THE SPICE OF LIFE.

Many curious excuses have been sent by parents to school teachers in Toronto in order to have their children stay at home and work, but the limit was recently reached in the following sent to a teacher in McCaul Street school:

"Toronto, Ont., March 8th, 1907.

"Miss H—,—Kindly let Reta out at 2 o'clock, as her sister is getting engaged, and oblige,

"JOSEPH PONARSKY."

The excuse was accepted, and the child went home at 2 p. m. The explanation lies in the fact that the Jews have a custom, when a young couple become engaged, to honor the event by a celebration, which takes the form of a party or feast. Of course, there is extra cooking and dish-washing to be done, and, therefore, the little girl was needed to help.— [Saturday Night.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

The Kentucky man who had the courage to buy Jay Bird, nine years ago, when that horse was twenty years old, and apparently in a bad way physically, has balanced his books on the profit; he made by purchasing the famous sire, and the figures show he made a shade over $37,500, as the owner of the son of George Wilkes. He made this money by the stud services of the noted horse, and sales he made of get bred by himself, after becoming owner of him. Doubtless something will be added to these figures, for another crop of foals sired by Jay Bird will be dropped this spring. What Jay Bird did for the man who bought him, after he was regarded as an old horse, sustains the belief of some good judges that the purchase of a sire of demonstrated merit, even though he may be well along in years, will generally prove a better investment than the purchase of a young horse with a reputation to make.

Miss Edna Wallace Hopper, the actress, is a good judge of horses, how good a judge she discovered only by chance. "It was one of the oddest experiences in speculation," said Miss Hopper, "that ever came to me. It happened several years ago, when I was on my way to the Pacific coast. It should be said, too, that it was before the Boer war had cleaned up the American ranges of mustangs. Horseflesh in the Northwest was hardly worth keeping track of. I chanced to stop off at Spokane, Wash., and, in going about the city, was attracted by a large crowd before the courthouse. Upon investigation, I found that an auction by the sheriff's office was going on, and a lot of cayuses—as they call them out there—was about to be sold. Curious, I waited to see the fun. The horses in a corral near-by looked mighty good to me, and I was struck by the evident lack of desire to bid on them. Finally the auctioneer managed to coax a bid of $50 for the lot. I could not believe my ears—50 cents apiece for real live horses! Something seized me and I called out a raise to $75, fully expecting, of course, that another buyer would go higher; but hardly were the words out of my mouth when the auctioneer snapped me up and knocked down the lot to my bid.

"I could not get out of it, and there I was with 100 horses on my hands, 3,000 miles away from New York. It looked for a time like the original white elephant, but, since I was on the trade, I determined to stay in. I made arrangements with a rancher a few miles out from Spokane to run the horses on his range, and I agreed to pay the expenses for winter feed and keep, for which he fixed a ridiculously low figure.
Then for the time being I dropped them from my mind. I returned to New York, and I had almost forgotten that I was the proud possessor of a band of horses, when I received a letter stating that an offer of $1,500 had been made for them by an agent of the British Government. I set the wires hot telegraphing my rancher to take the offer in a hurry, fearful that it might already be too late. In the course of a few weeks, I received a check for the full $1,500 from a Spokane bank. Counting the cost of keeping them, the cayuses averaged in cost $1 each to me; so my profit was a clean $1,400, which was not bad on an investment of such a size."

AND

All Fluxes of the Bowels.

It is without doubt the safest and most reliable remedy in existence.

It has been a household remedy for sixty-two years.

Its effects are instantaneous and it does not leave the bowels in a constipated condition.

Do not be humbugged into taking something the unscrupulous druggist says is just as good.

Mrs. Ed. Stringer, Hemmingford, Que., says: "I have used Dr. Fowler's EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY with excellent results. I always keep it in the house as it is the best cure for Diarrhoea that can be had.
