Music and Drama

Mary Pickford, in the movie drama "A Dawn of a To-morrow," the play made famous by Eleanor Robson and Gertrude Elliott (Mrs. Forbes Robertson) on the stage, is the chief attraction at the Brant. The story of how the poor girl in the slums brings back the wealthy man from despair to a belief in life, gives the brilliant screen artist an opportunity to show her skill in acting. The two vaudeville turns are exceptionally good. The three Gay sisters, novelty entertainers, and Sutton, McIntyre and Sutton, in "The Pumpkin Girl," a spectacular acrobatic novelty, pleased the house immensely.

ETHEL BARRYMORE NOW A METRO STAR

Admirers of Ethel Barrymore, the popular dramatic, who has a distinct and immense following among stage and screen devotees, will welcome her appearance here in a masterly five part photo-drama at The Colonial Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the noted star comes to that house in "The Final Judgment," produced by Metro. Miss Barrymore is supported by a cast of exceptionally high quality, and the picture was directed by the master hand of Edwin Grewe.

"The Final Judgment" was written by George Scarborough, author of "The Lure" and other successful stage productions. By a reversal of the usual procedure, presentation of the screen version precedes that of the stage production, which inaugurates a new order of things in stage and screen arrangement. Never before has a play by a recognized dramatist been seen in motion pictures before it was given to the speaking stage.

Twin Beds

At the Opera House To-Night—A Great and Wholesome Laugh Producer.

"Twin Beds," the play to be presented at the Grand Opera House to-night is one of the biggest and most wholesome laugh producers ever seen on the stage. The company opened an engagement in Hamilton last Friday night and this is what the Herald of that place has to say of the production:

"Particularly bright and cheerful is the comedy 'Twin Beds' by Virginia F. Fox, which was produced by the Grand Opera House last night. The theme is absolutely good and the characters firmly and naturally drawn. The comedy is a knock-out, but it is of an unusual type and the daring situations that crop up are all handled in a manner that would not even offend the Toronto committee of forty, and might even make it laugh.

Fresh slang, worked in with ease and spouted with the greatest degree of naturalism by Miss Virginia Fox, who played the role of Signora Monti, was one of the best features of the show. Miss Fairfax-Crell, she would have been a great actress, was a whole show all by herself. She had splendid command of herself and her lines, and was apparently in her glory.

The role of Blanche Hawkins is also clever, and was capably handled by Miss Aileen Poe. As the pleasant wife of a doctor, but loving husband, she opened up some great opportunities, and Miss Poe lent to her part all that it needed to make it a success.

Signor Monti, largely temperamental, is another well written character, and Atrien H. Rosley completely fitted it from the very first. The rest of the lines, Hamilton Mott, as Harry Hawkins, the jealous husband, showed a great deal of ability.

The other members of the company, Misses Kathryn Mills and Margaret Allen and Thomas H. Manning, provided a few extra laughs where a little breathing space was given to the others, and made up a fairly balanced and well trained company. The whole production—company, comedy and settings—is well above the average."

Women's Institute

The Burch Women's Institute met in the basement of the church January 25th, with a very good attendance. After the usual opening exercises were read, Mrs. Herb. McIntyre, wife of Mr. McIntyre, wife of Mr. McIntyre, aroused us with her reading, after which some important business was transacted, followed by the rolling of bandages for our soldier boys, which was an important object.

The next meeting will be in the basement of the church, with the program in the hands of Mrs. M. McIntyre and Mrs. Herb. McIntyre. It was decided to hold a Valentine box social in the basement of the school house, Feb. 14th. Every laddie bring a lassie, every lassie a box. A good program is being prepared, proceeds in aid of Red Cross work.

CAINSVILLE

The members of the Cainsville Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Seymour Cole on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 2nd. The president, Mrs. Reynolds, occupied the chair. The meeting opened by singing "Words for the night is Coming," followed by prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The following program was given: Mrs. A. Richardson read an account of "The life of Edith Cavell," which was very interesting. Instrumental solos, Miss R. Shaver. Mrs. H. Clark read "a few New Year Messages," written by Dr. C. C. James; solo, Miss Shaver; instrumental solos, Miss Dalton; it was decided to get yarn and flannel, and do knitting, and sewing Red Cross work, and also each member is giving 25c a month toward the same cause. A talent tea will be held at the next meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Folger. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

A CORNISH STRONGHOLD

There seem to have been hermits at St. Michael's Mount as early as the fifth century. In 1047, Edward the Confessor gave it to Mt. St. Michael in Normandy, and that Monastery founded upon it a Benedictine priory. Its history is a strenuous one. Ha'it fortress, half monastery, it knew as much of war's alarms as of the softer accents of peace. During King Richard's captivity, Henry de Pomeroy seized it for traitorous John, committing suicide upon the King's return. There came the Earl of Oxford fleeing from Barnet field. Disguised as pilgrims, he and his companions effected an entrance and held the place so bravely that he obtained a pardon. The next refugee was Lady Catherine Gordon, wife of the Pretender, Perkin Warbeck who, poor deluded soul, was handed over to the King. At the time of the Western Rebellion of 1499, when the Governor, Humphrey Arundell had joined the rebels, Mount St. Michael was besieged, taken by the Royal troops, retaken, and finally again captured by Master Brundell, who lost his head. In the Civil Wars Sir Francis Basset kept the Roundheads at bay for a while, but eventually capitulated and was allowed to retire to the Isles of Scilly. The refectory, now known as the "Chevy Chase" hall, and the chapel, still remain. On the top of the tower you may, if you have the head, squeeze into "St. Michael's chair," the remains of a stone lantern, a beacon light for fishermen. It is said that if you get in before your wife you will rule her.

