Miramichi Advance.

CHATHAM, N. B., MAY 12, 1892.

Domestic Here is the month an I, On the southern shore; Beneath a southern sky, But my thoughts are all at home.

My sister, her music tries, With his paper on his knee; My mother sees or knits— I know they think of me.

My dog, he whines in the hall, For an old dog to be, Waiting in vain my call, For he, too, misses me.

And my girl—how my pulses stir! For, as the dawn of evening falls, Another chap may be coming here. This makes me more homesick than all— Ray L. Macdonald in Poet.

Aerial Electric Mail Car.

It is claimed that the Valence will transport about one hundred pounds of mail between two cities with a hitherto unattained velocity. It consists of a shell completely automatic in its interior, except the chamber for the mail and for the electric motor, being filled with compressed hydrogen gas to overcome the weight. It has a buoyancy towards the front, operating on both sides, and side wings and propeller in rear. Two large trolley wires supported on arms attached to posts and elevated to a suitable height are placed from four to six feet apart, and below these the car or shell is situated, suspended on the wires by pulleys.

The electricity from the motor inside of the car, and sets into rapid motion the front fans, the wings on either side and the turbine wind fan in the rear. The wings are shaped like an umbrella divided in the center. These close when propelled forward and automatically open, presenting forcibly against the air in the backward and downward stroke, and operated by a crank and piston to which the wings are attached.

The front is surmounted by an electric light. When coming into port the machine engages in a current breaker, and subsequently draws up a suitable weight until it is brought to the point for unloading. It is then released, turned on a turn table, the connections made and it is sent on its mission. It may have many stations.—Dr. E. E. Osborn, of Auburn, N. Y., is the inventor.

Mrs. Millon's Ride.

When Mrs. Millon goes to ride she travels forth in state. Her horses, full of fire and pride, go prancing from the gate; But all the beauties of the day she views with languid eye, Her flesh in weakness wastes away, her color is but a high.

For Mrs. Millon is in an advanced stage of catarrh, and all the luxuries that wealth can buy, fail to give her comfort. She envies her rosy waiting-maid, and would give all her riches for that young woman's pure health and blooming beauty. Now, if some true and disinterested friend would advise Mrs. Millon of the wonderful merits of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, she would learn that her case is not past help. $500 reward is offered by the manufacturer for a case of catarrh in the head which they cannot cure.

"The Arizona Kicker."

NUMBER TEN—As is well known to our loyal readers, Rembe Smith, general lawyer, who was a familiar figure in this town, is no more with us. Yesterday we gathered Henry Tomner, the popular undertaker, thirty-five dollars in cash for Rembe's burial expenses, and his headstone is already set up in our private graveyard. It is marked No. 10.

We had nothing in particular against Rembe. While he had refused to subscribe for "The Kicker," we didn't lay it up against him. A man who can't afford to be a member of a newspaper. Two or three weeks ago when we wrote a brief local in regard to his biting Jim Small's ear off we didn't bear down on Rembe very heavy. We said we thought he'd stayed long enough, and that he'd either have to skip or hang, but we made it rather light for him. Sunday afternoon Rembe found us in the United States hotel and sat in our hat and pulled our nose and slapped our jaw. That's where he made the mistake of his life. He thought we were a coyote, and he probably crossed the dark river with carrying that head.

We pulled on Rembe and dropped him in his tracks. As in the nice other instances, we had him buried in our own lot, paid all expenses, and shall keep the headstone in good repair. M. Quad in New York World.

Seven Years' Suffering GENTLEMEN—I had suffered very much from inflammatory rheumatism, which through wrong treatment had nearly run its course on my hands and feet. With these I suffered for seven years, during which time I had neither shoe nor stocking on. I consulted many physicians and was treated in various ways, but all failed. I was told that the sores were entirely cured, and have been for some time. I believe the bitters were the means of saving my life. Max. Lewis Lane, Crowson's Corners, Acton P. O., Ont.
