HIS PORTRAIT IN OILS

Address Refers to C. O.'s Former Services—Humane Medal for R. Hazelton.

All members of the volunteer militia in uniform and all ladies, with or without invited escorts, will be admitted to the armories without tickets to witness the presentation to Lt.-Col. Albert E. Gooderham, by the ex-members of the Tenth Royal Regiment and the Royal Grenadiers. Col. G. Sterling Ryerson will present the medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Association to Robert Hazelton, chairman of the Col. Gooderham testimonial committee.

Following is the address to Colonel Gooderham:

"Dear Sir and Comrade—Your retirement from the command of the Tenth Royal Regiment affords an opportunity to the ex-members of the regiment to express to you the deep affection which we bear towards you, and the sense of gratitude which we desire to convey to you in maintaining the high standard which the regiment occupies among the militia corps of Canada.

"The magnificent demonstration which attended the semi-centennial celebration of the regiment will not soon be forgotten by those who were permitted to be present, and to your liberality and personal interest must be attributed the brilliant success of the gathering. As ex-members of the Tenth or Royal Regiment and Royal Grenadiers, we are indeed gratified to know that the proud position attained by the Royal Grenadiers is due in no small measure to the exertions put forth by you while in command, and we feel that comrades—past and present—were proud to meet together on that occasion to do honor to one so richly deserving it.

Encouraged the Men.

"Nor can we allow the opportunity to pass without referring to the active interest displayed on behalf of the regiment on many occasions by your beloved wife, who so cheerfully encouraged the men by her presence and deeds of kindness.

"We cannot, therefore, allow your retirement to take place without in some way marking the event, and we would respectfully ask your acceptance of the accompanying oil portrait of yourself, as a token of the esteem in which you are held by the ex-members of the regiment, and assuring you of their heartfelt good wishes for your future welfare, and the desire that you may still continue to evince a strong interest in the welfare of the corps.

Secretary-Treasurer."

BERLIN, May 6.—The new military dirigible Zeppelin No. 5 has been equipped with mufflers, which are expected to eliminate the thunderous noise of the engines. SEAL FISHERIES TOOK AWFUL TOLL

Earnings Increased, But Loss of So Many Lives Dims Success.

Canadian Press Despatch.
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 6.—The seal fisheries of the season just closed were more successful financially than those of last year, according to figures compiled today. Twenty steamers, employing 3000 men set out on the hunt two months ago. Nineteen vessels returned with the pelts of 232,718 seals. This catch was valued at $498,886. Last year a greater number of seals were caught, 272,856 skins being returned, but they were valued at only $492,845.

For the fishermen the financial success has been shrouded in gloom by the enormous loss of life in the hunt. The steamer Newfoundland's catas-trophe having cost 78 lives and 174 men having gone down with the Southern Cross.

SOOTHSAYER FINED.

Annie Barker, who was found guilty of telling fortunes, by Judge Coatesworth in the county court yesterday, was warned that the next time she appears on such an offence she will be sent to jail. She was fined $20.

SHOWED FARMERS THE WAY TO FARM

Harvard Grad Was Laughed at, But He Didn't Mind.

Michigan Natives Say They Have Learnt Lots From Young Flossheim.

DULUTH, May 6.—J. I. Flossheim, Harvard graduate, son of a millionaire shoe manufacturer, has transformed several hundred acres of cut-over land north of Bemidji into a rich and model farm and is blazing the trail of advanced farm methods for his neighbors.

Quint Erickson, one of Flossheim's neighbors, while in Duluth, told of the work done by the young Harvard graduate, who came to Northern Minnesota principally for his health, and who now has one of the best model farms in this state.

Flossheim, Harvard '08, trained for the law, but broke down shortly after leaving college. He had been brought up in Chicago, where he attended public schools, later a preparatory college and was finally graduated from the law department of Harvard. He tried for months to regain his health at a Wisconsin sanatorium.

While at the hospital he fell in love with his nurse, Miss Clara Friebe, and they were married. They are now living on the farm, which lies on the shores of Clearwater Lake.

After leaving the hospital Mr. Flossheim was told to work in the open and he resolved to become a farmer. He took a short course at the Wisconsin Agricultural School and then he and his bride came to Northern Minnesota. On the shores of the lake Mr. Flossheim purchased 500 acres of cut-over land. The small house was enlarged to 15 rooms, the city was installed, and then came an engine which cleared the land of stumps. The homesteaders watched this new method. But Flossheim replied that it cost but $12 an acre to clear his land, and he went on regardless of the criticism.

Next came blooded cattle, followed by swine and horses. That was three years ago. The homesteaders laughed again, this time declaring that it was a joke to bring blooded Guernseys into the pine woods. But Mr. Flossheim laughed also and answered these gibes by tearing down the old barn and erecting a modern structure, with cement floors and running water in front of each animal. He then purchased two fast horses, and with these visits to Bemidji for supplies.

The second year the homesteaders dropped in to ask questions, and now they are

The man admitted having used the name of Stein in Drumbo, but claims his real name is Jacob Miller.

In cases of "close arrest" the prisoner is to be bound for two hours a day, with his back against a tree, "in such manner that he can neither sit nor lie." At the same time, this punishment is not to include measures "which could make the punishment appear cruel."

The native soldier had no appeal from a sentence to be lashed.

The regulations are introduced with the statement that the punishment provided is necessary in view of the fact that the black soldiers do not possess "a developed soldier and joy in obedience."

ACCUSED OF LAND FRAUD

BELLEVILLE, May 6.—The grand jury at the assizes here brought in a true bill against H. Martin, who, it is alleged, secured by fraud a considerable sum of money for property in British Columbia, which, it is asserted, was represented to be of more value than it really is. The case was transferred to the next sitting of the high court.

LASHES FOR WIFE-BEATER.

Sixty days in jail and at the end of the first ten days to receive ten lashes, is the sentence that was imposed on James Ritchie, in the police court yesterday for assaulting his young wife. He was charged with punching her and cutting her hand with a razor.
