Box stoves, big stoves, cook stoves, little stoves, parlor stoves—all kinds of stoves and furniture, bedroom suites, mattresses, pillows, feather beds, and mattresses cleaned. Stoves bought at HUNT & SONS, 530 to 537 Richmond Street North. Telephone, 997.

Just arrived, a fine lot of new Extension Tables, polished oak, ash and elm, beautifully finished, the latest pattern and latest popular price—low, at Wm. Trafford's, 95 and 97 King Street.

The Wabash Railroad.
With its superb and magnificent train service is now acknowledged to be the most perfect railway system in America, the great winter tourist route to the south and west, including the famous Hot Springs of Arkansas, the Old Mexico (the Egypt of the new world), Texas and California (the land of sunshine and flowers). Passengers going by the Wabash never reach their destination in advance of other routes. Wabash trains reach more large cities than any other railroad in the world. Detailed information will be gladly furnished by any railroad agent or J. A. Richardson, northeast corner King and Yonge streets, Toronto.

On all British passenger steamers collections are made at the Sunday services for the Seamen's Aid Fund. A cup of muddy coffee is not wholesome. Neither is a bottle of muddy medicine. One way to know a reliable and skillfully prepared blood purifier is by its freedom from sediment. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is always bright and sparkling, because it is an extract and not a decoction.

THERE is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nulley this danger with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—a pulmonary acknowledged efficacy. It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swollen neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial claim to public confidence.

A Feast of Thanks.

Years pass like winds that cease to blow,
Like stars that fall from heaven's dome;
By winds of years, by winter snow,
Unquenched still gleam the lights of home.

Among the living or the dead,
O hearts we love, where'er ye be,
For you the sacred bread is spread,
The feast of love and memory!

Clear eyes, fulfilled of holier light,
Clear souls at peace past death's dim banks,
Through all that gloom of utter night,
Come, keep with us the day of thanks!

The waves of storm-scoured years
That roll their foam of grief and pain,
May flick the golden head with foam;
By the old hearth we sit no more;
Yet God be thanked for love and home!

Though hopes and joys, like April snow,
May melt, though good or grief befall,
For all man's life, for bliss or woe,
Be thanks said at this festive hall!

Old homes, old hopes, old friends, old days
Whereof full many a season parts—
For all, for all, to God be praise,
And most for love and kindly hearts!

A Local Budget

—Mr. John Graham, of Graham Bros., has gone east on a purchasing trip.

—Miss M. Harney has accepted a position as stenographer with Dr. F. C. LaGrange.

—Rev. Dr. Daniel, city, will lecture in the Methodist Church, Dundas, tomorrow night.

—Mrs. M. McKibbin, of Waterloo street, has gone to spend a few days with friends in Wingham and Kincardine.

—Ald. Parnell, of this city, supreme vice-president of the Sons of England, will be entertained by the Windsor lodge next Tuesday evening.

—The married ladies of the Askin Street Methodist Church will give a Thanksgiving concert and oyster supper on Thursday night. Both programmes and oysters will be first-class.

—Messrs. Arthur Little, Wm. L. Nicholson, R. C. Struthers and Thomas Dickson were among the London business men who returned from Europe on the steamer Campania's last trip.

—Miss Susy Shotwell, sister of Miss Mary D. Shotwell, of the Panny Davenport Company, now playing at the Grand in Toronto, is shortly to be married to Mr. Lowry, of Hamilton. After their marriage they will live in London.

—A special meeting of the board of trade has been called for four o'clock this (Wednesday) afternoon, when Mr. W. S. Fisher will deliver an address on the advantages of St. John, N.B., as a winter port. Mr. Fisher is president of the St. John board of trade.

—The late Mrs. Kent left a considerable sum of money to be disposed of for such charitable institutions as the judgment of her executor deemed best. He has just given $200 to the Presbyterian Mission Society through the —Rev. John Wakefield, of Dundas, well known here, received a call from the Tilsburg Methodist Church to become its pastor, but as the board in Dundas asked Mr. Wakefield to spend the fifth year in his present position, he declined the Tilsburg request.

A handsome spinning wheel, erected on the Church of St. John the Evangelist, corner of St. James and Wellington streets. The cost will be about $2,000. It is the generous gift of Mr. Thomas Kent, of this city. The brick work will be about 75 feet high and the woodwork 50 feet. The contractor is Wm. Hayman & Son. The carpenter work has been sublet to Wm. Cerry, and the galvanizing iron work to Stevely & Son.

