

INDEX

This Index is intended to assist readers in identifying relevant electronic sources of information described in this Directory. Readers should note that all the sources listed in this Directory include information concerning arms control and disarmament (ACD), or the Middle East. However, not all sources focus exclusively on ACD or on the Middle East; many cover these topics only as part of a broader subject. Other sources provide information that is related to arms control issues, such as on defence. Those readers interested in the Middle East should also check under names of specific countries. This Index also provides, when necessary, access to organizations listed in Part B. For the most part, the title of an organization's Internet site is simply its own name, so it will be listed alphabetically in Part B. However, those organizations that have given a different title to their site, and therefore cannot be found alphabetically by organizational name in Part B, have been given an entry in this Index. If the organization responsible for an Internet site is a government department, it can be found in this Index under the name of the country.
