

STRANGE VISITOR IS CAUGHT IN WINDSOR CASTLE

Refuses to Identify Self;
Arraigned in Court as Nameless One

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The premises of the King of England have been burglarized, under the nose of the King's brother-in-law, the Marquess of Cambridge, Governor and Constable of Windsor Castle.

There is great mystery about the affair, though a prisoner has been caught and arraigned in the Windsor police court. The prisoner refused to give his name, declared upon arraignment that his head was badly mutilated and was bled to the last as "the nameless one." Much investigation is under way.

The premises of Windsor Castle, where the Henry Chamber was broken into and robbed are under the guardianship of the Marquess of Cambridge, Viscount Northampton, Earl of Eitham, whose full name is Lieutenant-Colonel Adolphus Charles Alexander Albert Edward George Philip Louis Ladislaus Cambridge. He is the brother of the former "Princess May" of Teck, who is now Queen Mary of England.

But "the nameless one," arraigned against the many-named Marquess, has set up a mystery which neither military experience nor diplomatic skill yet has solved.

Passports Asked of Plane Crash Victims

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The English immigration law is rigid and formidable and the men who enforce it make no exceptions.

When a cross-channel airplane crashed into a haystack near Dymchurch not long ago, killing three of its passengers and injuring twelve, immigration officials from Folkestone were quickly on the spot and the passports and baggage of all the unfortunate passengers were carefully examined. None of the uninjured were allowed to leave until these formalities had been completed.

SAYS IMPOSSIBLE TO SHOOT TO MOON

English Astronomer Produces
Figures to Show Proposed
Feat Useless

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Rumors that somebody in Moscow wants to shoot at the moon has aroused the academic criticism of Professor A. W. Bickerton, the astronomer, who says flatly in the Daily Mail, that it cannot be done.

In order to escape the gravitation of the earth, he points out, "your projectile needs a velocity of 7 miles a second."

The thermal energy necessary to carry a gramme of matter at this speed is 15,180 calories. The energy of a gramme of a Krupp shell is about 100 calories; that of Big Bertha—the gigantic gun which shelled Paris—was 400 calories. The energy of a gramme of our most violent explosive—nitroglycerine—is less than 1,500 calories. Consequently, if the projectile has nothing to carry except its own weight, it has less than ten percent of the energy necessary to enable it to escape the earth. To reach a distance of four miles in the air, the projectile would need a thermal energy unit mass equal to 7,600 calories. "Where can we get such energy? Nobody knows."

Finest in Existence; is Displayed in London Shop
