ST. THOMAS CRICKETERS.

Who are they in cheap tweed suits arrayed, Of a novel cut and style ? They are young men who are paid Salaries of an untold pile.

Bankers of leisure-men of ease, Whose every move denotes the fact. That if downy phis is wont to please, The "Ah! you know" style they're bound to act.

And now upon the blooming park Their manly forms are seen, And spectators are heard to remark That everything looks green.

It's the game known as cricket that they are trying to play,

And upon strict inquiry that's what we are told, It's the National game of England that they do botch this way, Although our language may seem exceedingly bold.

It's a game played by gentlemen, in that land o'er the sea At least history informs us that such was the case; But it's sadly run to seed in this wooden country, For they have not any reverence for the great name of Grace. SPOKESHAVE.

THE OLD ST. THOMAS NEWS-PAPERS.

Just fifty years, half a century ago, the first paper was issued from the press in St. Thomas. It was a puny sheet, published in the conservative interests; shortly after, another paper, the Liberal, was started in opposition as a Reform organ, but it met with a chequered career. A gentleman named Lewis was the first editor of the Liberal, but he was shortly after the establishment of the paper, succeeded by John Kent, a gentleman well known to our citizens. Mr. Kent was in turn succeeded by John Talbot, who was editor of it for some time. A treasonous article, copied from the organ of William Lyon McKenzie, at Toronto, in regard to dividing the wild lands among the people, found its way into the columns of the Liberal unknown to Mr. Talbot, some of the office men putting it in; however, he was accused of treason, and was forced to flee the country for Ohio, where he died about a year ago. Shortly after the suspension of the Liberal several other papers were started, but the majority after passing a brief existence, expired. The next principal paper which comes undernotice was the St. Thomas Standard. published for Mr. Edward Ermatinger, by Messrs. O'Rilley & Newcome, in the year 1844 and later, in a large yellow house, which formerly stood opposite the old Episcopal Church, a copy of which has been handed us by Mr. Thomas Calcott, bearing the date 1845, thirty-five years ago. The paper is get up in very good style, little difference being observable between the typographical part and that of the present day. Most of the advertisers have however, passed over to the majority, although a number still reside among us. Among the most prominent advertiser we notice the names of Joseph McRoberts, fashionable tailor; Hope & Hodge; L. Lawrason, now police magistrate of London; E. Leonard, jr., now of London, but who then ran the large red foundry which extended from Stanley to William streets, on Centre; Kent, Southwick, and seve ral other prominent names. Philip Hodgkinson published a paper here very early, and N. W. Bates was publishing the Watchman, which, however, suspended shortly after the old Dispatch was started. in 1853. We have now in this office a complete fyle of the old Dispatch from the beginning, and from a typographical point of view it far surpasses any paper now published in St. Thomas. Even in these early days the Dispatch advocated the building of a railroad along the line now occupied by the Canada Southern, but the London Free Press poo-poohed the idea of such a road ever being built. A gentleman named Kearney published a paper in St. Thomas about this time, and Mr. J. Stanton also published one in an apartment of the old red foundry. Rough Notes, by N. W. Bates, appeared shortly afterwards. A paper was published in the village of Vienna, called the Phoenix, and the fire-eating editor, J. C. Abbot, angered at some remarks in the Dispat/h, came to this towu and fired his revolver at the editor of that paper. He was caught at it however, and severely punished, and shortly afterwards his paper succumbed. The Omnibus was another newspaper published (in St. Thomas about the year '53, but after a short and struggling career it was finally "drove" out of town,

in

We cannot have fertilising showers on the earth without a clouded heaven above. It is thus with our trials.

It is well worth remembering that the whole world will breath a little freer if you will only resolve to be an honest and upright man.

When words of charity are uttered one thinks the human tongue an instru.nent divine; when words of slander are uttered one wonders why the world was not made dumb.

NEW PRESSES-NEW TYPE-INCREASED SPEED 1N PUBLICATION. On the 2nd of January, 1880, THE WEEKLY CLOBE will take another of those upward strides in the march of inforvorement that have main-tained it for nearly forty years in its high posi-tion as

THE LEADING FAMILY NEWSPAPER

THE LEADING FAMILY NEWSPAPER OF BRITISH AMERICA. The increasing necessity for great variety of reading matter in each week's issue, so as to in-clude the news from all sections of the Dominion and meet the varied tastes of its numerous readers, has rendered expedient the enlargement of Trm WERKLY GLOBE much beyond even its present largo-dimensions. Commencing with the first week of the New Year, therefore, the form of the paper will be changed fr. an that of an 80-column paper to that of a 96-column paper; and the length of each page will also be so extended as to give, in all, an increase of reading matter in each week's sheet of nearly 32 columns beyond its present size.

all, an increase of reading matter in each week's sheet of nearly 32 columns beyond its present gize. This vast addition to the capacity of the paper will enable a bill of fare to be presented weekly probably more varied and interesting than was ever before accomplished in any weekly journal. The literary matter will be much increased; more space will be devoted to Household and social affairs; and the Agricultural Department will be rendered more efficient than ever before. Notwithstanding the great enlargements and improvements to be made, the annual subscrip-tion to THE WERKLY GLOBE will remain as here-tofore, only TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM.
