POLICE WORK.

The Beginning of the Thanksgiving Harvest of Topers.

Harvest of Topers.

Paddy McQuillan evidently feared that on account of the searcity and high price of turkeys his Thanksgiving dinner would not be up to the standard. Laboring under this delusion, Patrick shook the dust of the Alms House off his feet and came to the city, where he endeavored to gloriously celebrate. But his fun commenced too soon, and instead of turkey, cramberry sauce 'n things, he is now growing fat on bread and coffee in fail.

in Fredericton, where he labored hard and well in the days long since passed. Very Rev. Monsignor Connolly leaves a sister, who had been living with him for some years; a nephew, John Connolly, of the customs department, Ottawa, and several 'nieces,' including Mrs. Keenan, of New York, who will arrive here on Friday; Mrs. Dennison and Sister Clothilde, of this city, and also another niece.

It is learned that Very Rev. Monsignor Connolly leaves a will, by the terms of which his property goes to the Mater Miseracordiae Hospital. Rev. W. F. Chapman, of Woodstock, and P. J. O'Reefe are the executors of the estate.

If arrangements can be made the body will be taken to Fredericton to-morrow afternoon in order that the clergymen may attend and return in time for the Sunday services.

Island farmers a proposition to establish a co-operative packing and cold storage company there. It is intended to head off to some extent the big Dominion Packing Co.

THANKSGIVING.

The Day Generally Observed in the City Churches.

Ministers Deal With the Various Reasons for Thankfulness at This Season.

In many of the city churches today services of thanksgiving were held and in all cases were well attended. The addresses were strong and all dealt chiefly with the goodness of God to his people and with the reasons why all should fittingly observe the day set apart for an expression of gratitude. In some cases recent current events were referred to and lessons drawn from them.

IN ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

Rev. L. G. Macneill took for his text Deuteronomy 11: 12, "A land which the Lord thy God careth for." The speaker in the first part of his address referred to Canada as a whole and gave a brief outline of its great resources, its history, its scenery and the wonderful prosperity which has fallen to
it. He pointed out that Canada could be fittingly described by the words of the text, "A land which the Lord careth for," and went on to show how thankful all should be for the many advantages bestowed. Mr. Macneill dealt with recent current events, especially referring to the fact that there is abundant evidence that God cares for this country and favors it, as is shown by its prosperity, by the great harvest, immunity from calamities such as Martinique and great sickness. What is the cause of this due to? Partly to the people, partly to the system of government, chiefly to God.
He paid a tribute to Laurier, who,
though he may not be an ideal statesman in the minds of all, has yet done
no small amount of good for Canada.
The speaker did not agree with those people who cried "Canada for the Canadians." We have been given an excellent country, and the cry should not be Canada for the world, or at least Canadans." We have been given an excellent country, and the cry should not be Canada for the Canadians, but Canada for the world, or at least Canadans." We have been given an excellent country, and the cry should not be Canada for the Canadians, but Canada for the world, or at least Canadans." We have been given to the proclamation of peace, the coronation of King Edward and the treaty with Japan, all of which must necessarily tend to increase the measure of prosperity in which the country has been blessed. In closing Mr. Macneill spoke briefly on events in our own city, dealing with the exposure of moral degradation among boys and the steps being daken for the betterment of their condition.

Laboring the standard that standard the standard that such a day is necessary in Candard that such a standard separate churenes, but as citizens of a grateful nation. There are two great causes for national thankfulness, the recovery of the King and his coronation. Dr. Fraser thought that the pomp and ceremony which attended the preparation for the coronation were in danger of putting a gulf between the King and his people, so different was it from the homely qualities so beloved in Queen Victoria. But during the King's illness his interest in his people and his quiet heroism through suffering endeared him to the nation and the nation to him. There was restored the tie of personal affection between the sovereign and the people, which was in danger of being broken at the Queen's death, and which is so essential to the spiritual unity of the empire.

Dr. Fraser took up the closing of the war and referred to the delegates who a year ago were resisting British arms in a struggle for political independence were today coming to our shores in the interests of the industrial development of their country and the restoration of contentment in Africa. He referred to the Calvinism of the Boers as adding them in submitting to the inevitable and enabling them to accept defeat as the will of God. In closing, Dr. Fraser spoke of the material prospective of the country, especially in the west, where the bountiful harvests are attracting such great numbers of good settlers.

ST. DAVID'S CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Morison chose as his text, Psalm lxv-11. "Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness." After referring to the fact that the service was held today at the command of the throne and in response to the gratitude of the human heart Dr. Morison went on to show that for the most part men found it easy to give thanks for all the material blessing bestowed, and consequently at this season of the year the magazines and newspapers, the platform and the pulpit were dis-dispensible adjunct to faith.

IN CENTENARY CHURCH.

Rev. G. M. Campbell 'spoke from Leviticus xxiii—39. "Also the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the Lord." After alluding to the proclamation of thankegiving and the duty of all loyal citisens which we very loyally perform. Mr. Campbell referred to the command of the text and showed that God not only is the giver of all our benefits but, so gives them as not to pauperize us. Human gifts degrade man but God's gives so as to elevate us. The prayer of Christ in the material form has been answered and Christendom is one. Unless the harvests fail the whole world over, which they never do, there is always ample supply of bread. If Asia is hungry she has bread from the lap of America. The moral condition of a people is indicated by the quality of their agriculture. A luscious berry, peach or pear, or a good apple is as clear an evidence as a prayer meeting that the basil Christian virtues are working in a community. Neither cannibals nor sybarites ever could or ever will use a Bartlett pear. Thriftless agriculture evinces a degraded moral state. Turkey with good soil is always bungry. Sweden and Norway with sterile soil export grain. The speaker closed his address with a reference to the duty of those people who have little.

Those readers of the Telegraph whose subscription has not expired, and who are wondering to what use they can put a paper they no longer care to read, will perhaps find a suggestion in the following paragraph from an exchange: "Al cylindrical pillow of old papers placed under the neck is helpful to induce slumber. The Chinese and Japanese use this method to woo the god of slumber, and nearly always with success."

THIS AFTERNOON.

The weather is favorable for this afternoon's great event on the Victoria grounds, when the finest foot rabes ever held in these provinces will take place. The sports begin at 2.30 o'clock, and St. John people will have an opportunity to see some of the fastest runners in the world.

DR. DRUMMOND COMING.

No lover of good literature should lose the opportunity of hearing Dr. W. H. Drummond, the famous author of "The Habitant and Other Poems," read from his own works, As a poet alone Dr. Drummond's reputation is sufficient to assure him of a warm welcome in St. John. But he is more than a poet, He possesses the rare faculty as a reader of making the characters depicted in his poem to live and move before his hearers, that tears are mingled with their laughter. Without any of the advantages of scenery and staging, he produces effects that are only equalled by the greatest actors. The sale of tickets will open on Oct. 22nd at Gray's bookstore, King street. Advance tickets, entitling holder to select his seat one day before the plan is open to the public, may be obtained at the Church of England Institute, Germain street. The recttal has been arranged for Thursday evening, Oct. 30th. in the York Theatre.
