

I N D E X.

|                                                                                                                                                                                 |            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Phœnicians , jealous of their trade, vol. 1.                                                                                                                             | 38         |
| Philip , of France , his jealousy, vol. 1. 141—Deserts the christian princes, 143—His message to earl John , 147—Declines king Edward 's challenge. | 203        |
| — of Spain , conspiracy of, vol. 1. 424—His schemes and deceit, 414. 423—His three points in view, 429—forbids mourning for his queen, and saying after mass.            | 449        |
| — of Austria , and his queen, land at Weymouth , by stress of weather, vol. 1.                                                                                    | 331        |
| Philpot , John , fits out a squadron, and returns with success, vol. 1.                                                                                           | 223        |
| Phipps , sir William , adventures of, vol. 2.                                                                                                                     | 377, 378   |
| Pirates , infect the Scots and Irish seas, vol. 2.                                                                                                         | 17         |
| Pilots , English , assist the Dutch , vol. 2.                                                                                                              | 279        |
| Plague , in the suburbs of London , vol. 2.                                                                                                                       | 96         |
| Plsmouth , burnt by the French , vol. 1. 197—By the people of Britany , 262—Secured to the parliament, vol. 2.                                             | 150        |
| Poitiers , famous battle of, vol. 1.                                                                                                                                     | 212        |
| Pole , de la, Edmund , delivered up to the English , vol. 1.                                                                                               | 331        |
| Policy , of the French , vol. 1. 271—Vol. 2.                                                                                                                      | 260        |
| Popes , two elected, vol. 1.                                                                                                                                             | 228        |
| Pope , his present, to Philip of France , vol. 1.                                                                                                          | 152        |
| Pomfret-Castle , how spoken of, vol. 1.                                                                                                                                  | 236        |
| Portsmouth , people of, defeat the French , vol. 1. 229—Strongly fortified.                                                                                       | 425        |
| Peleron , an island, yielded up to the Dutch , vol. 2.                                                                                                            | 286        |
| Porto-bello , taken, vol. 1.                                                                                                                                             | 543        |
| Precontract , of Edward IV. vol. 1.                                                                                                                               | 304        |
| Preamble , a remarkable one, vol. 1.                                                                                                                                     | 69         |
| Preparation , to oppose the Spanish Armada , vol. 1. 441, 442                                                                                                     | 2          |
| Pretensions , to the crown, various, vol. 2.                                                                                                                             | 2          |
| Priest , a popish one, delivered up to the English admiral, vol. 2.                                                                                               | 225        |
| Princes , eight, row king Edgar 's barge, vol. 1.                                                                                                                 | 67         |
| — seven slain, five made prisoners, vol. 1.                                                                                                                                     | 272        |
| The Prince , man of war, the largest ship ever built in England , vol. 2.                                                                                         | 41         |
| Pritchard , Henry , lord mayor, entertained four kings at dinner, vol. 1.                                                                                         | 212        |
| Privaters , fitted out in time of peace, vol. 1.                                                                                                                         | 422        |
| — do great mischief to trade, vol. 2.                                                                                                                                           | 159        |
| — English , their illicit trade, vol. 1.                                                                                                                                 | 430        |
| Prize , Spanish , a rich one, vol. 2.                                                                                                                             | 49 and 205 |
| Prizes , Dutch , several taken, vol. 2.                                                                                                                           | 283        |
| Proclamation , concerning the Hanse-towns , vol. 1. 471—To prohibit foreigners fishing on the British coast, vol. 2. 14—To prohibit                        |            |