

Terrible Fatality.

24 GIRLS BURNED ALIVE OR DASHED TO DEATH—50 UNDER CARE OF SURGEONS. Special Evening Telegram.

Newark, N.J., Nov. 26. In twenty minutes 24 girls were burned alive this morning or crushed to death on the pavement by leaping from the windows and fire escapes of the four-story brick factory at Orange and High Streets here. The last counting shows that 16 of the 24 bodies recovered have been identified at the depot. Six girls are still missing. They may be among the unidentified dead or may be in the ruins. The collapse of a wall to-night interrupted further search. Fifty were taken to hospitals of which two may die. Among the injured is Joe Sloan, a fire chief, who was overtaken by the falling wall and buried in brick and rubbish. He is badly hurt, but may recover. The rush of the flames was so incredibly swift and put such unreasoning terror in the huddled working girls on the top floor that the body of one was still found seated on a chair stool beside the machine at which she had been busy when the first cry of "fire" perturbed her wits. Terrible as it must have been what went on in the smoke of the crowded upper floor, what befell those outside in the sunlight was more horrible yet. The building was very inflammable and the first gust of flames cut off all possibility of escape. The elevator made one trip but never came back. The only exit was by two narrow fire escapes, the lower platforms of which were 20 feet from the street. On to the overcrowded and steep ladders, scorched, dancing hot by the jets from lower windows, pressed forward a mob of women, blind with the panic, driven by the fire and the others behind them. A fire had been arranged beneath the windows and girls began to jump "like rats out of a burning bin," was the way a fireman described that pell-mell descent. They poured out of the windows, fell upon the heads of those below them, and cascaded off the fire escape to the pavement, 90 feet below. Some of them stood in the windows, outlined against the flames, and jumped clear of the landing; still others from the steps, where they stood. The air was full of them and they fell everywhere into the net, on the necks of firemen, and 15 of them on stone slabs. When the awful rain ceased there were 8 dead in the street and the gutters ran red. Seven were so badly crushed that they died in hospitals. Fifty are still under surgeons' care.

Balfour's Address

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Nov. 26. The election address of Arthur Balfour, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, is a brief document. It declares that the Unionist programme in legislation is practically the same as at the general election, and asserts that behind the single chamber of conspiracy lurks Socialism and Home Rule. "It is believed both Nationalists and Socialists are aware that their daring projects are not in harmony with the considered will of the people," says Mr. Balfour, "and they prefer the abolition of the only constitutional safeguard which at critical moments will enable that will to prevail." The Opposition leader also intimated with the greatest brevity to the alternative scheme for the reform of the House of Lords which Lord Lansdowne proposed.

HEALTH AND INCOME.

Both Kept Up on Scientific Food. Good sturdy health helps one a lot to make money. With the loss of health one's income is liable to shrink, if not entirely dwindle away. When a young lady has to make her own living, good health is her best asset. "I am alone in the world," writes a Chicago girl, "dependent on my own efforts for my living. I am a clerk, and about two years ago through close application to work and a boarding-house diet, I became a nervous invalid, and got so bad off it was almost impossible for me to stay in the office a half day at a time. "A friend suggested to me the idea of trying Grape-Nuts food which I had read of in a large number of newspapers. To-day, I am free from brain-tired, dyspepsia, and all the ills of an over-worked and improperly nourished brain and body. To Grape-Nuts I owe the recovery of my health, and the ability to retain my position and income." "Read 'The Road to Wellville' in pages 2 and 3." "There's a reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MARSHALL : BROTHERS.

Noel-Lilly Wedding.

The marriage of Mr. William Noel, of the surveying staff of the Department of Agriculture and Mines, to Miss Bertha Lilly, eldest daughter of Magistrate Lilly, of Trinity, took place at St. Paul's Church, Trinity, last Thursday. Rev. Canon Noel, R. D., father of the groom, officiated, assisted by Rev. C. W. Hollands, R. D., incumbent of Trinity. Amongst the large number of friends and well-wishers who attended the ceremony were: Rev. Frank Smart, Rector of Heart's Content, Mrs. Smart, who is sister of the groom, Rev. A. Strling, Rector of Trinity East, Rev. W. J. Lockyer, of Port Maria, N. S., and Hon. Robert Watson, Colonial Secretary. Miss Edith Lilly, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Miss Florence Noel, the groom's sister, was maid of honour. Mr. Archibald LeMessurier, cousin of the groom, was best man. At three p.m. the bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, while Miss Ethel Jenkins played an appropriate march. The bride looked charming in a beautiful wedding gown. After the ceremony an address was delivered by Rev. C. W. Hollands. The bridal party returned to the vestry after which a hymn was sung while they were signing the register. As the party left the church the organ struck up Mendelssohn's Wedding March. A reception was held afterwards at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lilly where the health of the bride was proposed by Hon. R. Watson to which the bridegroom responded who also toasted the bridesmaid;

Mr. LeMessurier responded on their behalf in appropriate terms. Rev. W. J. Lockyer followed in a witty and clever speech and proposed the toast of Mr. and Mrs. Lilly, parents of the bride, to which the Magistrate responded. Forty telegrams of congratulation were received during the evening; they were also the recipients of many handsome and useful gifts, including a silver tea set from the employees of the Office of Agriculture and Mines.

