LOVE IN A MASK - - - - By Honoré De Balzac

"It is a tale of a woman's strange purpose, carried out in defiance to conventions, and leading her from a rooted distrust of men and a hatred of marriage to a complete surrender to a great love."—Buffalo Express.

Cloth, $1.00 net. Postage, 10 cents.

LADY ELEANOR: LAWBREAKER - By Robert Barr

"This is a brilliant little story of Richard Sheridan's time, clever and tingling with interest. Though a love story pure and simple, the tale is charged through with the spirit of the great playwright, and is a mirror of his circle and hour."—The Argus, Albany, N. Y.

Cloth, $1.00 net. Postage, 10 cents.

BETTY MOORE'S JOURNAL - By Mabel D. Carry

"Through a gripping little story, Mrs. Carry makes a vigorous plea for the restoration of the ages-old rights of motherhood—not only for motherhood, but for the place of the home with that pleasure-loving class that now so dominates and makes the pace for the life of the Republic."—Peoria (Ill.) Evening Journal.

Cloth, $1.00 net. Postage, 10 cents.

DAVID DUNNE - - - - By Belle Kenarts Merriam

The pulsating strength of ambition, tempered by the witchery of love, marks this story of the advancement of a wide-awake, big-hearted young farmhand to the high post of governor of a great state. Rural simplicity and impotence are metamorphosed into power by the magic of the opportunities offered by life in a great city.

The sweetest and tenderest of love stories adds to the charm of the book, for the delicate child to whom the farmer boy tells fairy tales to calm her "fraidments" never outgrows the love she early bestows upon him, and—in the homely phraseology of the lad's benefactor, Farmer Brumble—to the end is "Dave's little gal."

Illustrated by John Drew.

Cloth, 12mo. $1.25 net. Postage, 12 cents.
