

Miscellaneous.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

THE COMMANDERS OF THE HOSTILE ARMIES.

Abdul-Kerim Pasha is an outstanding man over seventy years of age. He has a reputation to a brilliant soldier. Abdul-Kerim Pasha's official title is that of Serasker, or Commander-in-Chief, as distinguished from the Minister of War, Redif Pasha. He is, however, the senior of the Minister both in age and experience and Redif Pasha is much under his control. The old soldier was himself Minister of War during the reign of Abdul-Asis. The fame of the old General has not hitherto been special in the outside world, partly on account of his modesty, and constant desire to keep in the background, partly because the living military men of Turkey have had only one chance to show their abilities, and that in the war of 1853-54. But the part played by the English and French during that war was so much more prominent that nobody is surprised that the Turkish Generals interested in what was done by their Army. Otherwise the name of Abdul-Kerim Pasha would have been much more widely extended, as he was the most successful of Turkish Generals, both on the Danube and in the Crimea.

The Grand Duke Nicholas is fine-looking, tall, forty-six years old, a brother of the Czar, as haughty a prince as the House of Romanoff has ever produced, and a soldier as devoid of a military history, as a review and parade general. Abdul-Kerim Pasha is the senior commander-in-chief of his army. The Grand Duke Nicholas is a mere figurehead, guided and commanded by his chief of staff, General Negochytchik, the Molik of Russia. He has been in active service since the age of sixteen, or for thirty years past; but he has scarcely any field experience. He spent a few days in Sebastopol during the siege, and was, when quite a youth, attached for some years to the general staff of the Army of the Caucasus, where he took part in a few skirmishes against the Circassians. He was brought up as a field engineer, and is at present the chief of all the military engineers of the empire, with General "Faddeyev" as his assistant. The Grand Duke is married to the daughter of Prince Peter of Oldenburg, and has two sons, one of whom, the Grand Duke Nicholas, Jr., a youth of twenty, is with him in the capacity of an aide-de-camp. The Grand Duke is the third son of Czar Nicholas, and is accordingly an uncle of the two princes who are present in this country.

The chief of the general staff in the Turkish army and the man who will actually lead and command the Russian forces is a Pole, General Negochytchik, who has for a long time been a hindrance to his promotion, but his abilities are too great not to be ultimately acknowledged. He was, during the war of 1853-54, chief of the staff in the Fifth Army Corps, commanded by General Loris. He was the leading spirit in all the operations on the Danube during that war, and has now the incontestable advantage of operating on a field perfectly familiar to him. He has picked out for brigadiers and divisional generals men who served under him twenty-four years ago as captains and majors. He is an experienced officer, and the Commander-in-Chief of the army of the Danube.

The Russian Army about to operate in Asia Minor against Mukhtar Pasha, consists of the Grand Duke Michael, younger brother of the Grand Duke Nicholas, and the Czar's Lord Lieutenant of the Caucasus, a much brighter and more experienced officer, than the Commander-in-Chief of the army of the Danube.

A REMARKABLE DOCUMENT.

The Contre des Etais says—Chance has put into our land the most interesting and interesting document to all Christians that has ever been recorded in human annals; that is the identical death warrant of our Lord Jesus Christ. We transcribe the document from a copy of the translation:

SENTECE. Rendered by Pontius Pilate, Acting Governor, Lower Galilee, that Jesus of Nazareth shall suffer death on the cross.

In the year seven of the Empire of Tiberus, the city of the holy Jerusalem, Ananias and Caiaphas being priests, sacrificed the people of God, La Fontaine, Filad, Governor of the province, condemn Jesus of Nazareth to die on the cross between two thieves—the great and notorious evidence of the people saying:

