Good Horses and Comfortable of New Brunswick.

Not only in that Province, but all over Canada and the British Empire he is remembered and honoured as one who was a good loyal Canadian and a fine Christian gentleman.

He himself often told groups of boys and girls, whom he was always glad to address, that very much of his success was because he made and kept faithfully all his life those two promises of his early boyhood days.

At thirteen he went to the city of St. John and began to earn his own living, first as an errand boy then as a clerk in a drug store.

But before leaving home he had made two important promises which he kept throughout his whole life. One was to read his Bible every day, and the other was never to taste intoxicating drinks. He also made up his mind that he would try to be a good public speaker, so he joined a Temperance Society and took part in discussions and in public speaking whenever he had opportunity.

After a time, he was so well known and trusted by the people, and such a

Dr. A. Z. Conrad, an enthusiastic motorist, is accredited with this story:

"Really, my dear," the clergyman was saying to his wife after the first run in his newly-acquired motor ear, "I had no idea that profanity was so prevalent in this parish until I went, out driving myself in the motor ear."

"Did you hear much of it, then, while you were driving?"

"Hear much of it?" repeated the minister.
