BIG BRITISH GUN IN SOMME OFFENSIVE

One of the great British guns firing on the German trenches in the Somme district. Enemy fortification have been completely shattered by the 15-inch shells from these huge weapons.

THE PEOPLE BEHIND THE GUNS

(Toronto Mail and Empire)
No matter what may be the system of government in any belligerent country, it is by the people that the war must be sustained. In autocracies no less than in democracies the soldiers as well as the means for keeping them in the field must be drawn from the people. In this age there is no autocracy so powerful, there is no body of people so feeble, as to make it impossible for the nation to withdraw from the war when the people cease to expect victory. Constantine was able to keep Greece out of the war, notwithstanding the strong bent of popular feeling for war. But if his nation had been at war and had become thoroughly sick of it, no strength of will on his part would have prevailed to prolong its belligerency. As it was, it required a great amount of intrigue, of wholesale lying by his subsidized press, of German money, of German artfulness and of German intimidation to keep the people of Greece from plunging into the war on the side of the Allies. It was the strength of popular feeling that carried Italy into the war, despite the clever campaign conducted in the country itself by Prince Buelow in behalf of Germany, a campaign in which an enormous amount of German gold was expended and to which the sinister Giotelli lent his countenance. If Roumania now joins the Entente Powers, it will be because the rising tide of public opinion sweeps the nation on. The Bratianu government has been able to bridge the impatience of the people, but once they get into the war it will not be by the fiat of their sovereign and the politicians that the moment of quitting will be decided.

As the war goes on, the people's part becomes less and less passive and more and more compelling. On the Entente side, governments do not need to spur on the people; on the contrary, it is the people who now do the spurring. If the government of France, Italy, Britain or Russia were now to talk of peace, popular feeling would at once bring about a change of administration. The people of the Entente States are determined that the war shall be continued until the military power of the enemy is broken. On the other hand, the people of the enemy countries are turning from the war-like temper to a desire for peace. It is again, the popular will must in the end have its way, notwithstanding popular government is little more than a name in Germany and scarcely even that in Turkey. Under a severe experience of the reverses of war Germany cannot long bear up. If she lost a hundred thousand of her troops in the next fortnight she would be a far different war power in consequence. The magnitude of the military loss would be no measure of the extent of her impairment. The moral effect upon the rest of her troops would be something, but incomparably greater would be the reaction against the German people. That reaction would have to be reckoned with. If not hundred, scattered riots would soon be followed by a general outbreak. Germany is approaching its doom as a military power, and so is the side of the water that the domestic situation, which, if not wisely dealt with, might well introduce something in its way as the special speakers who have been invited because of their practical knowledge of the subjects they will introduce. On Municipal Finance, Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor of the Bank of Montreal, and Thomas Bradshaw, the finance commissioner and treasurer of Toronto, will be the speakers, and what these gentlemen don't know about the financial problems of our cities and towns is not worth knowing. Sir Frederick for years has made a special study of Canadian municipal finance as many of our municipal executives who have called upon him for advice on their civic finances, have found to their advantage. He is now who is representing the Bank of Montreal in London, did more than any other man to bring Canadian municipalities to the favorable notice of the British investor. Mr. Bradshaw accepted the position of Financial Commissioner of Toronto at a sacrifice—though the salary is a big one—but as he has pointed out every man has a public duty to perform to the test of his ability—and Thomas Bradshaw's ability is great—but like all big men he is ever ready to help the small fellow, which in this case is the smaller municipalities. It will be noted that the second session opens with "Municipal Responsibility in Canada's Preparedness." This subject is so important at the present moment, and so wide in its application as to take in such problems as Returned Soldiers; The Patriotic Fund; Immigration; Public Employment Offices; Encouragement to Industries; every one of which are very municipal in their character and working. Among the speakers of this session will be Sir Herbert Ames, the secretary of the Patriotic Fund, and who gained his public experience as an alderman of Montreal, and Dr. Page, immigration officer at Quebec, who will have something very practical to say on the subject of our foreign immigrants. A very important session will be that devoted to the different forms of municipal government. The object in taking up this very much alive problem is not for the discussion of abstract forms of idealism in civic administration, but to try and

RED CROSS WORK WELL ORGANIZED

Lieut. Col. Noel Marshall Has Returned After Inspection

Equipment of the Best—French People Are Optimistic as to Outcome of the Struggle

(Toronto Mail and Empire).

