LAW AT

SEATTLE

Must Not Smoke Cigarettes or Tip the Waiter or You Are Liable to Be Fined - The Criminal Code Is Strict and Hard to Enforce.

Seattle, July 19—Have you a pocket edition of the new criminal code?

If you are a normal human being and at all susceptible to the normal temptation to be naughty, you should have one concealed on your person day and night. Safety demands it. For all you know you might be fracturing some of these new laws.

The doubts that assail one's mind as to just what one may do without coming in touch with the courts are getting beyond endurance. Anyway, there are some who say that you may smoke cubes, play pingpong and parlor croquet and still be free of visions of the men in blue tapping you on the shoulder and saying, "We would enjoy your presence down at the police court."

With the new laws in effect the pessimist has discovered suddenly that life is worth living, after all, and that his existence is full of bright things, including the criminal code, which by some strange metamorphosis, has changed him into the most hopeful optimist in the state of Washington.

"Three long cheers for the new criminal code, boys," screams the pessimistic person with enthusiasm. "Let them be loud and strong, but not too loud to be vulgar."

The old, old query which has tended to make a certain kind of soap quite famous may now be stilled for ever and a day in Washington, and in its place, there may rise up that delightful question, "Good morning; have you read our criminal code today?"

Should Possess Code.

Those who have been fortunate to hold their rapturous gaze upon the pages of the new code, in an attempt to discover what a regular human can do and still escape a fine, are strong in the opinion that but two things will make one invulnerable. The prescription is to the effect that one must get in touch with a pocket edition of this code product and then get busy in working up a first-class memory. With these as your armor, experts say you are quite safe from doing an injustice to yourself.

Those discreet persons who have it figured out that they may sit up and smoke in their apartments are in positive danger, although they may not know it. If you take the trouble to read over the new code, no matter how difficult it may be to find one, you will discover that the cigarette, tipping and other little clauses that preclude you from indulging in a few of the luxuries of life, are only mere instances of the calamity that is nicely concealed in the closing pages of the code.

For example, have you seen or heard about this little clause? Every person engaged wholly or in part in the business of carrying passengers for hire, and every agent, servant or employee of such person, who shall knowingly permit any person to drink intoxicating liquor in any public conveyance, except in the compartment where such liquor is served or sold under the authority of a license lawfully issued, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Therefore, if you see fit to take a little ride in a taxicab, and also see fit to keep the dust from choking you by limbing from a bottle by some chance you have in your pocket, you are invoking the displeasure of the courts and are liable to the law. Moreover, you may be arrested, with the driver, and yanked before the powers that be. And, also say the wisacres, who have read the code, do not offer a small gratuity to the chauffeur; it's against the law and besides, the man might get offended.

The visitors to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, some of whom have been dissipating to the extent of taking a ride over Seattle in one of the rubber-neck automobiles, and who, perhaps, all unthinking of the criminal code, decide that a short gulp from a flask would seem appropriate, are in danger of getting into serious trouble with the police force. According to the dictates of the code, the man with the bottle may be arrested, and the driver, the barker and all the passengers taken down to court as witnesses to the misdemeanor committed.

Hard on the Saloons. In dwelling on the brewery product, here is another clause of the criminal code that it is said is calculated to get somebody into trouble: "Every person who, as principal, agent or otherwise, shall sell or offer for sale any spirituous or distilled liquor known as whiskey (except Scotch or Irish whiskey), any part of which has not been aged for the period of four years in wooden barrels or casks or who shall, as principal, agent or otherwise, sell or offer for sale any malt liquor that has not been aged for a period of more than 60 days, or which contains more than eight per cent. of alcohol by weight, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Even to Prosecuting Attorney George F. Vanderveer, who helped formulate the code, it is not quite clear how this law is going to be enforced. At the very least it will be a very difficult task.

This means that the practice of doing a little brewing in the cellar, at odd moments and with odd proportions in the shape of liquor, will receive a serious setback at the hands of the law. The man who on several occasions has seriously burned his throat by taking a big gulp or so of whisky made in this manner is of the opinion that this part of the code should be put into effect with rigor.

JUMPED THE TRACK AND TURNED OVER

Two Killed and Many Injured in Interurban Car Accident.

New Bremen, Ohio, July 19—Two persons were killed and many injured here on Saturday, when an interurban car on the Western Ohio Railroad line jumped the track and turned over. Herman Horstans, conductor on the car, and a fireman, name unknown who was aboard were instantly killed. The car was entering the town at a high rate of speed, as it approached a curve in one of the streets the motor-man lost control, the wheels struck the curved rails and after bumping along the road a short distance, toppled over on its side.

RAINY RIVER BANK ROBBERS

Who Look Like Them.

Kenora, July 20—Last night some lumbermen picking up logs in Bishop's Bay, some 30 miles south of here, noticed three men tallying with a description of the Rainy River bank robbers and word was sent to town this morning that they appeared to be heading this way. About noon yesterday provincial constable Mason and a posse of men left on the steamer Standard to intercept them if possible. They went well armed with rifles in order to force their surrender if they found them.

FATHER AND SON DROWN

Duluth, Minn., July 19.—John H. Schuler, aged 60 years, and his son, John H. Schuler, jr., aged 35 years, were drowned in the St. Louis river at Fond Du Lac, 12 miles from Duluth sometime yesterday afternoon. How it happened may never be known. Father and son went fishing in a row boat, and when they did not return, a search party was made and the dead bodies were discovered when the river was dragged. Schuler was an employee of the Zenith Furnace Company.

It Puzzled Him

The proprietor of a tanyard was anxious to fix a suitable sign to his premises. Finally a happy thought struck him.

He bored a hole through the door-post and stuck a calf's tail into it with the tufted end outside.

After a while he saw a solemn-faced man standing near the door looking at the sign. The tanner watched him a minute and then stepped out and addressed him.

"Good morning, sir," he said. "Good morning," said the other, without taking his eyes off the sign. "Do you want to buy leather?"

"No."

"Perhaps you've got some hides to sell?"

"No."

"Are you a farmer?"

"No."

"What are you then?"

"I am a philosopher. I've been standing here for nearly an hour trying to find out how that calf got through that hole."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber,

Who pays in advance without skipping a year;

Who lays down his dollar, and offers it gladly,

And casts round the office a halo of cheer.

Who never says "Stop it, I cannot afford it!"

Or, "getting more papers now than I read;"

But always says send it, the whole outfit likes it—

In fact, we regard it a business need."

How welcome is he when he steps in the sanctum,

How he makes 'our heart' throb, how he makes 'our eye' dance,

We outwardly thank him,—we inwardly bless him—

The steady subscriber who pays in advance.
