LADY ABERDEEN WELCOMES DELEGATES TO FOURTH QUINQUENNIAL CONGRESS

Vicrine of Ireland Says Council is Wedded to No Propaganda and Imposes No Restrictions—Brilliant Women from Many Lands Speak at Opening in Convocation Hall.

Ladies, I must say to you I feel very much to-night like an old mother coming back to see again a young daughter. It was Lady Aberdeen's happy way of breaking down all formality at the opening meeting of welcome to the delegates and visitors attending the International Council of Women last night in convocation hall.

"The old mother and grandmother are very proud to-day of her daughter and child. I am gratified and proud and thankful when I think of the many memories of the past and the accomplishments we look for the future. It is now my duty to welcome you to the fourth quinquennial council."

"By the very fact of our coming of age, and that we have arrived at years of discretion, the world has a right to enquire of what we are made and what our contribution to the world's life. Our contribution is to be made in the faith that is in us."

She spoke of those who had watched the over the cradle of the council in 1888 in Washington, now no longer in the flesh, and paid tribute to the memory of Frances Willard, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony. She was honored to be able to wear the brooch that Miss Anthony was presented with at Geneva.

"What do we stand for and what do we offer?" she asked. The answer will come clear and strong. We stand for the common action, and we stand together for the common action, to adopt the difficult attitude of refraining from action."

"Just because we are because we impose no restriction and no snobbishness upon all women, of all ages and all nations and classes, who are willing to join us in carrying out the principle of doing unto others as we would have them do unto us, that golden rule which is our best and our only help in the great movements of our generation."

"The International Council must be the most peaceful society that can exist. If the homes of the different countries can be brought into understanding each other there can be no more war."

Equal Moral Standard. Passing from the health movement to the international cooperation, we will endorse the formation of a section for education. An equal moral standard for the sexes and a determined refusal to tolerate white slave traffic were noted. The mention of the latter should weigh heavily on the hearts and consciences of all who are present. They also favored extending the suffrage to women in all lands where manhood suffrage existed.

"As long as we cling, she concluded, to that sheet anchor, the spiritual forces behind our work and behind our international co-operation, we will surely work miracles of which we do not yet dream."

MILITANT METHODS NOT NECESSARY IN AMERICA

Dr. Anna H. Shaw Speaks of Progress for Women Movement.

It is not necessary for us on this continent to adopt the militant methods of some of the British societies, but if considered it wise to do so, I should not hesitate. DR. ANNA H. SHAW, CONVENER OF SUFFRAGE AND RIGHTS OF CITIZENSHIP COMMITTEE.

The main building of the University of Toronto presented an animated scene yesterday about 10 o'clock. That was the time that the quinquennial delegates were due to arrive for the opening committee meetings. They found their way to the place all right, and they trooped in in extremely large numbers. In fact, so many came once that the ushers could not handle them and confusion reigned.

When the ovation which was tendered the distinguished convener subsided, Dr. Anna Shaw, who was appointed international suffragist meeting she had never attended. The cause had made wonderful progress since it was the first time that the international council at Berlin and made a fundamental department of the council's work. It was making marvelous progress, she declared that quite recently Mr. Douglal was offered a knighthood, and declined with thanks.

Now, it is a matter of general comment that Laurier's two close friends in this city, John Redpath Douglal, the prime minister seldom visits the city without taking a cab and driving to the sanctum sanctorum of The Daily Witness, where he has always received a very warm welcome. However, up to date Sir Wilfrid cannot prevail upon his friends to accept any title or honor, nothing in fact, better than a few cheap ads for The Witness.

MONTREAL, June 16.—(Special.)—Alderman Laviolette alleges that he is the victim of an organized conspiracy. This sum was found in a sealed envelope one day when the alderman was cleaning out his desk in his office. He put the money into the bank and said it was ten months afterwards, when he first heard of Lavelle's allegation, that he had any idea where the money came from. He then took note of the numbers of the two $50 bills that remained in the envelope to allege that he was the victim of a conspiracy.

UNION DEPOT AT PLEASANT PARK

Railways Plan To Exchange Burned-Over Area for Sixteen Acres on Bloor Street, West of Bathurst.

While figuring on a means of escape from that $7,000,000 viaduct proposition, the railways are said to have hit on an excellent plan to centralize their Toronto passenger business north of Bloor-street, on the property known as Willowvale Park.

The scheme, according to a report which leaked out yesterday, is to erect a large union station on the park property facing on Bloor-street, to which the trains will be "backed in from the north. That the two roads, the C. P. R. and the C. N. R., have been making eyes at North Toronto for some time has been generally believed, but in the absence of any announcement from the companies, it has been a matter of speculation rather than certainty as to where they would establish themselves.

Another report is that the two big companies are doing the dicker and will endeavor to trade their holdings along the Esplanade to the city for the park. Not the least interesting phase of this fresh report is that the C. N. R. is seeking a right of way to the new station site.

Willowvale Park was formerly known as Christie and pit, and some time ago was filled in and leveled for recreation purposes. The pit included another ten acres lying west of the park, and it is understood from the park commissioner's office that the city has been figuring on annexing the balance of the pit to the park next year. The present park contains 18 and seven-tenths acres, and is bounded on the west by Crawford-street and on the east by Christie-street, and the north on Bloor and the north on Thornes-street. The C. P. R. North Toronto tracks pass within half a mile of the park to the north, and the G. T. P. tracks are about one and a half miles distant on the west. The intervening space is all built up, so that the G. T. P. could appropriate a right of way along this tremendous course. It is possible that the G. T. P. will approach the depot on the C. P. R. North Toronto line.

The rumors are found to be authentic, the passenger trains will be shunted to the depot by electric locomotives. The plan is to have a system which does away with smoke and soot, where passengers are boarding trains.