—Rev. T. W. Charlesworth, late of this city, who has just settled as pastor of the Houghton First Baptist Church, has a most pleasant surprise when he moved to his house in Glad Creek on Monday last. A large crowd of people were on hand to receive him and his family, and they filled his pantry to overflowing with provisions, fruit and vegetables sufficient to last a long time. The best feeling exists between pastor and people, and is an earnest of a most happy parsonage.

—At the meeting of the water commissioners yesterday afternoon a couple of petitions for rebates on water rates were received and the usual accounts and requisitions passed. Short mains were ordered to be put on the Wellington road and Cathcart street.

A private conveyance was held by Mrs. Finch, owner of a property on the river front near Springbank, which is intended to buy. The object was to arrive at an agreement as to price in order to avoid arbitration, but no conclusion was reached.

—The microscopists organized for the season of 1914, of the Entomological Society on Saturday evening. Mr. John Balkwill was elected president; Mr. J. A. Bowman, secretary, and Messrs. R. W. Rennie and W. E. Saunders, with the officers, will form the managing committee. Meetings will be held regularly on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month. At the opening one, on Monday, Dec. 13, Mr. John Dearness will give an address, and various topics of interest will be discussed. All of the beautiful science of microscopy should ally themselves with this organization.

—A dispatch from Montreal says that the piano recital in Windsor Hall Monday night by August Hyllested, the celebrated Danish pianist, brought together a magnificent and cultured audience. This is Mr. Hyllested's first appearance in Canada, and may be accepted as an index of the success that will attend his recital in London on Friday evening. Students of music were more than delighted with his matchless skill and mastery of the piano, while society people were out en masse to see this wonderful man, who has charmed royalty in European cities, and been for many years the associate of the nobility. Tickets here are selling rapidly, and no time should be lost in securing seats. Plan is open at Heinemann's warerooms, 238 Dundas Street. Prices, 50c, 75c, and $1.

—A twentieth century social, under the direction of the social committee of the Y. P. S. C. E., was held in the school room of the Central Methodist Church last night. It was very largely attended, and the audience enjoyed a good programme of instrumental music provided by Messrs. Platt, Gray and H. C. Simpson. Mrs. Ed. James and Miss Maria Shaw, Rev. W. J. Ford presided. Each person present was given the privilege of guessing at the proper ingredients of a Scripture cake, and a round table of guesses a verse from the Bible was furnished, containing the name of one of the necessities. Miss Jennie Guest, the fourth in line, was the only one who properly named the different ingredients and the amount of each.

A WELCOME GUEST.

Pa—Not this trip, Willie. Dogs don't have wishbones.

TRADES AND LABOR CANDIDATES.

The question of placing candidates in the field at the municipal elections will be discussed last night by the Trades and Labor Council, but action was postponed for two weeks. The mayoralty contest was not discussed.

O'CALLAGHAN TERRACE SOLD.

Alderman George W. O'Callaghan has purchased from Mrs. M. Daly the well-known O'Callaghan terrace, corner of Ridout and Dundas streets, comprising ten brick houses. Ald. O'Callaghan has also bought the Dundas street property west of the terrace, which includes a shop a barn, and several vacant lots.

A THANKSGIVING OFFERING.

The teachers of the Princess avenue school decided that instead of having celebrations of Christmas at school this year, they would make an offering on Thanksgiving for the poor.

Scholars were to give whatever they could and bring their gifts to the school yesterday. The amount of money given was a little over $7. The basement of the school was crowded with baskets of food of all kinds. There were chickens, ducks, vegetables, cereals, bread, tea, coffee, etc.; also clothes, among which was a good warm cloak suitable for an old lady. The offerings were given to the society called King's Daughters. The society will distribute the contributions among those whom it thinks worthy, so that many of the deserving poor of London will have indeed something to be thankful for.

LAND OF THE MIDNIGHT SUN.

The talk by Mr. Frank Yeigh, in Dundas Center Methodist Church last evening, on his travels in Norway, entertained about 300 people. The lecturer first gave a synopsis of what was to come. He alluded to the feeling of hatred that prevailed in Norway against Sweden, although the two countries were under the same king.

The calcium light pictures were most interesting and edifying, and set forth the beauties of the realm of the reindeer and the land of the midnight sun, to the delight of the audience. Among the most remarkable of the pictures were those of the mountains and waterfalls of Norway. One of these presented the highest far in the world and another the oldest wooden church in the world. It is now, the lecturer said, in a complete state of preservation, and is 700 years old. The audience appreciated the quaintness of the twelfth century architecture. Other pictures of the Highlands of Scotland, the home of Burns and Scott, together with their tombs, and scenes along the coast and of the many castles, were well received. Miss Eva Robby, rendered two solos during the evening, the last one of which was given from behind the curtain as the pictures of the interior of the great European cathedrals were being shown. The proceeds will be devoted to the Young Ladies' Mission Circle.

