The British Attack Again.

To the terrific onslaught and glorious victory of the British army at Arras and Vimy Ridge there succeeded the necessary interval of rest and fresh preparation. The inevitable rejoinder of the enemy came in the form of counter attacks of a fury which almost spoke despair. From Vimy to Monchy the lowlands of the Scarpe are a shambles. The more open nature of the fighting has recalled the first days of the war and again we read of the Germans advancing in massed attacks. They suffered heavily enough from them at Monchy and after, but what must the slaughter be beneath the hell of fire that now descends upon them at a moment's warning? Brutal as it may seem, this is the best sort of news we could hear at present. It means that Germany is making a desperate stand, betraying in her frantic efforts her knowledge of the dire necessity of making them; and it means that her army is being reduced by the one terrible process that will alone bring about the end.

The counter attacks have failed and now the British have begun another onslaught. The Canadians won fresh laurels on Saturday by taking Arleux at a bound and since holding it. The greatest fury of the battle is focussed upon the front between this village and Gavrelle, the spear-head of the attack that is aimed directly at Douai. Probably it will turn north as it progresses and drive a wedge between Lens and Douai, an achievement which would effectually smash the flank of the new German line. A great battle is joined on this small field and great issues rest upon it, probably greater than any that have yet hung in the balance. We can await the event with confidence. This is no Neuve Chapelle or Loos. If need be, the British guns will blast every foot of the way to the point where resistance finally breaks and the human dam crumbles. An unmatched artillery, a peerless infantry and a dauntless spirit—that is what the contemptible little army has grown to. It is a combination that will carry a dozen Hindenburg lines.

Great Men and Great Deeds.

As we go to press the message from Sir Edward Morris to the Governor reaches us. Comment is almost superfluous. No words that we could write could intensify the thrill of pride that must stir every Newfoundlander who reads the glowing tribute paid to our Regiment by the world's greatest newspaper. If we at home shared much of the opinion it expresses, it was not seemly for us to give it utterance; the greater honor is it to hear it from outside. No other unit in the British Army, the Times says, has seen harder fighting and no other inflicted such losses on the enemy. Many other papers praise it as highly. For the moment there is but one response that we can make. The Regiment has been hard hit. It is our duty, and it will be our dishonour if we do not perform it, to see that the gaps in the brave ranks are filled, and that the Regiment that has won such a place continues to occupy it to the end.

Back From West; Prospe o's Stormy Trip

The 'Bowling' coaster Prospero, Capt. Parsons, returned from Western ports at 10.30 a.m., after a stormy trip. She brought a full freight and these passengers in saloon: Const. O'Flaherty, J. Chafe, R. Parsons, B. Lynch, R. Williams, Geo. Foote, C. Lake, H. Slaney, A. Turpin, G. F. Hann, J. Hoban, B. Daley, J. C. Gibbons, S. Hearn, G. Gond, C. Rose, S. Strang, S. Keeping, H. Bobbitt, W. Sutton, G. Rose, R. Roberts, S. Bartlett, F. Fudge, L. E. Pike; Miss Riggs and 30 second class. All along the southwest coast active preparations are being made for the bank and shore fishery. We learn that there is a sign of cod already around St. Mary's.

Steep Incline Negotiated

During a home-week celebration at Walla Walla, Wash., some time ago, a motor-car dealer erected an incline in front of his saleroom for the purpose of demonstrating the hill-climbing abilities of certain automobiles, according to the March Popular Mechanic Magazine. The slanting driveway was extended from the sidewalk curb to the cornice of the one-story building at an angle of 45 degrees. After several machines had failed in an attempt to reach the top of the incline, a young motorcyclist resolved to try the feat. His machine proved to be even more powerful than he believed. Becoming somewhat confused, he failed to stop the engine at the point he had planned, and instead of dismounting at the top of the incline, he rode entirely over the cornice and part way across the roof of the building. He managed to slide off the roof just in time to escape accompanying the motorcycle as it plunged through a skylight into the saleroom below.—Popular Mechanic.

Here and There.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. (Dr.) Lehr left for Boston yesterday.

