The Canada Business College,

Canada's greatest school of SHORTHAND and BUSINESS training, still holds a very strong lead over its contemporaries.

No better evidence of this claim need be offered than the following, which shows how widely this justly popular school is patronized:

147 cities, towns and villages in Canada, United States and Newfoundland represented in the attendance during the year to date.

30 counties in Ontario, six of the United States, together with 5 from Manitoba and Alberta, have sent representatives. They come from the Atlantic on the east, to the Pacific on the west. Distance proves no hindrance to those who are determined to attend the best.

A SMALLPOX CASE.

A Gloucester correspondent writes to The Advertiser: Maitland Waterworth, son of David Waterworth, Woodgreen postoffice, township of Mossa, came home from Ellitsville, Indiana, last Friday suffering from smallpox. The house is under quarantine, and everything possible is being done to prevent the spread of the disease.

THE "MASCOT."

John E. Young's Merry Opera Company appeared at the Grand last night in the "Mascot." The company is a capable one, and gave a splendid interpretation of this popular piece. CARD OF THANKS.

Editor of The Advertiser: As I am not able to see personally, and thank all the members of the county council, and the courthouse and the county officials, for their extreme kindness during my recent bereavement. I desire to take this means of publicly thanking the warden and county councilors, and all the county and courthouse officials for their uniformly courteous and generous treatment of my late husband, especially during the last few months of his life, when his health was not good. I further desire to thank the warden and county councilors for their kindness in not hastily disturbing me in my present home. I shall do everything in my power to show my appreciation of their great kindness to me and to my late husband, Mrs. William Fletcher.

THOMPSON—HOTSON.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Feb. 14, at the family residence, seventh concession of McGillivray, when Miss Kate, second daughter of Mr. John Hotson, was united in marriage to Mr. William Thompson, of Biddulph. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Courts, of Ailsa Craig. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. John Hotson, while the wedding march was played by Mrs. Armstrong. Miss Lizzie Hotson, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was assisted by his brother, Hiram Thompson. The bride was suitably attired in white organdie, wearing a bridal wreath and veil, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests sat down to a choice wedding breakfast, after which they spent a very sociable evening in amusements and games. There were guests from Brantford, St. Thomas, London, Parkhill and the surrounding vicinity. The presents were numerous and valuable, not only intrinsically, but because of their usefulness, which showed the interest that was taken in their choice by the many friends of the young couple.

Amusements.

MARY SANDERS' DICKENS RE-VIVAL AT THE GRAND.

The Mary Sanders Company, in "Little Nell and the Marchioness," at the Grand next week, bids fair to be one of the most artistic dramatic events of the season. Neither time, money, care nor skill have been spared to make this presentation of Mr. Mawson's dramatization of Dickens' "Old Curiosity Shop" a complete success. The scenery is designed from the best drawings and plates which could be found. The costumes, too, are from designs that have the authority of experts to rest upon. A thorough Dickens atmosphere pervades and animates every scene, from the raising of the curtain on "The Old Curiosity Shop" in the first act to its final drop on Dick Swiveller's lodgings in the last.

STORM AND SUNSHINE.

Can't be singin' all the year—Life is half a sigh; But hope'll bring the sweeter song An' sing it by an' by.

Storm and sunshine day by day—Morrow can't destroy While we're hearin' on the way All the bells of joy!

PROGRESSIVE BUSINESS HOUSE

John C. Green & Co. Alter and Enlarge Their Premises—A Superb Stock of Millinery.

An advertiser representative, having his attention attracted to the premises by signs of improvements and alterations being made, paid a visit last week to the wholesale millinery establishment of John C. Green & Co., 422, 424 and 426 Ridout street. On entering the downstairs showroom through the new vestibule that has been built, a handsome interior presented itself. A new hardwood floor has been laid, new woodwork constructed and a new metal ceiling put in. The walls have been finished in Nile green, with mouldings in white and gold. The private office is in sky blue, with the woodwork in mahogany and the mouldings in old ivory.

