Murison on probation, and to ordain him in the evening. The induo-tion of Rev. W. L. Clay as pastor of St. Andrew's church had to be postponed, he having been detained by the Mainland floods. The members of the presbytery present were Rev. D. A. Macrae, of Na-to number of the presbytery service mederators. Ray, Dr. Campbell.

It is probable that the prosecution will be dropped in the case of Eugene Barnet, oharged with attempting to commit suicide, when the matter is brought to trial in the police court to-morrow. Barnet declares that he bad no intention of destroying him-self, and fell into the water accidentally while very drunk. The police are inclined to the belief that such was the fact.

THERE are a number of Victorians whe will be interested in two weddings which came off at Port Townsend yesterday, and their hearty good wishes will go with the respective brides and bridegrooms, not only during their honeymoon but through their subsequent life's history. This it is to be hoped will not only be happy and peaceful but in every way successful. Mr. James H. Causten, of the statistical department of the custom house in that city, was married to Miss Minnie Hastings, daughter of Ore-gon C. Hastings, of Victoria. Dr. Frank Gleason, a resident practitioner, was one of the principals in the other event, the bride being Miss Alma Cryderman, cousin of Frank M. Cryderman, of Douglas street, who acted as one of the ushers at the wedding. To-day the mortal remains of the late Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie, chief justice of British Columbia, will be borne to the grave with public honors. Out of respect to the deceased jurist all the public offices will be closed and the pupils of the public schools will be dismissed at noon for the day. All the arrangements for the funeral were completed yesterday. Superintendent Hussey of the provincial police will act as marshal of the procession with Chief H. W. Sheppard of the city police and Sergt. Lang-

The remains, enclosed in a handsome casket, are lying in state in the drawing room. Little change is to be seen in the well known features of the dead man, who wears even in death the calm, dignified look which distinguished him when alive. The preparations for the public funeral are not yet completed, but arrangements to attend are being made by the different societies, the B.C.B.G.A., the Royal Marine Artillery, the Royal Engineers and the Navy. A regimental order has been issued to the B.C.B.G.A., for an escort from the three headquarter companies to meet at the drill hall at 1:30 p.m. on Thursday, the officers in review order with undress trousers, non-commissioned officers and gunners in church parade order with helmets, side arms and leggings and white gloves.
