

INDEPENDENT LABOR FAVORS SOCIALISM

Adds Significant Paragraph to Its Declaration of Principles.

What practically amounts to a declaration in favor of Socialism was made by the Independent Labor party at the Labor Temple last night by the following addition to the declaration of principles of that party.

"Having as the ultimate object, and aim, the establishment of a co-operative commonwealth where production will be for use instead of for profit."

Following is the declaration of principles of the party which it was declared last night were already in force and to which the above addition was added:

"The object of the Independent Labor party of Ontario is to secure political, economic and social interests of people who live by their labor, manual or mental, as distinguished from those who live by profit upon the labor of others. Therefore, we have established a permanent provincial organization in order that we may act in co-operation with the labor of independent political organizations of the farmers, and the producing class for the purpose of electing men or women who will stand by the democratic principle of a working-class movement, with all that term implies."

A good deal of discussion took place over the vacant post of deputy minister of labor and the vacancy on the workmen's compensation board, it being contended that labor men should be elected for both these posts, and that the government should have already selected labor men for the positions.

Deport Party Patronage. The question of party patronage was also taken up and it was decided that labor should lead the way in the abolition of the party patronage system. In this connection the following resolution was passed:

"That any member of the provincial executive of the Independent Labor Party who attempts to secure a government job shall automatically be compelled to resign from his position on the executive."

It was decided to back the Indians up in their fight to have their educational system taken out of the hands of the Dominion Department of Indian Affairs in order that Indian children could come under the same educational provisions as the provincial schools enjoyed by the children of white Canadians.

It was also decided to endorse the bill now before the Provincial Legislature whereby Chloroformers would be accorded the same rights and privileges as at present enjoyed by the medical profession.

NORMAN GARFIELD GUILTY OF MURDER

When the court opened this morning, the court called as the first witness, Denton Garfield, and the dramatic scene was enacted of one brother testifying against another. The older brother turned toward his younger brother and greeted him with a smile.

Norman on Stand. After his counsel had asked him if the evidence the defence had put in was right, and receiving an affirmative answer, Norman narrated just what happened on the night of the murder.

"What was your intention when you entered the store?" counsel asked.

"Robbery. I never intended to shoot Johnston who had made such a man or at a man. I never did in my life. I was simply trying to get away," answered Norman.

He continued: "Never, never in my life did I shoot at a man. The gun was fired. I can't see Johnston fall. I certainly would not take a chance of my own life with nothing to gain."

Asked if he didn't mean to shoot Johnston, why he didn't make a quick get-away from Woodstock, he replied that he didn't want to be caught for attempted robbery and theft of the car. When questioned as to his past history, he admitted having been arrested and sentenced in Spokane, Wash., for holding up a coach. Two people had been killed, but that he had not done the shooting. He was pardoned after serving four years.

AUSTRIA MUST DELIVER ALL WAR MATERIAL

Vienna, March 10.—A demand for immediate delivery of all the military material not yet surrendered under the treaty of St. Germain was made by the allied representatives here to-day and it is understood the cabinet agreed to comply with the demand unreservedly.

It is believed the action of the allied representatives was inspired by the German situation, coupled with the long delay in delivery and the more or less passive resistance to this feature of the treaty.

DRURY AND ROLLO LIKELY TO SPEAK

Mass Meeting of Unemployed to Be Held in Labor Temple Next Wednesday.

A mass meeting of the city's unemployed is to be held in the Labor Temple at two o'clock next Wednesday afternoon at which Premier Drury and Hon. Walter Rollo, minister of labor, have been invited to speak, and it is understood they have signified their intention of accepting.

This was announced at a meeting of the unemployment committee of the Trades and Labor Council held at the Labor Temple last night, when it was stated that no noticeable improvement in the situation had yet been seen and that public works would have to be opened up before things could be expected to show any decided improvement.

There are now thousands of unemployed out of work and organized labor has decided to put the matter up to the provincial government. It was for this reason that it was decided to call a mass meeting at the Labor Temple Wednesday and invite the premier of the province and the minister of labor to tell what the government are prepared to do.

