Long School Hours.
The Austrian minister of education has issued a decree denouncing the long hours enforced in the schools of the empire, amounting in some cases to forty-five a week. This would have seemed a very mild regime to some old-time pedagogues. In Scotland up to the middle of the eighteenth century usual school hours were from 6 a.m. till 6 p.m., with two breaks of an hour each. Some schools opened an hour earlier and worked so long as daylight lasted. No alteration in the hours was made on Saturday, and even on Sunday a certain amount of school work was done. The holidays were restricted to a day at Candlemas and at Whitsun and a fortnight in the autumn.—London Chronicle.

I have just received a large consignment of Diamonds direct from the cutters, Amsterdam, and I am in a position to save intending purchasers of high class diamonds at least 25 per cent. on their purchases. Call in and compare prices.
