The Poet's Corner.

At the Door of the Year.

The corridors of time

Are full of doors,—the portals of closed years; We enter them no more, though bitter tears Beat hard agaist them, and we hear the chime Of lost dreams, dirge-like, in behind them ring At memory's opening.

But one door stands ajar. The New Year's; while a golden chain of days Holds it half-shut. The eager foot delays That presses to its threshold's mighty bar; And fears that shrink, and hopes that shou

We pause beside the door, Tay year, O God, how shall we enter in? How shall we thence Thy hidden treasure win Shall we retun in beggary as before,

Wisdom and heavenly health?

The foetsteps of a Child Sound close beside us! Listen! He will speak, His birthday-cry have hardly rung a week, Yet has He trod the world's press undefiled, "Come with Me!" hear Him through His smil

"Behold, I am the Way!" Against the door His face

Shines as the sun. His touch is a command The years unfold before His baby hand! The beauty of His presence fills all space.
"Enter through Me," He saith, "nor wander

For lo! I am the Door."

And all doors openeth He, The new-born Carist, the Lord of the New

And while He gives us back love's rusted key Our future on us with His eyes has smiled,

The Princess Louise at Ottawa

The St. John Freeman (the editor of which, Mr. Anglin, was the late speeker of the Commons, and his wife a promin ent lady in society of the Capital) referring to the story in the New York Times that the Princess Louise's dislike of Ottawa is largely due to a distaste for the society of Lady Macdonald, etc., adds

The story that Lady Macdonald and her set undertook to manage the princess, and that the princess resented the attempt, was very generally told and very generally believed in those days.

thereto:

Certain it was that the Princess and the ladies of her suite, on several occasions which may be considered public, treated Lady Macdonald with a degree of coldness and reserve (not to say repugnance) that was in marked con:rast to their treatment of other ladies, and was the subject of general comment. On one occasion in the great supper room of Rideau Hall the Princess, passing from the supper table, cordially saluted several of the ladies and gentlemen who, chat a little with the wife of an ex-minhead and a cold word. Whatever hap- fit from the medicine. pened previously to offend the Princess it is pretty certain that she was much the cures effected by Dr. Van Buren's hurt by the very shabby trick Sir John Kidney Cure. So much was Sir John's gross misconduct known cure for Coughs, Bronchitis, on that occasion felt, that the aides and Asthma, Hoarseness and all throat and secretaries almost publicly denounced lung troubles that terminate in Cousump Sir John's statements as utterly untrue tion.

It was scaicely to be expected that after this Her Royal Highness could so far master her feelings as to entirely far master her feelings as to entirely conceal the contempt and scorn she felt, but no one imagined that she attached so positively cure, then we consider it our much importance to what was said or Electric Bitters are truly a most valuadone by any one or two, or any dozen or two in Ottawa, as to go away and be unwilling to return because of it. No fault can be found with Lady Maedonald if she she really does seek to be come mistress of Rideau hall. It is probable, however, that Sir John prefers the substance of pover to the shadow.

There are many foolish things done in this world, and one of the most foolish (and we may add wicked) things is to neglect a Cough or Cold. Now we know that Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all Chest, Throat, and Lung Troubles, if neglected, are sure to end in Consumption and Death. They may be easily cured by using as directed Dr. Carson's Pulmonary Cough Drops, there is no remedy equal to it. It never fails. Sold everywhere in large bottles at 50c. For sale by Geo. Rhynas.

A Lively Meeting

London, Jan. 14.—When Davitt appeared before the meeting at Oldham last evening to beliver an address on the Irish question he was howled down by last evening to beliver an address on the Irish question he was howled down by an organized gang, who attempted to storm the platform, but were repulsed with one dose of Dr Smith's great Ger with chairs by the occupants of the plat-form. A free fight ensued, in which chair legs and brass knuckles were used, and many persons hurt. Davitt called the disturbers a cowardly crew, and de-clared if twenty men would follow him he would clear the hall of the gang. He advanced toward the latter for that puradvanced toward the latter for that purpose, but was restained by policemen. Addressing his opponents again, Davitt said they were miserable, contemptible, cowardly dogs. When they were sitting in taverns he was fighting the British Government. They were drunken blackguards, and a disgrace to the name of nationalities. If Ireland were made up such she would earn the contempt of the civilized world. He travelled through. civilized world. He travelled through-out England, and Englishmen, although his enemies, gave him a hearing. What a spectacle for the English was afforded by these professors of blackguardism at a time when Ireland was asking selfgovern ment. The police finally succeeded in removing the disturbers. A vote of thanks to Davitt was then passed.
