

The meeting, which was announced by Prime Minister Trudeau and President Nixon following their discussions in Washington in March, will be the twelfth since the Joint Committee was established by agreement between the two governments in 1953. The last meeting was held in Montreal, Canada on June 21-22, 1967.