"Canadians may well feel proud of the part they are taking in helping to alleviate the suffering caused by the war," declared Lieut.-Col. Noel Marshall, who returned on Saturday after a two month's trip to the hospitals in Britain and France.

"Everywhere the highest encomiums were heaped on the work we are doing for the wounded and convalescing soldiers. The hospitals are marvels as to equipment, and anyone having relatives in them may rest assured that they will receive not only expert treatment, but the greatest care that human hearts can give."

When asked as to whether the supplies sent from here were being distributed, the answer was that no request upon the Red Cross has ever been refused. Col. Hodgetts, our commissioner, has now placed Capt. Claude Bryan in charge of all supplies in the London warehouse, with instructions to fill every demand made by the hospitals. Arrangements have also been made to supply the London Red Cross.

While in France President Poincaré gave Col. Marshall an audience and expressed the gratitude the French people felt to Canadians for their generosity.

An accumulation of supplies had been found in Paris, but an arrangement has been made with the French government to have 5,000 cases of material transported from England per month. Captain Blaycock, assistant commissioner representing the society, has been instructed as to the distribution of the cases.

There is a warehouse at Boulogne, the supplies from Paris going to Verdun. The French are very optimistic as to the ultimate result of the war. Had it not been on the eve of the big drive Col. Marshall would have paid a visit to the front lines, but decided not to.

The effect of his recent visit will no doubt result in increased effort for those now engaged in Red Cross work, and it will require more money to provide for the new obligations undertaken, but with characteristic spirit Col. Marshall says he knows that a generous response will continue to be made by the Canadian people.

Lady Drummond is doing splendid work, having charge of the information department of the C. R. C. S., while Mrs. Rivers-Bulkeley looks after the prisoners of war department.

TO MEET IN MONTREAL

Convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities

According to the programme prepared by the executive of the convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities to be held in Montreal, next August, will be a memorable one, not only in the live questions chosen for discussion, but in the special speakers who have been invited because of their practical knowledge of the subjects they will introduce.

On Municipal Finance, Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor of the Bank of Montreal, and Thomas Bradshaw, the finance commissioner and treasurer of Toronto, will be the speakers, and what these gentlemen don't know about the financial problems of our cities and towns is not worth knowing. Sir Frederick for years has made a special study of Canadian municipal finance as many of our municipal executives who have called upon him for advice on their civic finances, have found to their advantage. He is now who is representing the Bank of Montreal in London, did more than any other man to bring Canadian municipalities to the favorable notice of the British investor. Mr. Bradshaw accepted the position of Financial Commissioner of Toronto at a sacrifice—though the salary is a big one—but as he has pointed out every man has a public duty to perform to the test of his ability—and Thomas Bradshaw's ability is great—but like all big men he is ever ready to help the small fellow, which in this case is the smaller municipalities. It will be noted that the second session opens with "Municipal Responsibility in Canada's Preparedness." This subject is so important at the present moment, and so wide in its application as to take in such problems as Returned Soldiers; The Patriotic Fund; Immigration; Public Employment Offices; Encouragement to Industries; every one of which are very municipal in their character and working. Among the speakers of this session will be Sir Herbert Ames, the secretary of the Patriotic Fund, and who gained his public experience as an alderman of Montreal, and Dr. Page, immigration officer at Quebec, who will have something very practical to say on the subject of our foreign immigrants. A very important session will be that devoted to the different forms of municipal government. The object in taking up this very much alive problem is not for the discussion of abstract forms of idealism in civic administration, but to try and get something concrete and useful from those who have administered under the different forms of civic government. Each system will be presented by a practical exponent, such as Mayor Hardie of Lethbridge, on the commission form, Commissioner McLagan of Westmount on the manager form, and Commissioner Yorath of Saskatoon on civic government, as he has experienced it. W. D. Lighthall, the Hon. Sec. of the Union, will introduce the subject, and as he has had seventeen years of practical experience of every form of civic government as it has worked out in Canada, his paper will be looked forward to with interest.

