Group Captain C. Carling Kelly, Commanding No.1 Service Flying Training School, introduces the Annual Sports and Field Day for 1943 to the families, relatives and friends of all this Station's personnel.

Briefly, this day culminates the sporting activities as carried on by each and everyone of the personnel during the past year. The sports are carried out in other than duty hours for the improvement of health, body and mind, so necessary in these trying days of War. It has been the personal right of the personnel to choose the sport of their liking and which fortunately has been of a variety such as; baseball, volleyball, tennis, track and field, swimming, boxing, wrestling, hockey, soccer, badminton, golf and archery.

This day brings about the opportunity for each and every one to prove what they have learned and the advantages this training has been to them. All taking pride in this Station and its activities, naturally brings about a personal desire on behalf of the Station personnel, airmen and airwomen, to show their worth in competition, to their families, relatives and friends.

The games are carried out on the following basis:

It is not whether we win or lose,
but how much good we received out of the games; how much benefit our systems acquired and how well we play the game.

There have been no casualties and every effort was shown by each and every airman and airwoman to keep the game clean and sporting.

A FINE ARRAY OF PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED
