Furious Fighting.

In the fourth round, however, Milligan's guard was pierced by a left to the head which severely cut his left eye. Handicapped, he nevertheless fought furiously in every minute of the remaining rounds and was given an ovation when he was declared the victor.

One newspaper report says of him that "he proved a resolute, straight hitting fighter with about every method of attack known to the ring; he gave his opponent a lesson in boxing."

How long Milligan will remain in the States is not known, but it is believed he will return before Christmas to fight Roland Todd for the British championship, and perhaps Len Johnson, the coloured Manchester man, who has twice beaten Todd. His future movements, however, will depend on whether he is offered a match for a world's championship. This is very likely; whether Milligan is as yet sufficiently experienced and "set" to meet a man like Greb is another matter.

WON £1,500—AUSTRALIAN'S LUCK IN MAURETANIA.

One of the highest records for auction pools on board Atlantic liners has been established by Mr. W. A. Gardner, who is returning to England from the United States in the Mauretania.

During the voyage he won two pools, of £170 and £178 respectively, as well as the first and third prizes in the sweepstakes. The approximate total of his winnings is £2,500.

On the voyage from England to the United States in the Adriatic, Mr. Gardner won the ship's pool no fewer than four times, winning about £1,000, making the total of his gains for the two voyages £1,500.

Mr. Gardner is a leather tanner from Australia.

PAUL BERLENBACH KNOCKS OUT SOLOMON IN NINE.

Babe Herman Held To Draw.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Giving away nineteen pounds to a game and courageous foe, Paul Berlenbach, world's light-heavyweight champion, this afternoon made an auspicious start in an attempt to qualify for a fight with Jack Dempsey by scoring a technical knockout over King Solomon, of Panama, in the ninth round of a ten-round match at the New York National League baseball park.

Berlenbach, weighing but 172 against 191 for the Central America heavy-weight, battered Solomon into submission after chasing him around the ring with a blinding barrage of blows to the body and head. The light-heavyweight champion was credited with winning every round of the one-sided contest by newspaper men at the ringside. Solomon kept his feet with difficulty until the eighth, when he was floored three times. After 31 seconds of the ninth round Referee Jack O'Sullivan stepped between them and sent Solomon to his corner, ending the fight.

Solomon's defeat was the second surprise of the day for a crowd of about 6,000 had previously seen Babe Herman of California, outstanding featherweight challenger, held to a draw by Joe Celmers, of New York, a comparative unknown.

Celmars entered the ring for his match with Herman on only a few hours' notice as a substitute for the retired featherweight champion, Johnny Dundee, who failed to appear for the weighing-in at the offices of the New York Boxing Commission. Celmar appeared to be slightly overweight at 131 1/2 against 126 for Herman.

He soon proved that he would make trouble for the Californian by flooring the latter with a terrific left hook soon after the opening of the first round.

During the next three rounds of the ten-round contest Celmers dominated the man who only recently held the champion, Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., in a draw, dazzling Herman with his speed and a sharp jab to the head. Displaying nimble footwork he made Herman miss with both hands as the crowd roared its approval, and it was not until the fifth round that the latter finally found the range. Herman rallied in the later rounds and brought the fight to even terms, in the opinion of the judges, by terrific right-handers to the chin which found Celmers always ready to mix. The draw verdict of the judges was received with disapproval by the crowd, a chorus of boos and hisses indicating that many believed Celmers entitled to the honors.

The third of three ten-rounders which featured the show, conducted as a benefit for the National Sports Alliance, brought together a pair of foot-footed lightweights, Jack Bernstein, of Yonkers, N.Y., and Sir Terris, of New York. It was their second meeting and Terris, who had won the previous bout, took the judges' decision again this afternoon. A fast left jab, which constituted Terris' chief weapon of defence, was matched against a falling left, when called upon by Bernstein. The jab proved the more effective of the two blows and Bernstein was bleeding at the mouth when the tenth ended.

REDDICK LOSES TO BOB FOX ON FOUL.

Canadian Light Heavyweight Title Changes Hands In Scrap at Stettler, Alta.

STETTLE, Alta., October 9.—The Canadian light heavyweight championship changed hands here last night, going to Bob Fox, of Stettler. He defeated Jack Reddick, of Moose Jaw, when the latter was disqualified at the end of the sixth round for hitting Reddick had been warned a couple of times about hitting low, before the referee called a foul awarded the bout to Fox.

Fox went to his corner apparently in agony at the end of the round, the referee left the ring after announcing that Reddick had fouled the Stettler boy.

Dr. Connolly, the club physician, examined Fox in his dressing room and announced that there was an injury to the groin.

New Styles for Men

The seal has been set upon the styles of the lounge suit which the well-dressed men will wear this autumn.

The predominating feature will be broad shoulders, and coats will be closer fitting about the hips, yet allowing plenty of breadth across the chest. The soft roll of the lapel, finishing at the top button, will be another detail to give added height to the figure.

Trousers will be normal. The baggy abominations which we have seen worn (but not by the best-dressed men) are taboo, and the measurements for the average man of 5ft. 9in. will be 21 1/2 in. at the knee and 19 in. over the shoe. Trousers of wider dimensions reduce the height of the wearer, whereas fashion this autumn will make a great effort to produce the opposite effect.

Double-breasted jackets, which look like being the most popular of all, are being cut with a broader cross-over—in other words, there is more of a panel effect, thus necessitating a wider setting of the buttons.

Notwithstanding this, the coat from the waist downward hugs the figure and is not cut extra long. Jackets or overcoats that are longer than usual tend to dwarf the wearer. Like the single-breasted, the double-breasted jacket will be very broad across the shoulders. Here let me say there is a decided tendency towards the military or square shoulder. Lapels on both the single and double-breasted jackets are broad, but not over-exaggerated, and always rolled soft. Pockets are still being worn without flaps, except where a ticket or change pocket is added to the right side.

Waistcoats are taking on renewed importance, inasmuch as light colours are being worn. The double-breasted style certainly leads the way, and when made up in any of the new pastel shades of powder blue for wear with a suit of the same colour but in a darker tone, of the new sun-burn, biscuit, or beige, as well as grey, it oftentimes adds a freshness to an otherwise well-worn suit.

With the double-breasted jacket the single-breasted waistcoat is correct, and to-day is made with a very narrow V-shaped opening, while the points at the waistline are inclined to be rather short and sit close together, not gaping too wide apart.

Giant Ray Fight

Two Brighton fishermen in a small motor-boat named Perseverance recently had a strenuous battle with a giant ray which became entangled in their net when they were about six miles from the shore.

"The boat was rocked and swayed as we fought for more than an hour with our captive," said Mr. Richard Overt, one of the men. "We had to get the ray to the surface and this entangled it in the net, which was torn to shreds by its strong tail. All our other fish escaped. We had to lash the ray to the end of the boat."

It was as much as six men could do to get on to a truck ashore. The ray, which is now in a tank in the aquarium, weighs about 600 lbs., and measures 6ft. 6in. from nose to tail, and 5ft. across.
