to him

nd down

rmor and

norse, do-

is all his

vas a very

splendid

pout, Carl.

holy man

ne of the

oman em-

p God as taught.

etian post.

all to wor.

an Rome

ne imperial

doomed to

ccordingly

icodemia,

kill a dra

vith a look

nary creat-

" but there

ple to meet

laguc

a is Tuber-

increasing.

ue to every

ravages of

is Radam's

rs the lungs

ry of clim-

position to

whether ac-

acts direct-

ystem, kills

upplies the

and life-giv-

hysician of

nent profes-

ler is a gen-

ul efficiency

f any harm-

d the action

affords the

of disease

understand.

e of disease,

ly the best

all chronic

wown prac-

from experi-

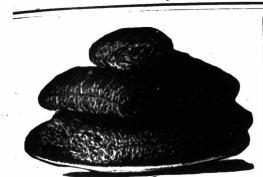

ons of the

e tubercular

nothing like

Street West

arge.

What an Editor says of Shredded Wheat

"We have used Shredded Wheat in our fam-"We have used Shredded Wheat in our family since it first appeared on the market and find it by far the most satisfactory, as a breakfast cereal, of anything we ever tried. More recently we have been using it as the foundation of many other meals, following the admirable recipes as given in the 'VITAL QF ESTION,' and the result is not only appetizing, but perceptibly advantageous to the general health of the family. We cannot find language too emphatic to express our high opinion of Shredded Wheat Biscuit as a convenient, economical and satisfying food."—W. H. BROCK, editor "Healthy Home," Athol, Mass.

Shredded Wheat Biscuit For Sale By All Grocers. (Mention this Paper.)

perhaps as this terrible monster they have pictured. When Saint George refused to bow before the false gods of Rome and tore down the wicked emperor's proclamation, I think he showed the spirit of a hero quite as much as if he had gone to ride against the horrible dragon that they make him do in the story books. He risked his life in daring to do right, and suffered martyrdom for it. Could Bayard or Sydney perform a braver deed than that?'

"But weren't there ever any real dragons?" persisted carl, who could not bear to think that his favorite hero had never encountered such

"Dragons! Yes, Carl, there are real dragons-pride, avarice, indolence, vanity, love of the worldgreat and cruel monsters that devour all noble manhood and sap the strength of the strongest champion. Doubtless St. George met all these and conquered them."

"Now I know you are laughing at me, mamma." "No, Carl; I am not laughing at you at all. Saint George and the Dragon is only a symbol. There are are riding against them, and by spread themselves upon his brain. termined to slay the dragon of inhonor and all but ruined his life. It a highly respected citizen, a man of many benefactions. "In the grand old legend of Saint now other knights had encountered the monster and had lost their lives, but the victorious knight was not whom the monster destroyed. May God give him grace to conquer!" and and Mrs. Harris kissed the solemn face that looked up at her.

"Oh, I know now what the picture means," said Carl, "and I will try, mamma, to kill my dragon."

And I have means of knowing that Carl has kept his word.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA

Queen Alexandra has the same quiet way of bestowing personal favour as Queen Victoria. An instance of this is cited in the story of how one day she met a dressmaker waiting at Marlborough House having just brought some things that be victorious like Saint George, or with the eye of a connoisseur, she will he fail like those other knights being an expert at fine sewing, and having, it is said, made much of her beautiful trousseau herself. Noting that all the work was handsewn, she inquired why the girl had not used a machine to help her with her task. It then came out that the girl, who had an ailing mother to support, was too poor to buy or hire one. The Queen's sympathy was at once enlisted, and she ordered that wine and fruit should be sent immediately to the invalid, following up the gifts on Christmas Day, which fell shortly afterwards, with the present of a good sewing machine, on which were the words: " A gift from Alexandra," the girl then learning for the first time ROSS' HIGH-GRADE CEYLON told her trouble.

During the Paris Exhibition of she had been making for the young 1878 a British chaplain and his wife Princesses. The Queen, taking the were invited to lunch at the Embassy girl into a private room, examined to meet the Prince and Princess of the work she had brought, judging it | Wales. Mrs. Moran, the clergy-

COMFORT FOR POOR SLEEPERS.

The Mystery of Sleep-Insomnia a Warning of Over-work or Approaching Nervous Collapse Which is Not to be Lightly Disregarded.