After a look into the airy, well-lighted workroom, where 30 or more deft-fingered milliners were busily converting flowers, feathers and ribbons into dainty creations in ladies' headgear, a visit was paid to the packing room in the basement, where large quantities of goods were being prepared for shipment to all parts of the Dominion. These two departments have been removed from the second floor to their present more convenient location.

Ascending to the second flat, a great change was at once apparent. The partitions that formerly divided the workroom and packing room from the showroom, have been removed, and the whole flat thrown into one large room, about 150x75 feet in dimension, and possessing excellent facilities for lighting. This is the largest flat in the city, and probably the largest millinery showroom in Canada. This large space is entirely taken up with a complete and varied stock of millinery supplies.

Space will not permit of the enumeration of the various articles that enter into the composition of the stock, but among them were piles of straw trimmings, rolls of silks and other goods, ribbons, flowers, feathers and millinery novelties of all kinds. One corner of the showroom is devoted to the display of trimmed hats, and over 600 pattern hats will be on exhibition at the spring opening. Some of these hats are imported from the best of Paris and New York modistes, while others are from the firm's own workroom.

The gratifying growth of the business is best illustrated by the fact that since the firm devoted their energies exclusively to the wholesale millinery trade, they have been compelled to so enlarge their premises that they now occupy nearly twice the floor space they formerly did.

Actively associated in the business with Mr. Green is his brother, Mr. Harry Green, who was for some years connected with leading wholesale millinery establishments in New York city. Mr. Green himself goes to New York every month in search of the newest lines, and twice a year visits the English, French and German capitals, keeping thoroughly in touch with the latest products of the world's great millinery markets. The firm employs a large and efficient staff, having no less than seven travelers on the road.

For the convenience of the firm's eastern trade, a branch warehouse was opened in Toronto at 56 Bay street, some three years ago. The firm makes an opening display to the trade only in London the week of Feb. 26, and in Toronto the week of March 5.

Mr. Adam Misener, of Troy, Beverly township, celebrated his 102d birthday yesterday. Mr. Misener was born near Niagara Falls on February 20, 1818, and has resided in Beverly since 1818.

The Light Of Other Days.

THE FIGHT POSTPONED.

The coming encounter between Jimmy Smith, of Toronto, and Sandow Snyder, of Detroit, at the Grand Opera House here, has been postponed to March 2. The date set is the first Friday of next month, and the change made is in order to accommodate many travelers not in town on Tuesdays, and also those members of clubs who close the year on Tuesday, of which there are said to be several.

Another Pleasant Musical Evening

Londoners are having an unusual feast of music this season—cantatas, cantata, sacred and mixed programmes—and all of a high class. And it must be very encouraging to the promoters of the various entertainments to realize the substantial appreciation their efforts are receiving, as shown by the splendid attendance. The concert given by Dundas Street Center choir last evening drew a large and keenly appreciative audience. Mr. W. H. Hewlett, the talented young musician, opened the programme with an organ solo, which was greatly appreciated. The principal attraction was the well-known Detroit Philharmonic String Quartet, and while this organization has always found a warm welcome here, the members must have felt highly elated at their reception last evening. It seems almost incredible that four ordinary stringed instruments in the hands of talented artists could be made productive of such varied and exquisite harmony. The club's opening number (Von Dittersdorf's "Theme and Variations") was a delightful movement, while the "Serenade" (Flala) displayed excellent pizzicato performance, which was delightful. The "Bohemian Volks Song" (Kraussmeyer) abounded in rich and quaint melody, and was an evening selection. Mr. Frederic L. Abel is a master of the cello, which is probably the most effective of string instruments. His rendering of "Berceuse and Variations" was a delightful movement, while the "Serenade" (Flala) displayed excellent pizzicato performance, which was delightful.