BRITISH PREMIER DEFENDS POLICY

Says When Germany Realizes Position She Will Make an Agreement.

LONDON, March 10.—The decisions of the supreme council were lengthily discussed in the house of commons to-day.

Main interest centred in a duel between John Robert Clynes, labor member and former food controller, and Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Clynes, on behalf of the labor party challenged the prime minister's change of attitude in having previously declared that reparations were only possible by restoring Germany's economic position, and now agreeing to military coercion, a policy which could only mean greater unemployment, great debt and greater taxation.

Mr. Clynes contended that the allies acted precipitately in refusing to grant reparations unless Germany made fresh proposals; he thought they might have invoked the aid of the United States as arbitrator in a matter of this kind.

Mr. Lloyd George defended his policy. He argued that Germany's exports to the allies represented more than half her total exports, and could not believe that she would risk the loss of that trade by refusing to pay a fifty per cent personal levy, especially since she had lost the whole of her export trade. Moreover, the German goods were essential to Britain, except airline dyes, and of these Great Britain already had a stock sufficient for a year or fifteen months. Three quarters of the German dye factories, said the premier were situated in the occupied territory, and Germany was bound under the treaty to supply one quarter of her output of dyes to the allies.

Mr. Lloyd George repeated that he would have greatly preferred an agreement and would have been willing to discuss reasonable proposals, but it was clear that Dr. Simon, head of the German delegation, was not empowered to present such proposals. Referring to the bill to impose a fifty per cent duty which will be introduced in parliament tomorrow, he added that it would work more smoothly with than without an agreement, but he added:

"It will work a cash agreement or none."

Both the board of trade and the customs department, said Mr. Lloyd George, were satisfied that they could have difficulty in tracing the origin of goods, and so supporting machinery to carry out the plan would be needed.

"I believe that when Germany realizes the meaning of her present attitude, she will be anxious to make fresh proposals; she may talk about stopping all exports to the allied countries, but if she would have such unemployment in Germany as no great industrial country in the world ever witnessed."

M. Briand and the French delegation were interested listeners to the debate in the diplomatic gallery.

When police arrived on the scene they found two men being held for custody at the party of set of gold coins. Both were brought to headquarters, and will be arraigned tomorrow. (Continued From Page 1.) that he felt the car grinding over gravel on the bridge, and after he had stopped, about half a car length after the other car, he got out and saw that the casting of the trailer had come away with the drawbar, which was attached to the front car.

The conductor of the same car, Israel Abramowitz, was on the rear of the car collecting fares when the accident occurred. He said that the trailer had broken away, and turning around, he was just in time to see the accident. The truck was rough, but he did not know that the trailer was broken away. It was a little over a car length when he saw it, and when he recalled, he stated that he did not mean that it was broken away, but just as it crossed the bridge, he had been employed by the Street Railway Co. for two years and five months.

Walter Cook, 678 Indian drive, the conductor in charge of the ill-fated trailer, No. 420, did not know who was responsible for the condition of the coupling flags before the cars left the yards, and in the rear of the trailer counting down the flags, and estimated that he was about 12 feet away from the other car when it broke away. He said that he had seen the car to a standstill when the trailer crashed into him.

John Hayward, 17 Gratton avenue, the motorman of the westbound car, said he had been driving for nine years and ten months in all. There were six passengers on his car, and after picking up a person, he was descending the hill, he approached the bridge at a speed of about four miles per hour. There was about two lengths ahead of him, and he did not have time to see the trailer until it was about 12 feet in front of his car, and he brought his car to a standstill when the trailer crashed into him.

Geo. H. Gerring, 71 Fern avenue, who was seated in the westbound car, said he had seen the condition of the couplings and corroborated the evidence given by Shaw.