Robbery of Sleep One of the Worst of Crimes - Dr. Chase's Nerve Food by Building Up Blood and Nerves Restores Restful Sleep.

it is the mind gone into the play- suited to the needs of an exhausted ground of dreams; it is the relaxa- nervous system. Through the metion of muscles, and the solace of the dium of the blood and nervous sysnerves; it is the hush of activities; it is the calming of the pulse; it is a breathing much slower but much the human anatomy. deeper; it is a temporary oblivion of all carking cares; it is a doctor recognized by all schools of medicine. Lack of sleep puts patients on the rack of torture or in the madhouse, or in the grave."

dragons to day, and brave knights and of our age. Where there is one satisfaction. This preparation is now man or woman with strong, healthy God's help will subdue them and win nerves, there are a dozen whose nervgreater glory than even your favorite ous systems are overwrought and unsaint. Do you see that man passing strung. In vain they toss in beds nervous disorders and sleeplessness in yonder carriage? Ten years ago of misery, longing for nature's great are so prevalent. he was a common drunkard and was restorer, restful sleep. In hours of seen reeling daily upon our streets. temptation they resort to opiates But one day a child placed in his and narcotics, which produce temhands a tract, 'No Drunkard Shall porary unconsciousness at an enorm-Inherit Eternal Life.' The words ous expense to the human system.

In all occupations and professions He could not forget them. He de-there are times when a special draft is madé upon nervous energy. temperance that had destroyed his Mothers, too, deprived of sleep and worn out by caring for their chilwas a desperate conflict, but in the dren and watching them through perend he won the battle, and is to day jods of sickness and disease, are left physical wrecks. Especially in the springtime do we all seem to require George and the dragon, you read of come the weakening and debilitachanges of temperature.

ceed. I know a little boy who does not love to get up in the morning, sometimes he has to be called several times. Now, there is a dragon for him to conquer. I wonder if he will tists have pointed out certain ele-

"Sleep is the vacation of the soul; ments of nature as being peculiarly tem these restoratives carry new life and vital energy to every nerve cell in supplied with money for my Paris

While these elements of nature are combined in various proportions, it is now generally conceded by physicians that the prescription, used by Dr. Chase with such marvellous success in his immense practice Insomnia is a disease of our country | is the one which gives most general known as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and has come to have enormous sale in every part of this continent, where > thin, watery, and impure blood, and old, and could not talk "straight" use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with positive assurance that the regular and reconstruct the nerve cells and sleeplessness and irritability.

You must not confuse Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with sleep-producing unusual allowance of sleep to over- drugs and opiates. It is different from any medicine you ever used, ting effects of winter and the trying and instead of tearing down the tissues and deadening the nerves, it Sleeplessness is a warning that cures by filling every cell with new discouraged by their failures. He the nervous force of the body is berode boldly out to meet the dragon, ing exhausted more rapidly than it tonic and invigorator it is marvellous and was successful. It is worth is being created, and points to ultimate the dragon, ing exhausted more rapidly than it is action, instilling into weak, something to try; but better to sucmate physical bankruptcy. The worn, tired human bodies the cred I leave the control of strength elasticity and buoyancy of who the lady was to whom she had TEA is absolutely pure. Get the 25c. package. Black, Green, Mixed.

W. H. Stone UNDERTAKER

343 Yonge Street

N. B.—Our charges have been greatly reduced in order to meet the popular demand for moderate-priced funerals.

man's wife, took the opportunity to interest the Princess in a former stable boy at Sandringham who was dying of consumption in a slum in the Ternes quarter of Paris. Her Royal Highness, with the eagerness of a scoolgirl, proposed to slip quietly out and visit the humble invalid. The two ladies took a cab, and the Princess ascended to a wretched chamber on the fourth floor, and no sooner saw the boy than she recognised him. Sitting on the side of the bed she brightened the place by her cheeriness. Then she said, "My poor boy, why did you leave us? You were always delicate. I am not too well visit, but I will send you fifty pounds to-morrow." The angel of charity kept her word. The Princess, revelling in her new freedom, then suggested a ride outside the Madeline on a Bastille omnibus to see the boulevards as one of the people. Mrs. Moran of course consented, and the Princess, parting with her at the Embassy, said it was the happiest afternoon she had ever spent in her life.

A LITTLE MAN.

This was what I heard his mother Each and every sufferer from call him one hot day in June, He nervous and physical exhaustion, was a little fellow, hardly four years the demon insomnia, can begin the yet. He was playing on the front porch, having a good time with his building-blocks, and much interested use of this famous food cure will in the store he was building. Presgradually and thoroughly build up ently a stray dog came along, stopped, and looked at the little boy bodily tissues, and permanently cure longingly. The dog was hot and tired.

"I dess he's firsty," said the boy,/ "I'll det him somefin' to dwink."

A tiny saucepan was on the porch. The little fellow poured some water into it and set it before the dog who lapped it eagerly.

"It's all don," said the boy. "I'll det some more,' Five times the little boy filled the saucepan; then the dog bobbed his head, wagged his tail, and went off.

The little fellow laughed gleefully. "He said, Fank you, didn't he, mamma? I dess he was glad to det some cold water, wasn't he?"
"Indeed he was," mamma answer-

E CEYLON