frequently used it in my family, and received great benefit from the use of it in that way. Although many imitations of it have been put on the market, and are pushed hard, yet the old, reliable Perry Davis Pain-Killer holds its own, and is a very popular do-good medicine.

Yours respectfully, JAS. AYLSWORTH.