Offer on Speed. Arthur E. Arnold, 681 Erie terrace, on the south side, testified that the speed of the car to be about 20 miles per hour. He said that he was a newspaper, but could judge by looking out of a window. However, the next witness, Harold Ramsey, 709 East Gerrard, said that the speed was not out of the ordinary, and that the car, in his estimation, did not break away, but he only a flash of the oncoming car before the accident.

In adjourning the inquest until March 21, Coroner Crawford said that although he would have to act inquests before witnesses on the front of the trailer, he would refer the case to the coroner. G. R. Geary, K.C., corporation counsel, appeared for the city, and James H. Forrest, clerk of the court, appeared for the railway board.

Earlscourt Veterans Elect Bert Wiles as President

There was a large turnout at last night's meeting of the Earlscourt G. A. U. V. held in Creber's Hall, Earlscourt. Following the resignation of the president, Fred Wilson, owing to ill-health, the members appointed Bert Wiles to the position of president in connection with the coming G. A. U. V. convention and a number of dispirited members were elected.

Dr. J. O. Jackson delivered an interesting lecture on Mesopotamia to the pupils of Regal Road School yesterday afternoon. The subject was made more instructive by illustrations of the country, the people and their customs.

The usual steady pace of business and trade through the Earlscourt district is beginning to increase and signs of boom in property expected in the spring are apparent. Almost the last piece of vacant property on St. Clair avenue, Earlscourt, was sold this week, and negotiations for the sale of the last business corner are afoot. The scarcity of vacant stores on St. Clair is outstanding evidence of the activity in business at the present time.

General business was discussed by the G. A. U. V. ladies auxiliary at their meeting in Creber's Hall last evening. Distress cases, mostly from sickness, were considered, and plans were made to hold a "hard-times social" on March 31 for the purpose of increasing the district fund. Mrs. M. Babinington presided.

At last night's meeting of the St. Leonard's Church Men's Social Club, in the St. Leonard's Church, Bedford street, Park, a very interesting address was given by F. The repair wagon was soon on the scene. Traffic was held up for some time, but, happily, however, is nothing unusual for this end of the city.

Organize Second Athletic and Community Centre

Second Athletic and Community Centre was reconvened this afternoon at the meeting of the Eastdale residents in Second School, Barington avenue, when a management committee of the centre, consisting of the trustees of S.S. 28 and four members of the Ratepayers' Association was elected. The committee will be equipped and vehicles installed for the swimming pool. A large membership is anticipated.

Through a typographical error in the headline of the report on the meeting of the Danforth Business Men's Association the word "oppose" appears, instead of the correct "approve," which is the first night might give the impression that there was opposition to the formation of this important organization. Such, of course, is not the case. On the contrary the meeting was absolutely unanimous in its approval of the project, and everyone of the speakers stressed the importance of the project, and urged the bringing into existence of the association, and that the success it should attain.

"But I Am Not Nervous, Doctor, See How Strong I Am"

"YES, you are strong, all right, and I find after a careful examination that there is no indication of organic disease."

"Then what does seem to be the trouble?"

"It is your nerves, the internal nerves which control the action of the vital organs such as the heart, the stomach, the liver, the kidneys, etc. This is called the sympathetic nervous system. It is not at all uncommon for strong, healthy-looking people to suffer from this form of nervous trouble."

"I never thought I was nervous."

"How do you act in the dentist's chair?"

"Well, I generally keel over in a faint."

"That is just it. Your sympathetic nervous system is affected by the thought that you are going to be hurt. Your digestive troubles are due to the run-down condition of your nerves."

"I never thought of that."

the purifying of the blood by the kidneys—all these functions and many more are controlled by the sympathetic nervous system. Consequently when the nervous energy runs low all these processes are slowed up and you suffer accordingly.

"While examination shows that there is no organic disease, the action of these organs is weak because of the exhausted condition of the nerves. You need a good nerve tonic."

"What about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"There is nothing better that I know of. I find evidence everywhere I go of the exceptional restorative power of this popular treatment. But do not expect to get well in a day. It takes time to bring back strength and vigor to an exhausted nervous system."