Dr. Wood-Allen Speaks

The Noted Lecturer Addresses Two Audiences Here.

The Evening Subject "Ghosts of the Future"—The Principle of Heredity Treated in a Masterly Manner.

Dr. Wood-Allen, of Ann Arbor, Mich., addressed two meetings in the Auditorium yesterday. In the afternoon she spoke to women only, the house being filled. In the evening her subject was "Ghosts of the Future." The attendance was rather small. Dr. Wood-Allen is national superintendent of the purity department of the W. C. T. U., and national lecturer of the department of heredity and hygiene. She has a handsome, intellectual face, a clear, musical voice, and other graces of the orator. Her evening address was a most able and attractive exposition of the principles of heredity, and the lessons to be derived therefrom.

Mr. C. R. Sayer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., presided. A Scriptural reading by Mrs. Gordon Wright, a hymn by the audience, and prayer by Mr. Fred W. Daly comprised the devotional exercises.

Mrs. May R. Thornley briefly referred to the coming prohibition contest. There were reasons as high as heaven and as deep as the abode of the lost, why the liquor traffic should be overthrown. They did not know whether the plebiscite would come in the form it ought to, or as they wanted it, but they hoped it would come.

Dr. Wood-Allen was introduced by Mr. Sayer in a few eulogistic words. When we considered how greed, monopoly and intemperance were the cause of the characteristics of one generation were not simply made manifest in that generation, but passed on to the future, what might we see as the ghosts of the future? asked the lecturer.

Dr. Wood-Allen dwelt at length on the nature of heredity, and showed how the principle applied to animal, vegetable and human life. Every human being had a three-fold inheritance—race, parent and family. As Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "We are all omnibuses, in which our forefathers ride." Some wished they could dump the whole lot of their progenitors, and felt sure that they could pick up a better lot by the way. (Laughter.)

The lecturer thought of a homelier figure—that we were like rag carpets, in which were woven the traits of our forefathers and foremothers, with the warp of our own individuality. The speaker cited several remarkable cases of the transmission of physical and mental peculiarities from generation to generation. If we lessened our own vitality we defrauded our descendants. Did the inebriate devotee upon his children the vitiation of alcohol? Medical science says yes. It had been shown that grandfathers could transmit qualities through their daughters to their grandchildren. It was easier for the children of pious people to be pious than for the children of drunkards. Intellectual traits were transmissible, and so were the effects of education. An acquired characteristic in the parents became an hereditary characteristic in the child. Some men said they did not want intellectual wives, but cake and as always wanted intellectual children. They seemed to think that all intellectuality was inherited from the father. (Laughter.) A cultured mother rendered her children more capable of culture. Were we not each a link in the endless chain of transmission? We each were not responsible for our dower of intellect; we were responsible for its cultivation. We were not responsible for our moral nature; we were responsible for its direction. Herbert Spencer laid down fine laws for the education of children in the order of importance; first they should be taught the lessons which tend directly to the preservation of life; secondly, the lessons which tend indirectly to that purpose; thirdly, the duties of citizenship; fourthly, the duties of parentage; fifthly, the acquisition of accomplishments. Liquor sellers were not only factors in making drunkards; pure Christian women were partly responsible by giving their children drunken fathers. In one phase the happenings of heredity was appalling; on the other side it was a most glorious outlook.

On Monday afternoon Dr. Wood-Allen will lecture in the Auditorium to ladies only on the subject, "How to be Beautiful."

$4500 REDUCTION.

The Proof Line Road Company's Assessment Now $500 Instead of $5,000—Other Appeals Before Judge Elliot.

Judge Wm. Elliot concluded the hearing of appeals from the court of revision yesterday, and all but those of the Proof Line Road Company and Mr. E. Weld, were dismissed. The former's assessment was reduced from $2,000 to $500. Mr. M. D. Fraser appeared for the company, and argued that as the road was devoted entirely to the interests of the city, the company having to keep it in repair, and be liable for all damages, the assessment should be reduced to $250. His honor fixed it at $500, however, which was $4,500 less than the original assessment, the court of revision having reduced it from $5,000 to $2,000.

E. Weld was allowed a reduction on three lots from $75, $75, and $80, to $50 each.

John Taylor, owner of the Peacock trial grounds, wanted $2,000 taken off his assessment of $4,850. Dismissed.

Wm. David, of Mount Pleasant street, against assessment of $500 on his two houses. Dismissed.

Alex. Harvey, against $1,500 on the old exhibition grounds at the north end of Talbot street. This the judge dismissed also.
