Bonia Meets With the Worst Freeze-Out on Record

IN THE HISTORY OF PLACENTIA. Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The like of the reception which Bonia has been meeting with around this section of our district ranks as the worst "freeze-out" on record. Talk about politicians having been disgraced and despised before, why their experience was but Charlie Chaplin fun compared to the fifty below zero biting sarcasm and contempt for Coaker's minion, as he is greatly styled. The man who inspired the idea of bringing out Bonia as one who could politically buy up the voters of Placentia Bay should be mummified like old King Tut of Egypt and preserved for a thousand years to show the voters of that far-off period a sample of the most colossal simper that existed in Newfoundland during the year 1923. As for Bonia himself, it would be better perhaps, to forget him, for Placentia would rather that no son of hers should be remembered as endeavoring to inflict more injury on the fishermen of Newfoundland than they have already suffered from the four years of excessive taxation and the withering fishery policy of the Squires-Coaker Government. There is such vehement indignation all over Placentia Bay against Bonia and his two minions who are with him that I doubt if they will have nerve enough to stand for nomination. If they do they will get their deserts: last places thousands of votes to the rear.

Yours truly,

ANTI-TRAITOR.

Roll Call Every Hour.

WHAT IS THE OBJECT.

Some person apparently in authority passed an order yesterday that the timekeepers at the rock sheds were to make a roll call every hour of the day. The latter apparently tried to do as they were told and accordingly the roll was called at 2 o'clock. The men were somewhat surprised but when they realized that they would have to stop work to answer their names every hour afterwards they strongly resented what appeared to them as an attempt to class them as convicts who might be planning escape.

AT THE PLAY.

BULLDOG DRUMMOND.

(By Our Dramatic Critic.)

Cyril McNelle, better known as "Sapper," is a comparatively new writer, a product of the war, and although he may have written better novels, from a literary point of view, than "Bulldog Drummond," none of his stories have achieved the same success.

"Bulldog Drummond," since its publication in serial form, has become one of the most famous of best sellers, and it is only natural that it should have been dramatized.

It is a crook play, but it is vastly different from the common or garden crook play. Drummond, in fact, is unique. He is not handsome, as all heroes have been, but fascinatingly ugly, and on the surface, he is stupid and lazy.

Wearied of the monotony which followed the excitement of the war years, he advertised in the Times, asking that some thrilling adventures be placed in his way. Phyllis Benton answers the advertisement, and tells what appears to be a highly imaginative yarn. At her Godalming home, strange things are in the habit of happening. The uncle with whom she lives appears to be under the influence of his neighbours, Peterson and Lakington. He lives in constant dread of them, while Phyllis, who is, of course, charming, does not know. The house which Peterson and Co. inhabit is supposed to be a nursing home, but strange things happen there, and Phyllis has frequently heard terrible cries, the screams of a tortured man, coming from it. Although he disbelieves her story, Drummond decides to investigate it, and finds that an American millionaire is in the power of the arch-villains, who are torturing him for the purpose of obtaining some valuable diamonds he possesses.

From then on, the plot waxes fast and furious. Drummond rescues the millionaire, and taking his place, gains admittance to the mysterious house. He is made prisoner and Phyllis, too, is captured. A thrilling escape follows, and Lakington is killed. Peterson turns the tables on Drummond, however, but is himself made prisoner, and escapes through a clever plan. An then, of course, Phyllis and Drummond marry and continue their adventures in "The Black Gang," a novel which "Sapper" has just published. All things considered, the stages of the play was very well done, and reflects great credit upon Mr. Bentley, the producer. Mr. W. Carey, as "Hugh Drummond" did very well, although, in the first act, a little prompting was necessary. Miss Dennis was also very good as "Phyllis," although she did not have a part which gave sufficient scope to her emotional abilities. Fred Allen played "Dr. Lakington," so ably, and was made up so well, that a cold shiver went down the backs of the audience whenever he appeared. I think his acting was by far the best, and I do hope that there are no people like him in real life, for I should hate to encounter them on a dark night. Hal Shaughnessy, too, gave a clever portrayal of the role of "James Handley," the uncle. He was so good, that I was very much annoyed when he committed suicide in the first act. As the villain, "Peterson," Mr. Harvey gave a clever characterization, but he was not quite as sinister-looking as I should have expected so terrible a criminal to be. A waxed, black moustache would have gone very well with the part. Miss Moulton did very well as "Irene," the female villain. She wasn't by any means the tigercat one expected to find her, but rather a cold, calculating person, a modern Lucretia Borgia, in fact. The minor roles were admirably sustained, particularly that of Drummond's friend, Algy Longworth, played by Mr. West. Several local amateurs, in the persons of Messrs. T. V. Payn, Karl Trapnell and Wallace, appeared in the cast, and did themselves credit. Annette, the maid, was played by Miss Lee. On the whole "Bulldog Drummond" is well worth seeing, and I bespeak crowded houses for its short run of one week.

More Good News.

CARD PARTY AND DANCE HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL.

A large gathering attended the Card Party and Dance in St. Joseph's Hall last night. Upwards of ninety ladies and gentlemen participated in the card tournament for two valuable prizes. The lucky winners were Miss Nellie Codner and Mr. F. Burt. The ladies of the Parish served teas during the evening, while the dance proved very popular, and was kept up until after midnight. Mr. Tom Bennett's orchestra furnished the music. The evening's entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and another such affair as held last night is being looked forward to in the near future.

It is best to fry only a few things at a time, as too many will tend to cool the fat, and the food will become soaked with grease.

Not Nice That dingy film on teeth

Millions now combat it

You see today white glistening teeth—teeth that look clean and safe. And you see dingy teeth. Let us show you where the difference lies. See what a change can come in a week. Ask for this ten-day test.

Combat the film

Film is what makes teeth cloudy, and film ruins teeth. That is the vicious coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

It is curdled

Dental science, after long research, has found ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle it, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. These two great film combatants have come to millions by it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Careful people of some 50 nations now employ it, largely by dental advice. New beauty and new safety have come to millions by it.

The New-Day Dentifrice

A scientific tooth paste based on modern research, free from harmful grit. Now advised by leading dentists the world over.

Free A 10-Day Tube

See Coupon

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

Manifold power

Pepsodent also gives manifold power to Nature's tooth-protecting agents. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids. Thus, night and day, tooth enemies are fought as they never were before.

A delightful test

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Then you will know how to beautify your teeth. You will know how to better protect them. This is too important to neglect. Cut out the coupon now.
