STRATFORD MAYOR DECIDES TO RETIRE

Indications Point To Three-Cornered Contest in Classic City.

Special to The Advertiser. Stratford, Nov. 15.—Indications this year point to a three-cornered mayorship contest, with Ald. C. R. Myers, Ald. Tom Brown and Ald. J. B. Waugh as contenders. Mayor W. H. Gregory, who is completing his second year, is retiring. Another name mentioned is Ald. H. Paul. There is much uncertainty among the aldermen, though four have decided to run again, namely: Ald. Buller, S. C. Cooper, S. L. Ireland and James Melchum. J. J. Mason and Thomas Clark, will again seek election to the public utilities commission. Four of the board of education must seek reelection, namely: Mrs. Deacon, H. H. Dempsey, Dr. Edt and A. F. Waddell.

Avon Chapter, I. O. O. F., donated $150 to the local war memorial. It was decided to furnish a room in the new wing of the hospital.

As a result of the decision of the Grand Jurors to restore the seniority of conductors who took part in the strike of 1910, about 41 conductors in Stratford district will benefit.

An epidemic of petty thieving is prevalent here. The thieves have centered their efforts on milk bottles which are left out with the money in them.

During July, August, September and October the public health nurse has visited 1,175 children under six years. There were 16 baby clinics, with an attendance of 733. There were 870 homes visited.

The advisory vocational committee of the board of education is going ahead to provide a vocational school for Stratford in a self-contained building separate from the Collegiate Institute. The location was not decided, but a site near the Collegiate is favored.

O. A. C. EX-STUDENTS ARRANGE PARLEY

Representative Delegates Will Discuss Phases of Agricultural Education At Toronto.

Special to The Advertiser. Guelph, Nov. 15.—It was announced today by the president of the Provincial O. A. C. Alumni Association, an organization of ex-students of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, that a conference on the various phases of agricultural education in Ontario is scheduled to be held in the city of Toronto on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, November 21 and 22, at the Carleton Place Hotel.

The conference will be held under the auspices of the O. A. C. ex-students, but the co-operation of all provincial organizations of agricultural education has been enlisted, and it is expected that delegates will be appointed by most of the organizations to attend as representatives of the special lines of agriculture with which they deal. The co-operation of the provincial departments of agriculture and education has also been secured, and delegates are being named by the ministers of these departments to represent them in the discussions. All told, about 225 delegates have been invited in anticipation of a thoroughly representative body of farm men and women, who will be able to discuss the various phases of agricultural education and extension work as they affect all parts of the province.

Specialized Education. During Tuesday afternoon the question of specialized agricultural education will be discussed each phase of the question being introduced by brief addresses, after which the majority of the time will be allowed for discussion by the delegates. Brief speeches will be made by the Hon. Manning W. Doherty, minister of agriculture, and Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education. President S. Reynolds, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and Miss Cruickshank, principal of Macdonald Institute, Guelph, will answer the question, "Do the Agricultural College and Macdonald Institute function satisfactorily in specialized education?"

W. J. Bell, principal of the Kemptonville Agricultural School, will tell the story of the agricultural school in the teaching of agriculture; J. A. Carroll, agricultural representative for Peel County, will discuss the situation of the agricultural representative to specialized education, and J. E. McCrostie and Omer Turney will discuss the extension of specialized education to the farm.

The session Tuesday evening will be devoted to a discussion of rural education for the rural districts. This subject has been divided into various parts including the public school, the high school, the agricultural college and Macdonald Institute and other agencies.

The session on Wednesday will be devoted to a discussion as to whether our present educational scheme is properly balanced and to suggest ways for the improvement of present educational machinery. Leaders in the discussion at this session include Professor J. A. Macdonald, department of farm economics at the O. A. C., Guelph; M. H. Staples, director of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; and W. C. Good, M. P., Paris.

First Representative Conference. Other conferences dealing with the subject of agricultural education have been held in the past, but this is the first attempt to record in Ontario to get representatives of all organizations of farmers together for the sole purpose of discussing from all angles the problem of education in rural districts. It is to be hoped that some constructive recommendations will be possible as a result of the discussions, but it is felt that discussion only of the various questions involved would be amply warranted for the event, in view of the increased interest which it will arouse. This is especially true now because, coming as it will immediately prior to the holding of the first royal agricultural winter fair, delegates will have a splendid opportunity to remain over for some of the more important judging of livestock and other products exhibited at the fair.

Find Druggist Haled Into Court For Reckless Driving Not Owner of Car

Toronto, Nov. 15.—This is a comedy of two cars. It is nearly a tragedy as well, because it involved P. J. Lister, Toronto druggist, in a charge of reckless driving on the highway—to wit, with his arm around a young lady, and Mr. Lister is entirely innocent of the heinous "crime."

Last September Mr. Lister turned in an old car to a local dealer and bought a new one. The dealer was to arrange for the transfer of the license of the old car, Mr. Lister says, but he neglected to do so until Nov. 2.

In the meantime, a constable at Bronte saw someone misbehaving himself in the old car. He took the number, and in a few days Mr. Lister received a summons, ordering him to court on Nov. 14.

Mr. Lister called the dealer in a hurry, and the latter says Mr. Lister, promised to fix things up at once.

The summons went, then, to the proper party, but, unfortunately, the license of the old car, Mr. Lister says, but he neglected to do so until Nov. 2.