Morris Klein, owner of a saloon at Chicago Heights, was killed in a revolver battle by James Ture, of 105 Stevenson avenue, Joliet.

Help to Make Her Dream Come True

SHE is one of some Three Million Belgians who, since they refused to sell their honor to Germany, have lived on the brink of starvation. A thriving industrial people, used to life's comforts, they have been reduced to a state where they dream, not of luxuries or pleasures, but of having enough to eat.

True to their character as the war has unmasked it, the Germans callously refuse to help the starving. The task of feeding them has been undertaken by Belgium's Allies and Neutral Nations, through the provided by voluntary contributions and administered with wonderful economy and efficiency by a neutral Commission.

Absolutely none of the supplies go to Germans, and most of the food taken into the country is paid for by Belgians who have still a little money. But to feed those who cannot pay, nearly $2,500,000 a month is needed!

Surely no people ever deserved our sympathy and aid more than do these starving Belgians!

WHERE ROADS ARE NOT. Excepting Stanley's old road from Masati to Stanley Pool, now rarely used, and the lately constructed roads in the Katanga connecting the different mines, there are no roads in the Congo. Native trails, waterways and railways furnish the only facilities of transportation. Over the trails, native porters, carry loads averaging 60 pounds on their heads. There are no native industries in the Belgian Congo. In former days, before the state required so much of the natives' time to gather rubber and prepare food, and before traders had introduced manufactured goods, the natives wove grass cloth and mats, made baskets, metal spears, implements and ornaments. Now, even though the rubber days are past, the new generation knows little of the native arts, and the young men are usually found in the service of the state as soldiers or workmen.

DIME FUND TO BUILD BATTLESHIP

Brooklyn Girl Started It, and Roosevelt Sends Her Ten of Them.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, Feb. 8.—Marjorie Sturrett, a Brooklyn girl, has started a fund to build a battleship for Uncle Sam by sending a dime and writing a letter to a New York newspaper, calling upon other children to contribute a like amount, is treasuring to-day a letter from Col. Roosevelt, in which he enclosed ten dimes. Colonel Roosevelt said that four of them were for his four grandchildren and the other six for his grandchildren who are "not born yet." Marjorie's fund now amounts to $55.30.

NO SCARCITY IN RUSSIA

Food Shortage at Some Points, Due to Faulty Transportation.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Feb. 8.—Commenting on the announcement that the Russian minister of agriculture has ordered two more fast days weekly in Russia, despatches received from Petrograd say there is no serious scarcity of food in Russia generally, but only at a few isolated points, and that this is due largely to faulty transportation.

Generally speaking, the newspapers say the scarcity of provisions is peculiar to Petrograd, which must be provisioned by means of a single railway, which already is heavily taxed by war business.

At Moscow the situation is normal and everywhere else, both in town and country there are ample supplies and the mass of the people are in better condition to purchase than ever before. The peasants are receiving about double the amount for their produce and labor and cannot waste their means on drink. The only reason why the new fast days apply to the whole empire is a precaution to overcome the tendency to eat more meat than ever, and thereby cause a dangerous drain on the supply of cattle.

BIRDS AT PLAY

The prairie grouse in Saskatchewan have a spring-time dance, fifteen or twenty of them joining in round after round, and making all the noise they can. Mr. Thompson Seton, in a recent lecture said he had watched one of these revels.

The merry game of "King of the Castle" is quite a passion among badgers. One game-keeper told Mr. Seton how badgers used to gather every night round an old tree-stump and when one mounted to the top the others would snap his tail or hind legs and pull him down. Then another would mount in his place, and the game would be played for a long time without any ill feeling.

But, foxes are not particularly sociable, however intellectual they may be. In winter nights they will meet when the moon is shining and just sit in a big circle looking at each other. It is a sort of a Quakers' meeting, but when this begins to get monotonous one gets up and walks with dignity to the centre, his tail stuck out behind, and the fur round his throat puffed out importantly. At all these council meetings the same thing happens. Whoever has the ear of the house utters his message in sharp sentences—"Chir-chir"—and retires to make room for another until closing time.

Birds are more highly developed socially than animals, and, nothing pleases a prairie chicken like the sound of a drum. Some birds rear by the lecturer used to begin a sort of cakewalk on a big tin tray under the stove whenever they felt happy. They simply loved to hear their little feet thump the tin and, if drummed with his fingers or the furniture, down would go their wee heads and up would go their wee tails, and they would be at it like professionals.
