Mrs. A. Lothangue, of Ballyduff, Ont., writes: "I believe I would have been in my grave long ago had it not been for Burdock Blood Bitters. I was run down to such an extent that I could scarcely move about the house. I was subject to severe headaches, backaches and dizziness; my appetite was gone and I was unable to do my housework. After using two bottles of B. B. B. I found my health fully restored, I warmly recommend it to all tired and worn out women."

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

You Pay Only if Cured.

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write for it this very day.

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has both the method and the ability to do as he says. Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocoe, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

DR. S. GOLDBERG,
The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates,
Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the fourteen diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply, Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 567, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent free to you.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Miscellaneous.

BREEDING TO SIRE.

I have a few Aberdeen-Angus grade heifers, and as there is no pure-bred bull of the Angus breed near here, except the sire, would you advise breeding them back to the sire for one cross, or would you keep them another year till three years old before breeding, as I will be changing my bull next year? J. J. B.

Ans.—We would prefer breeding the heifers to their sire rather than not breed them till they were three years old. If the sire is a healthy, vigorous animal, the offspring will probably be of the same character. Of course, if a good bull of the same breed were within reasonable distance, we would prefer taking the heifers to him.

ABSCESSSES.

Three weeks ago, I noticed a lump as large as a hen's egg on the throat of a pig four months old. I applied iodine, without effect. About a week ago, I noticed another pig, at a different barn, with a similar lump. I got a veterinarian, and he lanced them and found each full of yellow matter. I find others with small lumps. What is the name of the disease? Is it contagious, and how should I treat. J. H. B.

Ans.—There is no specific disease that causes abscesses like these. They are due to some local cause, and the condition is not contagious. Treatment consists in lancing and flushing the cavity out once daily with a five-per-cent. solution of carbolic acid until healed.

MALT SPROUTS.

Please inform me of the best method of using malt sprouts to feed milking cows. Should they be used only after being soaked in boiling water, or may they be used dry; also in what quantities they should be fed with bran and ground oats? G. M.

Ans.—Malt sprouts have great absorbent powers, and if fed dry would absorb a large quantity of the digestive juices before they would be digested, consequently they should be soaked before being fed; not necessarily in boiling water, as that would cook the protein, and render it less digestible; but soak in warm water, if convenient. Three or four pounds a day can be fed with other grains. They are high in protein though, and consequently are more suitable for feeding with barley or corn than with bran or oats, but should give good returns with the latter, with the ordinary roughage.

CARE OF COW AT CALVING.

How should I manage a cow due to calve at end of month, and how should she be fed? What is the earliest time the milk would be good for use? What should the calf be fed on, if taken from cow early? SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—The only difference in feeding the cow needed is to give her such food as will have a tendency to relax the bowels. A bran mash once a day for a week would be good, or a few roots. Do not expose her to cold drafts for a few days after calving. Give her water in moderate quantity, with the chill taken off. Bran mashes are good after calving, in addition to good hay, and after a week, add light ration of meal to dry bran. It is better to leave the calf with the cow for four or five days, letting it suck at pleasure, and the cow should be only partially milked for the first four days. Milking out clean after calving is now believed to be a fruitful cause of milk fever. If the calf is taken away from the cow at birth, milk a little from each teat, and feed it about a quart three times a day, but do not milk out clean for four days. After the fifth day the milk may be used. Feed the calf new milk warm from the cow, two quarts three times a day after the first week, and at three weeks old mix one half the quantity of warm skim milk with the new, and gradually get down to skim milk; four quarts twice a day at a month old, fed lukewarm always. At that age the calf will learn to eat a little fine hay and whole oats, or ground oats and bran.