Municipal Accounting will be handled by E. T. Sampson, city clerk of Outremont, whose training was got in the old country, but who has been sufficiently long in the dominion to adapt the English system to Canadian conditions. The necessity of separate municipal departments using part of the administration of every province will be taken up by Deputy Minister Bayne of Saskatchewan. Thomas Adams will give a resume of his splendid work in the cause of town planning, and as some of the provinces have adopted his town planning act, his paper will be particularly instructive. Dr. Brittain of the Bureau of Municipal Research, Toronto, will give some suggestions on "How Best to Introduce Modern Systems of Municipal Work," and Howard Rose of Montreal who has made a study of the subject, will speak on "Proportional Representation." J. Duchastel, the president of the Dominion Good Roads Association, will give a paper on the influence of the good roads movement on urban municipalities, and the new Hydro-Electric Railway system of Ontario will be treated by T. J. Hanigan, the secretary.

With such a bill of fare the convention is bound to be successful and have a lasting effect on the municipal life of this country, though it is up to the city and town councils to help on the good work by sending down delegates.

Now is the time for our municipal councils to get a line on how to prepare for after the war conditions and they will never have such an opportunity as at the U. C. M. Convention.

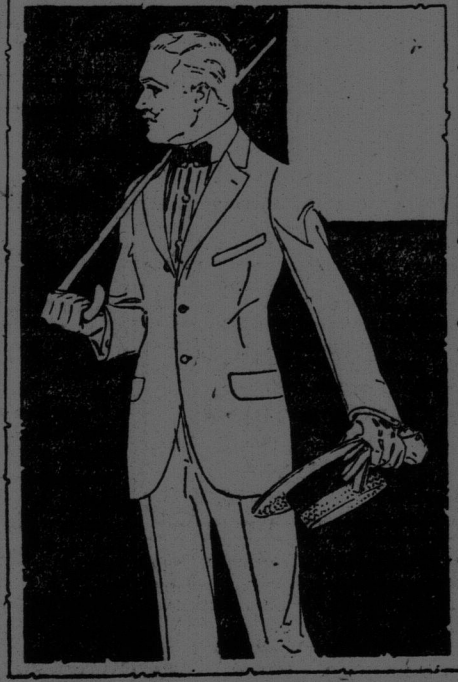

Merchant—Did you post my letter as I told you, John?
John—Yes, sir, but I had it weighed first and as it was double weight I put another stamp on it.
Merchant—That's right. Only I hope you didn't put the extra stamp on so that it would obliterate the address.
John—Indeed, I didn't sir. I just stuck it on top of the other stamp so as to save paper.

Popular Priced Suits

From ten to fifteen dollars is not much money to pay for a suit of clothes. Most men for knock-about, every-day wear, look for a suit to cost somewhere around these figures. For a great many years our ten dollar suits have been, and still are, famous for quality, fit and wear. We have an unusually fine assortment of these suits now. It is surprising the amount of fashion and good tailoring the makers have put into this particular lot of suits at just $10.

Then we have other suits for men who desire something at a little higher price. There is extra fine appearance and a wide range of choice in these suits at $12 and $15. Come and study carefully this exhibit at the three popular prices.

RECENT DEATHS

Dr. J. C. Mott.

Dr. John C. Mott passed away on Sunday evening at his home, 86 Horsfield street. Many friends will regret his death.

