F. Marion Crawford, has been received from The Copp, Clark Co., 9 Front street, Toronto. It is in neat binding and with excellent type, the manual part of the production being superior. As to the story, it is one of the best by the above named popular author. The scene of the novel is laid in Rome; the Saracinesca family and their peers are again among the chief actors; but it is no longer the old Rome depicted in Saint Ilario. Don Orsino Saracinesca, the hero of the story, differs in many essentials from the Roman noble of the old school. It is sufficiently fascinating as a love story and a work of art to render the average novel reader insociology. The heroine of the story is a noble creation. There is a mystery about her which is maintained until the end, when Don Orsino wakes at length to the full
