Sleep Standing Up.

How do you go to sleep? Most human beings sleep on their ides, with the knees drawn up, and every kind of animal has its own position for repose. Elephants always and horses commonly sleep standing up, while birds, with the exception of owls and the hanging parrots of India, sleep with their heads turned round over the back and the beak thrust among the feathers between the wings and the body. Storks, gulls and other long-legged birds sleep standing on one leg. Ducks sleep on open water, and to avoid drifting shoreward they keep paddling with one foot, thus moving in a circle Sloths sleep hanging by their four feet, the head tucked in between their forelegs. Foxes and wolves sleep curled up, their noses and the soles of their feet close together and blanketed by their bushy tails. Hares, snakes and fish sleep with their eyes wide
