THE NICKEL.

Mid-Week Show.

The Vitagraph Stock Co. present Florence Turner in

The Shadow of the Guillotine.

A thrilling melo-drama of the French Revolution. That stirring period when the French Nation was on the verge of Republicanism is taken as the setting for this most impelling Vitagraph production. Every vital incident of its absorbing story is brought out with marked fidelity in costumes and historical data, and the film is unquestionably a masterpiece of its kind. The finale—when the Conquerer demands the execution of the Rebel and his fiancée—stands out most prominently, and will create an impression with the audience. All admirers of high-class acting, perfection of photography, and carefully handled pictures should witness the photo-play now featured at the Nickel during the mid-week show.

MOTHER!

The influence of a fond parent's love is beautifully conveyed in the above Pathé film. Two sons become estranged through a love affair, but the principles of mutual help, instilled by their departed mother, brings them safely out of a crisis and disperses the shadows which had previously encircled them.

Fred Sato And His Dog.

Fifteen minutes with one of the cleverest vaudeville acts on the American stage to-day.

By a Woman's Wit.

A pretty romance of the Civil War in America.
