Occurred That Cost Sidney Ham His Life.The Cleveland Leader of Sunday, in referring to the death of the late Sydney Ham, who was killed in an elevator accident in that city, says:"Sydney Ham was a resident of London, Canada. He came here a short time ago and procured employment at the works of the North Manitoba Company, No. 61 Frankfort street. Yesterday morning, about 10 o'clock, he went to the sixth story of the building, to mark up his time on the time clock. After so doing, he stepped to the elevator shaft. The car which is used for the accommodation of passengers, was at the floor above. The door of the shaft is guarded by a gate which automatically lifts as the car reaches the floor. Ham lifted the gate and looked down the shaft. He probably intended to pull the cable and bring the car to the floor he was on. In some way he lost his balance and fell down the shaft.
He made a frantic effort to save himself by seizing one of the ropes passing through the shaft. Just as he reached the bottom of the shaft, Wm.
Lacey, of No. 86 1/2 Lyman street, stepped to the shaft on the ground floor and pulled the cable to start the car down. He was terribly shocked to see Ham strike the bottom of the shaft in front of him. He had presence of mind enough to stop the progress of the car, which had started on its downward journey. Aid was summoned, but it was found that the fall had instantly killed Ham. He sustained a compound fracture of the left leg above and below the knee, and fatal internal injuries."GIVEN UP TO DIEWas Mr. E. N. Stowell, but Dodd's Kid-that his case is hopeless and that he granted, in a pretty bad way.

That was the position of Mr. E. N.
Stowell, of this city, not long ago.
He had suffered all the agonies of Bright's Disease for several years. The ablest physicians had pronounced his case hopeless, and he had begun to "set his house in order," when a friend urged him to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. One box put new life in him, seven boxes cured him. Now his friends hardly know him for the same denly Monday morning in the trea-was employed as a clerk. Miss Chapman left home in the morning as usual and proceeded to business.

About 11 o'clock she complained of feeling ill and lay down on a sofa in a room adjoining her office. Medical assistance was at once procured. Miss Chapman rapidly grew worse, however, and expired at about 11:30, the immediate cause of death being heart failure, the result of epileptic attacks from which she had previously suffer-

Toronto General Trust Corporation, acting for Mr. P. H. McLeod, of London, Ont., agreed to accept $25,000, and costs, amounting to $3,800, in settlement of Mr. McLeod's claim against Charles Henry Butler, son of William Allen Butler, one of the most eminent attorneys in the state, and ex-president of the Bar Association of New York city, and by whose exertions, with Charles N. Morgan & Son, attorneys for the Toronto company, the matter was settled. When Mr. McLeod's consent was asked by Butler's attorney he refused to give it, but Charles Henry Butler claims that he can hold the company to that basis, and that McLeod and the Trust Corporation can fight it out, even though it compels matters in the several suits between them, which Butler says the company has the best of, owing to their influence and wealth.""THE FEMALE DRUMMER."— One of the best attractions of the season was the verdict of those whoA SOUR STOMACHIs Often the Real Cause of a Sour Temper.That the condition of the digestive organs has a marked effect upon the character or disposition is a truism as old as the hills. Old Ben Johnson wisely said "The pleasure of living depends upon the liver, and it is a fact which none may dispute that a sunny disposition more often results from a healthy digestion than from any other cause."Acid dyspepsia, commonly called sour stomach or heartburn, is caused by slow digestion of food; instead of being promptly digested and converted into blood, bone and muscle, it lies in the stomach for hours, fermenting and decaying, creating gases which cause pressure on the lungs and heart, short breath and general discomfort and irritation.Such half-digested food is indeed poor nourishment for the body, brain and nerves, and the result is shown in irritable tempers, unaccountable headaches and that depressing condition usually called the "blues," but how quickly all these disappear when appetite and digestion are restored.Laxative medicines only irritate the already irritated stomach and bowels and have no effect upon actual digestion of food.The sensible course to follow is to make use of simple natural digestives like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals until the stomach has a chance to recuperate.The natural digestives which every healthy stomach contains are pep-tones, diastase and hydrochloric acid and when any of them are lacking the trouble begins; the reason Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are so valuable in curing stomach troubles is because they contain, in a pleasant concentrated tablet form all these absolutely necessary essentials for perfect digestion and assimilation of food.Henry Kirkpatrick, of Lawrence, Mass., says: "Men and women whose occupation precludes an active outdoor life should make it a daily practice to use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals. I have done so myself, and I know positively that I owe my present health and vigor to their daily use."From the time I was 22, when I graduated from school with broken health from overwork, until I was 34 I scarcely knew what it was to be free from stomach weakness. I had no appetite whatever for breakfast and very little for any other meal.I had acidity and heartburn nearly every day and sometimes was alarmed by irregularity and palpitation of the heart, but all this gradually disappeared after I began using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I can eat my meals with relish and satisfaction which I had not known since I was a growing boy.The success and popularity of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is enormous, but it is deserved, and every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain has a good word for this meritorious preparation.AN IMPORTANT attended the performance of "The Fe-

House yesterday. Crowded houses greeted the offering, both afternoon and evening. The piece abounds with mirth-provoking situations and sayings, and the fun is continuous from the rise of the drop of the curtain.
Helen Byron, as the female drummer, displayed the nifty qualities that characterize those individuals, to perfection, while Nellie O'Neill, as the cash girl, the tough satirist, and in her songs, was a great favorite. Wm.
P. Sweetman, an old-time negro minstrel, gave an inimitable personation of the colored porter, and Harry Liddell was the nimblest of grotesque actors