DR. A. F. PERKINS' Surgery will close during the month of May, and will re-open on June 1st.—apr30,31

SHIPPING HELD UP.—The Reid Nfld. Co.'s coastal boats together with several other ships, which were scheduled to leave port this morning, have been detained owing to the inclemency of the weather.

COMRADES' GLEE CLUB.—All members are requested to attend practice to-night at 9.15 in Presbyterian Hall.—ap30,31

REVOLTING CRIME.—One of the most outrageous and revolting crimes ever heard of in this country was unearthed recently by the authorities in Glovertown, Bonavista Bay. The perpetrator is Redvers Harris, a 17-year-old fisherman of that place, who was continuing the crime for two years past. The victim is a sister, several years younger than the outlaw himself. The prisoner was brought on to the city last night by Detective Byrne. This morning he was arraigned before Judge Morris, who read the charge. The Judge stated that the offence was an indictable one and remanded the prisoner for eight days.

WIRES INTERRUPTED; SLIGHT WASHOUTS.—Owing to the violent snow storm now raging up country the Reid Nfld. Co.'s telegraph wires have been interrupted and as a result communication west of Clarendville is cut off. Early Saturday morning the storm was first felt at the Topshills, when a driving rain and sleet swept the surrounding country, gradually working its way eastward. As night approached a deluge of rain poured from the heavens, making it difficult for the trains to proceed. Several slight washouts have occurred which, aided by the present unusual fall of snow for this period of the year, will undoubtedly cause trouble along the railway. At Shoe Cove and Seal Cove, C.B., the local train for Carbonear which left here this morning was detained for a short time while repairs were being made to the railway bed.

TUESDAY'S COUNTRY STORE.

To-night there is a splendid show at Rossley's, "The Browns", a great sketch carried out by children: Miss Clara Squires as the "Henpecked Husband"; Miss Florence Baird as "Giddy Wife" and clever little Kathleen Barnes as "Pete, the Colored Servant". There are also songs and dances. On Tuesday night the Country Store. Something for the men. The Imperial Tobacco Co. are giving half a thousand of their famous Gem cigarettes as a big present—nearly seven hundred dollars' worth of cigarettes to one person. There are scores of lovely things for everybody and there are no favourites. First come, first served. Reduce the cost of living and attend the Country Stores on Tuesday and Thursday. All this week Miss Bonnie Rossley will recite the beautiful poem "Fags" and throw cigarettes in to the audience. Great show all the week. In preparation, great Indian playlet.

OUR MAGNIFICENT REGIMENT.

"London Times" gives it highest possible praise. Press rings with eulogies of its work.

(Copy of Cablegram from Sir Edward Morris to His Excellency the Governor.)

LONDON, April 30, 1917.

To GOVERNOR, Newfoundland.

Bowring and I returned from Arras to-day. Held a Review and distributed medals. Men in excellent health and spirits. Windsor draft all well. Times publishes leader to-day on Newfoundlanders' operations; it says:

"When the Newfoundlanders were engaged on the Somme they did excellently. In the Battle of Arras they have added new lustre to their reputation. They pushed to the further point of our advance and met the counter attack of the enemy in overwhelming numbers and held the German masses at arm's length. Then came the Newfoundlanders' opportunity, and the next half hour saw such a slaughter of Germans as has only been witnessed once or twice. In the battle no enemy got back and fifteen hundred Germans were found dead. The Newfoundlanders have had harder fighting than any other unit of the British Army, and no troops in proportion to their size have inflicted heavier losses on the enemy."

Other papers write in equally flattering terms. All men in hospitals are doing well.

(Signed) E. P. MORRIS.

Geo. Knowling.*Good Hopes of Our Missing Men.

Mr. P. E. Outerbridge yesterday received a message from Sir Joseph Outerbridge stating that he held high hopes of the safety of Lieut. Norman Outerbridge and the men who were with him. The message said that no news could be expected from the Red Cross sources for about a month. We infer that Sir Joseph Outerbridge has sufficient foundation for the belief that the missing men are prisoners in Germany, and this, added to the silence from the front, will encourage many here to a similar belief.
