FREDERICTON, N. B., June 29.— for writing threatening letters to a (Special to the Sun.) The case of the crown against George Riggs was concluded today. It took proved nearly successful. Jail Keeper the prisoner had been proven guilty of writing threatening letters to one Miss Bessle Clark. The verdict was not in the least unexpected. The result was a foregone conclusion after the accused took the stand yesterday afternoon in his own defense. It did not take an expert to see that the man condemned himself by his own contradictory state ments. As the judge said today in passing sentence, it would have been much better had he acknowledged his guilt than taken the stand and telling the story he endeavored to tell. that he was not to be trusted, and the public must be protected from such individuals. Four years in the Dorchester penitentiary was his honor's sentence, and for that period Dr. Riggs will remain behind prison bars. The sentence did not seem to worry the prisoner in the least. All through his trial he has acted as if the affair was a most pleasing episode. A smile seldom left his face, and when the judge addressed him his features had the same jovial expression. It is seldom, if ever, that a man in being sent to prison takes it so good naturedly. Riggs will be taken to Dorchester in the morning.

He expressed great regrets at being restored to health, and said that he had taken too much and this caused his sickness, which saved his life. Riggs said that he was determined to have his life and he would accomplish his object. It was discovered that Riggs had taken a strong powder used for horses, and the physician said that it contained morphine. On his person were also found two lances for bleeding animals, and he seemed much disappointed when he was disarmed of these. After recover ing, Riggs again attempted to make away with himself by beating his head against the bed post. That the man fully intended to take his life was only too apparent. A note was found in his room addressed to the young lady of his affections. It was a letter most touching in its sentiments. He said

FALL RIVER, Mass, June 28.-That he wage question in Fall River, which ed to the great strike nearly a year ago, is not settled was evidenced tonight when the weavers' union, representing the organized weavers in all the cotton mills of the city at a special meeting voted to demand the restoration of the wage scale which existed prior to the reduction of July 25th, 1904. On that date wages were reduced from 19.80 cents per cut to 17.33 cents, a decrease amounting to 1211-2 per cent. OTTAWA, June 28-This afternoon Laurier moved the adoption of the amended clause 16 of the autonomy bill.
