by all statesmen during the past ten or twenty years. "There was a time," he explained, "when diplomacy was regarded as given to states-men to enable them to conceal their thoughts. That might fairly be called the 'old diplomacy," which I absolutely and entirely repudiate." "People," he continued, "were entitled to demand a clear expression of views, and demand a clear expression of views, and there never had been the slightest justifica-tion for the statement that President Kru-ger had been in doubt." Mr. Chambriain then said: "Our object, methods and determination, were to carry out these objects. It was necessary to im-press upon Fresident Kruger the seriousness of the step he was called upon to take and the consequences which would follow any mistake on his part. It was not desirable to include in an official despatch collateral suggestions and indications of opinion; but semi-official warning was frequently con-veyed in a speech. A similar warning was given by Lord Salisbury to the Sultan at the Guild Hall banquet, and I am still ab-solutely unrepentant. "Bearsting today" make the General purpose stallion-D. S. Mann, 1st; W. "Respecting today's speeches they are simply a 'rechauffee' of old arguments from Irish members, whose boast is that they are England's enemies, and from the radicals, who in principle oppose the war." Regarding Mr. Davitt, Mr. Chamberlain said he recognized that he had hitherto dis-cussed the matter moderately and sincerely, "and," he added, "I would pay the great-est attention to his arguments if I did not know he would use precisely the same ar-guments in regard to any British war, whick are based on his enmity to Eng-land." esting performance of getting drunk together. Chamberlain continued: "The great, almost determining contest between the United States and Spain was fought with out the loss of a single American. We have never denied that the Transvaal was a forman worthy of our steel. Not only was the disparity between the forces in the Spanish-American war as great as those now engaged, but the contention of the United States and their right of interference arose from the fact that at some distance from their territories there was oppression, not of American citizens, but of another race and people, and that justified the in-tervention of the United States in the mind of the civilized world, or, at any rate, in the eyes of Englishmen and Irishmen. But we are interfering in behalf of our own people. It is perfectly certain that Mr. Davitt, but for his hatred of England, would sympatize with us as he did with America." America." Mr. Chamberlain then replied to the criti-Mr. Chamberlain then replied to the criti-cism of his not accepting the mediation of Mr. Hofmeyer, the Afrikander leader, point-ing out that while he believed Mr. Hof-meyer to be sincere, yet he could not for-get when President Kruger made "abso-lutely illusory proposals for a settlement." Mr. Hofmeyer was perfectly ready to ac-cept them. President Kruger misled Mr. Hofmeyer in promising him proposals which differed materially from those he really presented. "There has," continued Mr. Chamberlain, 'been on the part of the Transvaal crookedness altogether incomprehensible if they desired a settlement. I believe that from first to last President Kruger never intenddesired a settlement. I believe that from first to last President Kruger never intend-ed to rive anything approaching equal rights to the white races, or any acknow-ledgement of British supremacy. War, therefore, was inevitable. There has been an enormous strain upon us. We are called upon to bring the war to a quick conclu-sion and send across the sea a force no nation in history ever before sent. This is entirely due to the preparations which hade the Transvaal an armed camp and which not only secured it a defensive post-ion, but enables it to take the offensive against the large force now engaged. Such a strain could not be continued forever. We should have needed a permanent force of 25,000 men in South Africa. We are told we shall lose South Africa. Our foreign friends are convinced of it. Yet they are not happy. Such predictions were made before and were even current in the days of Elizabeth. But I am not alarmed. One great Teutonic people cannot hold in sub-jection another greater Teutonic people, but this has never been our course. It is into cape are crushed by our rule, when they have all the rights Bhglishmen possess and even, in individual cases, are permit-ted to tak and write treason. Whatever may be the result of the war and the pre-mature talk of the result of the present war, does anyone imagine that we shall fail to do for others what we claimed for our-selves, or refuse equal rights to the Dutch in the Transvaal which they refused us ?"
