OBITUARY.

It is with feelings of sincere regret we record the death of Mr. G. Louis Inkpen, which occurred Saturday afternoon. For about two years past Mr. Inkpen had been in a state of ill health, and on two occasions had to submit to a serious operation. His enfeebled condition as a result of this untended him to successfully fight an attack of pneumonia fever to which he succumbed. Mr. Inkpen who was in his 38th year was the son of Mr. Joseph Inkpen, of Burin, and for many years was assistant in the dry goods department of Bishop & Monroe, this city, where by his kindness and geniality he made a host of friends. Two years ago when the firm of Bishop & Monroe dissolved partnership Mr. Inkpen joined Mr. Geo. Nicholls in the establishment of the firm of Nicholls & Inkpen, but his illness prevented his taking much active part in its affairs. Mr. Inkpen was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, for years being attached to St. John's Lodge. He was also prominent member of the choir of Gower Street Church. A wife and one daughter survive Mr. Inkpen, and to them the Telegram extends its sincerest sympathy.

Boys' Recreation Grounds.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir.—Parents all over the city now look at the question of proper recreation grounds for their boys with seriousness. When Bannerman Park was known as "the Government meadow," not so long ago, it was used by the boys of the East End of the city for cricket and football, and for the matter of that by men also.

Grounds in near the tannery, below the "Penitentiary," and "in aback of Hennebury's," at Freshwater, were also availed of and nice cricket grounds were provided there, while the Parade Ground was also a favourite for the youthful devotees of cricket, football and other athletic exercises.

These other of the well-to-do are well provided in this respect, the grounds of the different colleges and the Golf Links accommodating them, but others cannot indulge the boyish propensities for beautiful outdoor sports, except they run the risk of prosecution for trespassing on private property. The outcome is that boys are kept to the streets after school hours where they form friendships with vicious associates and get into trouble. At the same time owing to such associations the morals inculcated by painstaking tutors are jeopardized and parents, especially mothers, often spend hours of anxiety knowing that their sons are running the risk of being drowned in prowling around wharves or vessels, and of getting into scrapes by being with bad companions. Most people think that the Parade Ground should be selected as a playground for our boys. At present a lot of wire fencing some of it bestrewing the ground and a menace to the persons and clothing of pedestrians is placed there and the boys cannot have access to it. A small expenditure would put it in condition to be used for outdoor sports, and something should be done with the place so that boys would congregate there and enjoy themselves as of yore. It was always a public property and should not be given over to private parties. There is an added reason why boys should be allowed to go there in the fact that they would be under the immediate influence of the police from the barracks nearby, and as many of the city schools are contiguous, their teachers could find it convenient to be present at their games often and unseemly conduct would thus be avoided. A proper playground for boys is now an admitted necessity, and the sooner one is provided the better will it be for children and parents alike.

CITIZEN.

WRITES PROTEST IN BLOOD.

Special to Evening Telegram.

PEKIN, May 29.—The opposition of the gentry and leaders in Hunan and the provinces to the acceptance by the Chinese Government of the Kankow-Chuen railway loan has not diminished. On the contrary the anti-foreign sentiment regarding this particular subject is becoming more pronounced. The extremely hostile feeling was expressed in a startling manner recently. The President of the Board of Communications received a letter from the leader of the opposition in Hunan province protesting against the conclusion of the loan. The communication was written in the blood of the writer's severed finger. During the negotiations between the financial groups of Great Britain, Germany, France and the U. S., there were occasional manifestations against the Government in the two provinces, and the trouble became acute a few weeks before the loan agreement was signed in Paris by the members of the International Banking Syndicate. It is generally believed the violence organized by the gentry and done by the natives at Changsha, the capital of Hunan, was intensified to a considerable degree by opposition to the acceptance by Chinese of foreign capital and foreign direction in the construction of the Hankow railroad which influential personages in the province wished to be built, if at all, with Chinese capital. Much uneasiness was felt here during the outbreaks at Changsha and other nearby points, and in order to get a definite knowledge of the situation, U. S. Minister Cahoon despatched the military attaché of the Legation on a tour of investigation. The attaché visited Hunan Province and has just returned here. He reports that the situation in the provinces is encouraging. The Government troops, he says, are in control of the inland points at which the riots have occurred.

Flight from Albany to New York.

Special to Evening Telegram.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 29.—Glenn H. Curtiss flew from Albany to New York City in an aeroplane today, winning the $10,000 prize offered by the New York World. He covered the distance, 137 miles, in 2 hours and 32 minutes, and came to earth as easily and lightly as a pigeon. His average speed, distance was 54.06 miles an hour, which surpasses any record ever made by an aeroplane in long distance flights, and his feat perhaps eclipses anything man has done in a heavier than air machine.

