Arethusa was allowed to retreat with her basket of turkey eggs.

Miss Arethusa Whistleton was fat, fair and forty. She lived all by herself, in a sing little farm-house always kapt neatly painted, with a "posy-hod" in front, full of southernwood, marigolds, four o'clocks, and suoh like old Isshioned flowers, and had a neat account in the Humbleton savings bank. But, in spite of all these substantial charms, no one had ever yet sought to gather her from the stem of "imaiden meditation fancy free."

Mr. Peter Pouncingtou was a single gentleman, nearer fifty than forty. He lived four or five miles away, in an ancient red brick house, with a row of Lombardy poplars in front, and he never had got married simply because he had had a widowed aunt who kept house for him, darned his stockings, and prepared his soup with exactly the right amount of cayenne pepper in it.

epper in it. "What should I marry for?" said Mr.

Pouncington. "Aunt Betts understands my likes and dislikes a great deal better than any one clae could do."

But one day paralysis laid his grim touch on Aunt Betts, and the next day she died.
"What shall I do" said Mr. Pouncington helplessly the morning after the funer-

"I'd get married, if I was you," said

Squire Martin.
"I don't know of any one to marry,"
sighed Peter the Hermit.
"There sin't no amarter woman is all the neighborhood than Arethusa Whistleton," said the squire, after a brief period of cogitation, "and she's got a snug bit of

of cegitation, "and she's got a snug bit of money, teo."

Thus it happened that Mr. Peter Pouncington turned his attentions in the direction of Miss Arethuss. And all this preamble will, doubtless, set forth the exact state of things that existed on that August day when Miss Arethuss stood on the doorstep of the Wynyards with the leasket of turkey eggs in her hand.

"I say, Thusy!" called out Farmer Wyngard, as he came in from the field, "heard about the gang of burglars that's going through the villag: "Burglars!"

"Burglars! No!" almost shrieked Miss Arethuss.

"They was at Deacon Motley's last might and close to the parson's night afore last," said the farmer. "I'd advise you to keep your door pretty well bolted, and it wouldn't be amus to let the bired man sleep in the garret till this disturbance is over." "Nonsense!" said Miss Arethusa, who had by this time recovered her wonted helf-possession. "I'm not afraid of the burglars."

And she went her way.

"Bo. careful, now," continued Miss Arthusa, as Jim unbarred the lock and opened the cellar door. "Only suppose they were all to rush out at you!"

"Then I calculate there'd be more pushes than one!" said Jim, with a grin.

Still nobody appeared.

THE LI-QUOR TEA CO. O Canada (Geo. Clarke, Proprietor) have determined to offer the following PRIZES, viz.:

To the person sending in before September 1st, 1885, the longest list of words made from the let-ters composing the following:

In this phrase, as it stands above, there are ELEVEN BYFERENT letters, five of them vowels, and many words can certainly be found in such a combination with ease. The prize will, however, probably find its way to one of the enterprising readers of these lines who goes beyond the obvious words. There is a chance for every industrious mind, as mere eleverness will not go for so much in this competition as perseverance. Boys and girls may occupy themselves with this problem as well as their elders, and there is ne limit to the number of lists which may be sent from one family.

Any patron of the Li-Cuor Tea Co. is free to mail us his list, and it is to be hoped that many will be heard from, one having as good a chance as another in this competition. Those not already customers may become eligible to compete by sending with their lists ix Half-pound Vouchers taken from our packets of tes at either 50 cents, 50 cents, 70 cents, or 80 cents per lb., for which they may select as usual the books or honuses to which they are entitled.

they are entitled.

1. The words as printed above must be used as they stand. "Co." is intended to go for but TWO letters, and may not be expanded into "Company.

2. No letter may be used in one word more frequently than it occurs in the phrase Li-tuor Tea ta." O and E, for instance, may be employed twice, but L only eace.

3. Proper names are excluded, but any word found in webster's Dictionary (not a proper name) will be allowed, the actual words of the phrase excepted.

4. Words must be neatly written in columns and numbered thus—

1 Aco 4 Queer

and numbered thus—

1 Ace 4 Queer
2 Ache 5 Other
3 Lie 6 Rat
Total 6 The total must invariably be set down.

5. Envelopes containing lists (which should reach the office of the Li-Quor Tea Co., 295 Younge street, not later than noon Sept. 1st), should be endorsed "Li-Quor Tea Co. Prize Competition." and directly beneath must be written the number of words on the enclosed list. The list itself must bear at the top the name and full address of the sender. An accompanying letter is unnecessary. The names and addresses of the successful competitors will be published in the Evening Telegram on Thursday, Sept. 3rd.

6. To every list must be pinned six balf-pound vouchers for our tea, for which the usual bonuses may be selected.

Failure to comply with one of the three first rules will result only in the cancellation of words gained by offending against them, but we cannot promise attention to lists not made out and sent in in accordance with rules 4, 5 and 6.
