

A NICE WRIST WATCH

In this great World War
Have you noticed this, my dear,
There's not so many heroes
For whom us folks can cheer?
But gladly I sit down
Before my little desk,
To write about a hero who
Is mighty picturesque.

Upon his tally stick the Duke
Has cut another notch,
Something that will tickle us,
He's made the Turk ridiculous,
Let's give to splendid Nicholas,
A nice wrist watch!

Where'll we get the gems?
That question's not disturbin'—
We'll tear them from the Kaiser's crown
Or from the Sultan's turban;
The gallant Grand Duke's wrist
Shall blaze with jewels glad,
For cheers I will insist,
For good old Adam Zad!

For on his tally stick the Duke
Hath nicked another notch,
Here's something that will tickle us,
He's made the Turk ridiculous,
Let's give to splendid Nicholas,
A nice wrist watch!
