The Newest Franciscan Vicariate in China

The Franciscan Order has charge of ten Vicariates in China The last of these was erected in 1911 by His Holiness Pope Pius X., in the Province of Shensi. Trains Inward, Read Up. This Vicariate, which is adjacent! to Mongolia, covers a very mountainous territory, which is extremely cold, and, for the most part, unfertile. It comprises about 3.000,000 inhabitants, amongst whom, when the Vicariate was erected, there were only 2,300 Christains. There are at present thirteen Catholic Missionaries is they were two battalions who a chall of Frederic and the most of the were two battalions who a chall of Frederic and the most of the were two battalions who a chall of Frederic and the most of the were two battalions who a chall of Frederic and the most of the were two battalions who a chall of Frederic and the most of the were two battalions who are the comparison. boring there under the direction on the eve of the outbreak of the European war, this newest of the Franciscan Missions has been founded in a poverty which must specially endear it to the heart of St. Francis.
