SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL RETURNS

Prominent Canadian Back From a Trip Through the Yukon Valley.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, a former premier of Canada, and one of the leading public men of the Dominion, arrived in the city last night and registered at the Grand Hotel.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell has been on an extended trip through the Yukon valley. He has visited Dawson and the Klondike, and after making the trip down the lengthy Yukon to St. Michael came down to Seattle as a special guest on the United States transport, Egbert.

Having traveled the full length of the Yukon river, going through to Dawson from Skagway, via the White Pass & Yukon railway to White Horse, and by one of the steamer to Dawson, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, I have seen the country, and am convinced that this great northwest is a wonderful country, and one which offers great possibilities.

Unlike many other people, I think the time rather distant when there will be demands made upon it for agricultural purposes, but there are marvelous placer mining possibilities throughout this entire northwest, and there will be just as many great discoveries made, or so it seems to me, as any which we have had.

"Sir Mackenzie Bowell was relieved to have been a passenger on the Islander when that vessel was wrecked, but who the disaster occurred he was some thousands of miles away from the scene of the wreck. However, the belief that he was on the steamer arose from the fact that he had intended to come out via Skagway in time to catch that steamer, which was the favorite with all travelers. He changed his mind, however, and went via St. Michael, but it was only by chance that he and J. F. Willis, of Belleville, Ont., a brother of the manager of the Bank of Commerce at Dawson, who accompanied him, were on the Islander.

Many of his friends were on the ill-fated steamer, and some of them were apparently saved only by accident. Speaking of the attempted assassination of President McKinley, Sir Mackenzie Bowell said:

"It seems to me that all governments, and particularly the United States, where its terrible menace is just beginning to be felt, should take vigorous measures in the matter of anarchy in any form and strangle it out without pity or fear."

President Improving

Physicians Continue to Issue Favorable Reports of the Patient's Condition.

Dr. McBurney Says It Could Hardly Be More Satisfactory.

Anarchist in New Mexico Arrested on Orders From Washington.

Buffalo, Sept. 9.—Dr. McBurney, the famous New York surgeon, said to an Associated Press reporter after the issue of the 3 o'clock bulletin, that all the indications continued favorable.

"No symptoms have appeared," said he. "No one can say now that the President is out of danger, and for a week, still the possibility of complications may exist. At the end of that time, if all goes well, we may be able to say that he is convalescent."

"But I have known cases," put in Dr. Mann, who was with the noted surgeon, "to go well for ten days and then change for the worse."

"That is true, perhaps," said Dr. McBurney, somewhat depreciatingly, "but it is entirely unusual. If the President continues to improve for a week," he continued, "we may safely say that he is convalescent. It will probably be three weeks before it will be safe to move him. We must wait until the outer wound is healed and strong. The inner wound is healed and strong. The inner wound is healed and strong. The inner wound is healed and strong."

Dr. McBurney was asked to compare the condition of the President with that of President McKinley, who died in 1891. He smiled, as he replied, that to do so would be to give the whole history of the progress of surgery during the last twenty years. "But," he said, "the cases are utterly different. Garfield's wound was an extremely unfortunate one in every way. It was difficult to handle. The wound of the President McKinley is in many respects a lucky one. No comparison is possible."

Dr. Mann said that the President was not out of danger. He said that some nourishment had been administered today through the rectum, and had taken water in the stomach. It was found that cold water was not agreeable, and instead, water as hot as he can bear it is being administered. The President's bowels have moved freely today, and this is considered an excellent symptom.

The following was issued by the President's physicians at 9:30 p.m.: "The President's condition continues favorable. Pulse 112; temperature 101; respiration 27."

The fear of peritonitis, it can be said positively, has not yet completely disappeared. Dr. McBurney said that some seventy-two-hour period at 4 o'clock this afternoon, danger from the source was almost gone. The President himself has been in a state of comparative repose since he was taken to the hospital. He has been in bed since he was taken to the hospital. He has been in bed since he was taken to the hospital.

"If he continues to improve it will be gradually, if he should grow worse, the change in that direction will also probably be slow. This is the opinion of Dr. Mann."

If he arrives at convalescence, Dr. Park expresses the opinion that it will be three weeks before it will be safe to move him. It is expected that the position he desired to assume, without difficulty or pain. This speaks much for his general strength and spirits. Mrs. McKinley will visit him again today for a brief visit and Secretary Goveley was admitted for the first time. No one else was allowed to see him, though he inquired several times who were below stairs.

"Sir Mackenzie Bowell was relieved to have been a passenger on the Islander when that vessel was wrecked, but who the disaster occurred he was some thousands of miles away from the scene of the wreck. However, the belief that he was on the steamer arose from the fact that he had intended to come out via Skagway in time to catch that steamer, which was the favorite with all travelers.
