This is the keynote of Thomas W. Lawson's latest attack on the Wall street "system," published in the curstreet "system," published in the current issue of Everybody's Magazine. The article is "The Story of Amalgamated." It is merely the introductory chapter—prefaced by a review of the financial events of the last month.

Mr. Lawson refers to his advertised warning to Amalgamated stockholders, which was followed by a break in the market, and says the promoters attempted to recoup their losses by again unloading on the public the stock which they had been forced to buy at top-notch prices. He reprints Colonel W. C. Green's letter, threatening to arnihilate the Boston financier, and declares that Greene, speaking for the "System," failed to answer any of his charges.