S. MILLEY.

Italian Held in "Black Hand" Inquiry Confesses, Through Fear of Comet That He Slew His Neighbor.

New York, May 21.—Luigi Circice, believed to be one of the most powerful and daring leaders of the Black Hand, could shoot down his aged neighbour, Patrick Cahill, last Sunday night on the lonely road between Newmarket and South Plainfield, N. J. He could carry the body in his arms to his tiny hut, wrap it in burials and blankets out of some whim of decency to the dead, and bury it twenty feet down in the yard behind his home.

He could sleep three nights alone in the hut, where, whenever he turned his head on the pillow and faced the window, he could see the grave in the moonlight not twelve feet away. He could join the son of the dead man and the police in searching the countryside for Cahill, and with them could traverse the scene of the killing and stand upon the carefully beaten dirt about the grave.

And when arrested and taken to the jail in Newark, not as a murderer but as a "Black Hand" suspect on Wednesday, he could calmly endure hours of the "third degree." But he could not stand the terror that came upon him that evening when he heard for the first time of the strange, fiery monster in the skies that was "coming to destroy the world."

They had let him have a newspaper in his cell, and, reading it, he became like a madman. He fell upon his knees and prayed. He arose and paced frantically in his prison. He began to cry out at last for some one to come and hear his confession. Chief of Police Brown, when the prisoner was brought before him, thought that he was dealing with a lunatic.

"The world is coming to an end," cried Luigi. "All the people will be killed. I will be killed. I cannot die without confession. It was I who killed Pat Cahill. You will find him—he is in the ground behind my house and I shot him. Then I put him in the ground."

Chief Brown and his detectives had arrested Circice in his own hut that afternoon on suspicion of being a leader in the many blackmailing outrages in Newark and Plainfield during the last few months. They had even thought of him as the possible slayer of Cahill, whose disappearance last Sunday night was believed to be one of the man's habitual departures from home.

Even after the confession they strongly doubted the truth of it. But Chief of Police Kiley was notified yesterday, and with Detectives Flynn, Tenore and Carden, he went out to the hut yesterday afternoon.

They found the body of Cahill twenty feet below the surface. It was in a sitting posture. The head was wrapped in burial bags, and over it two horse blankets were spread. On top of these a thick layer of corn husks had been spread, and then the stones and dirt had been thrown on top.

There was a bullet wound through the head and one in the middle of the back, and Cahill had also been struck heavily over the head. In the rickety little hut, not more than twelve feet square, where up to a few days before killing Circice, his wife and nine children had managed to find living room, there was little to be found except four or five small hand organs.

These represented Circice's daylight business—the leadership of a group of organ grinders, whom he sent out each day to pick up small change in the streets of Plainfield. His midnight business, the police believe, from revelations made after the discovery of Cahill's body, was the plotting of "Black Hand" schemes and the execution of "Black Hand" threats with the aid of his mysterious associates.

SEAMEN ARRESTED.—Friday evening five of the seamen of the Carl E. Richard made trouble with the captain, and also on Saturday evening. The captain sent for the police and aid of his mysterious associates.

Twitching of the Nerves

Wonderful cure brought about by DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

It is only by watching the symptoms of nervous exhaustion and applying restorative treatment that you can ever hope to ward off locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

Mrs. E. J. Vanderburgh, of Eastern Welland Ave., St. Catharines, Ont., states:—"For twenty-one years I was badly afflicted with heart trouble, nervousness and cramps in the limbs, also twitching of the nerves and nervous headaches. I became weak, debilitated and emaciated. My condition was distressing and I was made worse through worry and loss of sleep. "I tried a hundred remedies in vain. After having used half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my old troubles had entirely vanished, and I was enjoying better health than I had since girlhood. "Such cases as this prove the wonderful efficiency of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures in Nature's way by enriching the blood and for this reason enriching the blood and its benefits are lasting. 50 cts. a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Boys Go Off With Team

Saturday Mrs. Power, of Middle Cove, left her horse and express on Duckworth Street, and while absent in a store two boys took the team and delayed the woman, who was anxious to get home. They kept the fit-out for two hours driving about the country roads. On returning they stole a jar of cream worth 50 cents from the express and were making off with it when Const. Cleary gave chase. They dropped the jar, which fortunately did not break. Both will appear in court today.