- 1. He is a seducer.
2. He is a blasphemer.
3. He is the enemy of the law.
4. He calls himself, falsely, the Son of God.
5. He calls himself the King of Israel.
6. He entered into the temple followed by multitudes bearing palm branches in their hands.
7. He ordered the centurion Quintus Cornelius to lead him to the place of execution.
8. He forbade any person whomsoever, poor or rich to oppose the death of Jesus.
9. The witnesses that signed the death warrant of Jesus are:
Daniel Bohanus, a Pharisee.
Janus Horabile.
Capet, a citizen.
Jesus shall go out of the city by the gate.
The above sentences are engraved on a copper plate. On one side are written these words:
1. A similar plate is sent to each of these tribes.
2. It was found in an antique vase of white marble while excavating in the city Aquila in the Kingdom of Naples, in the year 1825, and was discovered by the Commissariat of Arts attached to the French Army. At the evacuation of Naples it was found enclosed in a box of ebony, in the sacristy of Convent St. Agnes.
Mr. Monjon, of the Commission of Arts, caused a model of the plate on which he had engraved the above sentence. At the sale of his collection of curiosities it was bought by Lord Howard for 17,854 francs.

GRADUATIONS OF GUILT.

The wisdom of many people, and of all ages, ordains for the punishment of the same atrocious degrees of severity, according to the circumstances of the guilt of the offenders. Thus, homicide may be only killing by misadventure, or willful murder of high treason, according as the case may be. If, therefore, strictly on principle that the act of converting to one's own use the money of another exhibits, in the highest and most justly civilized, a degree of culpability, which, after the manner of criminal statutes, are signified by appropriate names, the amount of the spoilation being in this case the principal matter. Thus:
Taking $1,000,000 is called a case of Genus.
Taking $100,000 is called a case of Shortage.
Taking $50,000 is called a case of Liti-

Taking $25,000 is called a case of Insolventcy.
Taking $10,000 is called a case of Irregularity.
Taking $5,000 is called a case of Default.
Taking $1,000 is called a case of Corruption.
Taking $500 is called a case of Embezzlement.
Taking $100 is called a case of dishonesty.
Taking $25 is called a case of Thievery.
Taking $5 is called a case of Total Depravity.
Taking one ham is called a case of War on Society.

A CENTENNIAL MYSTERY CLEARED UP.

THE "MURDER" HOTEL, MURDERERS DETECTED. New York Tribune.]

Here is a true story from Philadelphia, with all the elements of mystery and dramatic horror for which our modern novelists and play-writers strive in vain. Two or three months after the Exposition closed the dead body of a man was found in a lonely gorge, six miles from the city, and without the slightest clue in his clothing that he had been a guest at the "Grangers' Hotel," which was an enormous temporary barracks to which thousands of transient lodgers came daily. No register was kept, nor could any account be taken of them after they paid for their room in advance. What could be more unlikely than that this unrecognized body could be identified as one of the nameless millions who came and went through Philadelphia last year, or that his murderer should be found?

Yet, by a chance letter to a prominent newspaper publisher from Germany, the murdered man proved to be a young German of a wealthy family who came to Philadelphia last summer, at the "Grangers' Hotel," he fell in with another German and formed a close companionship with him. The stranger learned all his secrets, the particulars of his business and family life, obtained letters from him for their room in advance. What could be more unlikely than that this unrecognized body could be identified as one of the nameless millions who came and went through Philadelphia last year, or that his murderer should be found?

THE LAKE ANISLE OIL WELLS.

The Lake Anisole Oil Wells, from present appearances, are likely to turn out a fortunate investment for the proprietors. Advice has been received by those interested that after boring to a depth of 100 feet the first strata of sand rock was struck and oil found. The pumping machinery at hand was poor, but a barrel was pumped for a sample, while more than the quantity of a good yield. Since their anticipations were realized, and we hope they will, a rapid fortune is in store for them. Only forty-five miles of piping are required to bring the oil to Port Hawkesbury, where it could be shipped both in winter and summer, a great advantage over either the American or Canadian wells, from which the oil has to be transported very long distances. When the American wells were first discovered 2000 to 3000 barrels was a common yield for a well per day, though the average now is not over eleven barrels. Should these wells turn out in the same way and continue for any time the profit would be enormous. The land on which the well has been discovered is owned by John Silver, Esq., of this city, and leased by the company.—Citizen.

TO MAGISTRATES!