Meeting of Municipal Campaign.Speeches Delivered by the Mayoralty and Aldermanic Nominees—Hall Was Decidedly Chilly and Electors Scarce.A rather small knot of citizens huddled about the small box-stove in the East End Hall last night, and with coats and hats on, shivered through one of the least exciting meetings of any that have been held in a municipal campaign. It was not the most likeable thing possible to sit in an uncomfortable hall during a whole night and listen to nominees tell why they should be the chosen of the people, and only those who had no more interesting place to go to remained very long. The climatic conditions were such that not even the speakers had enough energy to warrant the removal of their overcoats.Upon the platform were Mr. H. E.
Ashplant, who presided, Mayor Rum-ball, Mr. W. H. Bartram, Ald.
Douglass, Cooper, Winnett, Drea-ney, Messrs. Joseph, Graham, A.
C. Chisholm, J. W. Pocock, Alex. Mc-Rae, J. W. Smith, G. Taylor and J.
M. Parsons.MAYOR RUMBALL.Mayor Rumball, who spoke first, dwelt upon some of the matters he spoke of on the evening before. He wished to deny that he owned vacant land along the route of the proposed spur line, and in speaking of the opposition that was being made to this scheme, he said that some people were so small of soul that they could see nothing of good in any but themselves. It was not true, he said, that he suggested the acceptance of a $15-000 rental for the L. and P. S. road.
He was in favor of the lease extension. The Walkers were giving the city connection by railway with 200 miles of their own lines. This would cost the city of no money. On the other hand, London had paid $100,000 for the L. H. and B., and considered the money well expended. The G. T. R. had done a great deal for London, but he would not favor reletting the road to them.He spoke also of some of the financial matters of last year, which Ald. Douglass had left so large a deficit while chairman of No. 2 committee, and charged him with having paid 35 cents a yard for filling in the West London breakwater, while it had been done last year by Ald. Winnett for 14 cents. In a reference to his other opponent, the mayor said that he did not think the citizens wanted Mr. Bartram, who had cost them $1,000 last year in law expenses.ALD. DOUGLASS.Ald. Douglass, in opening his speech, followed Mayor Rumball's patriotic suggestion, and said that he, too, was in favor of a monument to the soldiers who fell in Africa. He admitted that he had been opposed to the abolition of wards, but claimed that when the people voted for it he was the first to move in committee that their wishes be carried out. He had objected to the mayor taking the ruling of the attorney-general by which it was possible for all the aldermen to come from London South or anywhere else.Ald. Douglass said that he was in opposition to the spur line, because it would only benefit a few, and would cost the city $100,000 or $150,000, for the right of way. He denied being responsible for deficits, and said that he had always voted for the lowest tender.OTHER SPEAKERS.After a speech by Mr. Bartram, who detailed his reasons for seeking election, the chairman called upon the nominees for water commissioner. Mr. J.
W. Pocock and Mr. J. M. Parsons responded. The former said that if he were elected he would use his best efforts in the city's interests. He favored the construction of a new reservoir and a reduced rate. Mr. Parsons, too, wanted reduction of rates. HeThe responsibility of the architect lies not only in the designing of the building; the placing together of the component parts are equally as important; so that when completed the edifice will entail solidity as well as magnificence.The foreman and designer of the Fit-Reform has such a task to share.The value of the cutting of the garments, likewise the making and trimming—without this the clothing would not hold its shapeliness nor give to it the individuality which has made the Fit-Reform so famous.Fit-Reform Wardrobe*ROBERT M. BURNS, vious municipal experience. He reviewed the R. E. O. P. A. platform, condemning some of the planks, and favoring others. He would do his best to further an honest and economical administration.Ald. Winnett, while speaking of the breakwater expenditure, denied a statement made by Ald. Douglass that the teamsters' wages were ground down.

After endorsing the city engineer, he said that the city's interest was his interest, and, if elected, he would do the best he could to further it.Ald. Dreahey had had thirteen years' experience in the council, and he said he had been continually placed in the background because of his sanction by the Trades and Labor Council. He considered that the mayor had been right on the Port Stanley road question. He was in favor of business men controlling the hospital.Mr. Alex. McRae was opposed to all combines, political or otherwise.Mr. A. C. Chisholm was in a sarcastic mood, the particular objects of his remarks being Mr. Bartram and the Socialist candidates.Mr. F. J. Darch highly praised the star spoken by Ald. Ross upon the

fixed assessments, nor water exemptions. He would not want the belt line if its construction meant loss to the ratepayers, although it would benefit him personally. He would retain his individuality if elected.Ald. Cooper said that to retain one's individuality was impossible, although, while a Tory, he had never voted wrong. He never neglected his duty to the city. He was not going to withdraw from the contest.REFUSED HIM yesterday to give a night's lodging to Rev. Daniel Webster Davis, a colored and cultured gentleman, an author, teacher, lecturer and humorist of admirable abilities. This was the treatment accorded to Mr. Davis for the first time in all his travels, and in a city of the Dominion that, as he said yesterday afternoon, has always symbolized freedom in the minds of the colored race. When Mr. C. R. Sayer made it known last night to the crowded audience at the Auditorium the action of the hotelmen was loudly hissed. Mr. Sayer said that at the last place where Mr. Davis had applied he was told that an agreement had been entered into by which the hotel-keepers bound themselves not to receive any colored man as a guest.

He himself had telephoned to the two leading hotels in the city and asked if they had any room for a guest of his, and was told that they had. When he said that he was a colored man, they said that they could not receive him. After fruitlessly endeavoring to get lodging, Mr. Davis was tempted to leave the city, thinking that in a place where such a thing could occur no one would want to hear him.BAD COMPLEXIONS