The newly wedded couple left by the S. S. Ethie next day for Harbor Grace where they will spend the honeymoon. The Telegram extends best wishes.

Examine It.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—As I was passing along Water Street about 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning I noticed quite a lot of horses carting coal to the Court House basement, and I presume this was for heating purposes. As a citizen who has to pay his share of cost of this coal, I would like to know the price we are paying for it. I understand the Board of Works in calling for tenders asked for Screened North Sydney Coal, and I can truthfully say that in the coal I saw, there was not a lump in it as big as a Tory's heart, and every one knows that is not as big as a "PULLEY'S EGG"; if the Prime Minister would have his comfortable abode in the second floor of the Court House and descend into the basement for a few minutes, he would see what I say is correct. If the Government is paying $6.50, which is the market rate for coal, they are really paying much more per ton for it, as I am sure more than much of it would be wasted by running through the bars. I would respectfully ask the Minister or the Secretary of the Board of Works to make a visit themselves to-morrow morning to examine the coal and see for themselves as to the truthfulness of this assertion. Yours truly, WATCH 'EM. St. John's, November 28th, 1910.

TIM'S OLD HAT. Amongst the many good stories told of Mr. Timothy Healy, the member for North Louth and one of the new King's Counsel, is one concerning a hat which he wore for ten years. After the notorious fight in the House of Commons in 1893, the mayor and corporation of Alexandria, Louisiana, called to Mr. Healy that, reading that his hat was broken in the melee, they had voted him a new silk hat, and a hat-case out of the public funds, and requested him to cable the size of his head. They sent him a new hat, which he undertook to wear to its utmost limits. Ten years later the whole House of Commons fairly gasped when, one fine afternoon, "Tim" appeared in a new silk hat. He had been so joked about his shabby hat that, after a decade's constant wear, he reluctantly decided to discard the gift, "with many a pang," as he said, "at parting with an old friend."

Olsen's Challenge Accepted.

By Saturday's express Martin Rock, a wrestler from Boston, arrived in the city. Mr. Rock is here to accept Olsen's challenge, which is appearing in the Boston American. He would like to meet Olsen by to-morrow afternoon so as to make arrangements for a match as quickly as possible. Rock is said to be a good man, having quite recently met and defeated John McKay, the lightweight champion of New England; Hugh Gordon, lightweight champion of the U. S. Navy, and drew with Bob Somerville, lightweight champion of all England.

Beware of it! There is every evidence that a low grade flimsy class of silverware is being marketed in this country. Stuff that looks nice, and sell cheap? It is not cheap at any price. It won't stand, and not worth repairing when broken. If you want a good piece of English goods at a reasonable price go to TRAPNELL'S.—adv. tf.

Two Men Assaulted.

Frank Horwood and J. Guest were going to their homes on the South Side Saturday night at 11 o'clock when three men jumped out from the enclosure at the R. N. Co. dock gate and assaulted them brutally. They knocked them down, kicked them and both men had two teeth knocked out of the front of their mouths and for day bore several bruises on their faces. It is said that the three men—Rogers, O'Neil and Carroll—will be summoned to court Wednesday by Horwood and Guest on a charge of assault.

I accept Young Olsen's challenge in the "Boston American" to wrestle any wrestler in the world at 147 lbs. "Catch-as-catch-can" style, "strangle hold" barred. Fifty dollars side bet. Sixty per cent. to winner, forty per cent. to loser. A reply by noon to-morrow (Tuesday), when arrangements may be made. MARTIN ROCK, Hotel Royal. nov28,tf

The S. S. Resolind, which under ordinary conditions should have reached here at four o'clock, p.m. yesterday from Halifax has not yet put in appearance and is delayed by fog. Last evening Messrs. CONTINUOUS BAD WEATHER.—Passengers by the Prospero inform us that the weather down north has been the means of placing business at a standstill and nothing like such a continuous bad spurt has been witnessed for many years. Thousands of quintals of fish are ready for shipment to St. John's but the weather prevents handling it. At Seldom and other places a number of schooners were sheltered out of the stormy weather.