A large lot of MAGISTRATE'S BLANKS for sale at this Office.

Jokers' Corner.

An innovation—Free lunch at a country tavern. A Danbury girl has settled the matter. She says a frosty moustache is just like a plate of ice cream. The oldest sort of fire escapes on record is the fond husband, who lies about mornings. "I rise to announce—" said a speaker the other day, at a war meeting. "Yes," interrupted a disagreeable person in the audience, "an ounce is about your fighting weight."

Mrs. Spilkins reading that Gen. Crook had just captured a hundred lodges devoutly expressed the wish that her husband's lodge might be among the number. His last words to her in the morning were: "Wrap up warmly, darling, if you go shopping to day; the weather is very cold." She said she would, and before she went out she had all her bustles weighed and put on the heaviest one. What will not a woman do for the man she loves.

A young lady sat down to write a poem to her Milwaukee lover. She began it thusly: "Oh, when shall I rest in thy sheltering arms?" Her quick sense of propriety at once detected an error, and she corrected it as follows: "Oh, when shall I rest 'neath thy sheltering ear?"

A man in a church fair who had a fifty-cent bowl of oyster stew suddenly rose in great excitement and began to pull off his coat and vest. "Why do you do that?" asked a pious frau—lady who took the fifty cents. "Why, great heavens!" he cried, "there is a little oyster drowning away down in there, and I'm going to dive for it!"

BON MOT. Two gentlemen were walking in the High Street, Southampton, about the hour which industrious damels of the mop and brush usually devote to cleaning the pavement before the door. It happened that the bucket used upon such occasions was upon the stones, and one of the gentlemen stumbled against it. "My dear friend," exclaimed the other, "I lament your death exceedingly!" "My death?" "Yes, you have just kicked the bucket." "Not so," rejoined his friend; "I have only turned a little pale (pail)." IN LIQUOR.

The following story was lately told by a reformed inebriate, as an apology for much of the folly of drunkenness: A mouse ranging about a brewery happened to fall into one of the vats of beer, was in immediate danger of drowning and appealed to a cat to help him out. The cat replied: "I am a foolish request, for as soon as I get you out I shall eat you." The mouse piteously replied that that fate would be better than to be drowned in beer. The cat lifted him out, but the fumes of the beer caused pain to sneeze. The mouse took refuge in his hole. The cat called upon the mouse to come out. "You rascal! Did you not promise that I should eat you?" "Ah," replied the mouse, "but you know that I was in liquor at the time!"

Agricultural.

MANURE. See that the manure in the yards is not washed by the rains. Pile all of it up neatly, and keep the sides square and the top flat and dishing. If for want of rain the pile heaves and becomes too dry, turn it over. The labor will be well expended. Add in every possible way to its bulk and quality.

FODDER CROPS.

A succession of fodder crops should be planted this month, for dairy cows, horses, calves, sheep, and pigs. For all these animals a green crop, to be cut when pasture begins to fail, is of the greatest value; it must be something that will grow quickly, will furnish a heavy cutting or two, and be agreeable and nutritious.

POTATOES.

Plant the bulk of the crop as early as possible, to get ahead of the late broods of the Colorado beetle. Prepare a supply of Paris Green in readiness for active warfare as soon as the enemy appears. Devote makes a Paris green which is warranted pure; a few farmers may club together and get a 14 pound can from head quarters.

BEANS.

This crop deserves better treatment than it frequently receives. Those who know its value, give it a fair chance. There is more profit in 25 bushels per acre, at $1.50 or $2 a bushel, than in many crops grown with greatly more trouble. It may be planted at the latter end of the month, or a piece of clover, to be mowed early next month, may be reseeded for it. Make the rows 27 inches apart.

SHEEP.

Watch carefully the ewes and lambs that are at all inclined to be loose, lest the fly should strike them. If they become fly-blown, shear the parts and smear copiously with linseed oil and tar. Newly shorn sheep should be kept under cover during cold rains. If this precaution is observed, early shearing is not objectionable. Feed lambs extra food to push them forward. All that is gained in this way now, becomes a double gain by and by.
