ANOTHER PROOF

On Feb. 12, 1904, I took a severe cold, which settled in my back and kidneys, causing great pain. After using several preparations and being without sleep four nights through intense pain, I tried your HAIR RESTORER. After just application I was so much relieved that I fell into a deep sleep, and complete recovery shortly followed.

BUDS AND BLOSSOMS

"Buds and Blossoms," published at St. John, N. B., is not only one of the most interesting and best publications for young people that has come under our observation. It is an interesting, instructive, and instructive. It cannot fail to do good in every family where it reaches. It is a monthly publication, and its contents are of such a nature as to be of interest to all who read it. It is a publication that is needed to interest the young, and thus drive out unwholesome and pernicious reading. Its price—seventy-five cents a year—is sufficiently low to bring it within the reach of every body.

JOSEPH MAKES HIMSELF KNOWN.

GOLDEN TEXT.

Overcome evil with good.—Rom. 12: 21.

J. JOSEPH REVEALS HIMSELF TO HIS BROTHERS. When Joseph had sufficiently tested his brothers, and found them tender of heart, repentant, full of kindness to Benjamin and his father, Judah being willing to become a slave to save his youngest, best beloved brother, and telling his story with a touching pathos, then Joseph says that the hour had come to reveal himself to his brothers.

1. Then Joseph could not refrain himself (Gen. 45: 1). Keep himself from giving way to the impulses of love. And there stood no man with him, while Joseph made himself known unto his brethren. Two reasons are given: (1) Delicacy forbids the presence of strangers at this unrestrained burst of tender emotion among the brothers. Besides, (2) the workings of conscience bringing up the recollections of the past, and the errors, to which some reference is now unavoidable, are not to be unveiled to the public eye. (3) Delicacy forbids the presence of strangers at this unrestrained burst of tender emotion among the brothers. Besides, (2) the workings of conscience bringing up the recollections of the past, and the errors, to which some reference is now unavoidable, are not to be unveiled to the public eye.

4. And Joseph said, Come near to me. Probably is the first impulse of terror they had drawn away from him, as if to hide out of his sight. Joseph seeks to reassure them by a gracious invitation. And the said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

10. The Lord shall dwell in the land of the living. It is a beautiful promise, and a beautiful promise. It is a beautiful promise, and a beautiful promise. It is a beautiful promise, and a beautiful promise.

15. And he fell upon his brother Benjamin's neck, and wept, tears of joy. Benjamin was the only one who was full brother to him. It is a beautiful promise, and a beautiful promise. It is a beautiful promise, and a beautiful promise.

and in my eyes they beaming daughter. 'Big, you say. Yes, I am very glad to see that my little girl is framed to grow into a woman of the stature and proportions, and that her hands go symmetrically with such a body. What does a large woman want of 'fin' hands, Kathie? Far better these, which are large and yet shapely, which have power in them, and remind one of the clothing of the truly gracious woman as well as well as beautiful. So much for usefulness, which is true beauty. And you have art in your favor too. The beautiful ideals which the Greeks have given us have generous-sized hands and feet. Just try to imagine the Venus de Milo with 'fin' hands, and you will see the result.

11. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

12. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

13. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

14. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

15. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

16. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

17. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

18. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.

19. And he said, I am Joseph. It was impossible to evade allusion to their early wickedness, and this Joseph does in a spirit neither angry upbraiding, but of a serene and tender charity.