Dr. Mott, son of Amos and Eleanor Clarke Mott, was born September, 1880, at Central Cambridge, Queens county (N. B.). He was educated in the public schools of the province and after graduating from Normal school taught school for a few years, after which he entered upon the study of medicine at Ann Arbor (Mich.) and in Cleveland. After graduating he practiced for a short period in Michigan. Later he entered upon professional duties at Prince William, York county (N. B.), where he built up a successful practice. After practicing there for twenty-eight years he found the duties so great that he decided to take up a city practice. To that end he spent six months at post-graduate study in New York and returning settled in St. John, about twenty-one years ago, altogether rounding out nearly half a century of work in the medical profession. The doctor was highly esteemed by all who came in contact with him and there are many who will mourn not only a particularly kind and sympathetic physician but a true and helpful friend as well.

Dr. Mott was twice married, his first wife being Miss Bessie White, daughter of S. V. White, of White's Cove, Grand Lake, who died in 1891. In 1898 he married Miss Greene of this city who died in the year 1906. He leaves one daughter by his first wife, Miss Georgie Mott of this city. He also leaves two brothers—George F. Mott, of Malden (Mass.), and H. C. Mott, of this city; and five sisters—Mrs. Mary Macdonald, of Stockton (Cal.); Mrs. Emory White, Sussex; Mrs. Charles Corson and the Misses Pauline and Augusta Mott, all of Queensbury, York county.

The funeral will take place from his late residence on Tuesday at 3 o'clock.

Robert Ewing.

Robert Ewing, one of the oldest residents of St. John, and active many years as a sparmaker, died yesterday at his home in Elliott Row. He is survived by his wife, one son, Dr. James A. Ewing, of Boston; three daughters, Miss Annie J., and Miss Lillie R. Ewing at home, and Mrs. S. C. Hoyt, St. John. Funeral services will be held at his late residence, 345 p.m., Tuesday. Rev. Mr. Wilson of the Reformed Presbyterian church will officiate. Interment will be made in Fernhill cemetery.

John P. Maloney.

John P. Maloney, a former well known resident of St. John, died at his home in Boston on Saturday. Mr. Maloney had spent the most of his long life in St. John, and for many years conducted a grocery business at the corner of Duke and Sydney street. Ten years ago he removed to Boston, where he has since resided. Mr. Maloney was formerly president of the local branch of the C. M. B. A. No. 184, and was a member of the association at the time of his death. He was particularly well known in St. John and the news of his death will be heard with regret by his many friends. He was unmarried and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Michael Landers and Miss Agnes Maloney, both of Boston. Mrs. R. E. Fitzgerald, of this city, is a niece. Mr. Maloney was born at Oromocto about sixty-five years ago, but spent the greater part of his life in St. John. The body will be brought to Oromocto for interment, funeral being held at that place tomorrow.

Stephen McMullin of Hartland, died recently, aged 89 years. He was a son of the late Rev. Charles McMullin, a Free Baptist preacher well known in the old days. His grandfather was the first white settler in what is now Hartland. The deceased's wife, who survives him, was Miss Ruth Bradley, and two children survive, W. P. McMullin, with whom he lived, and Mrs. G. E. Boyer of Hartland.

Solomon Good, one of the oldest men in Carleton county, died at the home of his son, Henry, on July 11. He was born at Kingsclear, York county, on Nov. 28, 1824, went to Carleton county with his parents and brothers at the age of thirteen and spent the remainder of his boyhood days in Jacksonville. From the latter place he followed a spotted trail to Good Corner where he and his brothers, John and Arch, soon cleared fine farms, erected good farm buildings and laid the corner stone of a thriving settlement which today bears their name. In the autumn of 1922 Solomon Good was united in marriage to Bathsheba Parks of White Settlement, Me., and raised a family of five children, Edridge of Saco, Me.; Polissier of Good Corner; Henry of Jacksonville; Zephaniah of Presque Isle, Me.; and Mrs. C. E. Stephenson of Florenceville, all of whom survive him.

BURIED ON SUNDAY

The funeral of Thomas I. Byrne was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence, 82 Lombard street to Holy Trinity church, where Very Rev. J. J. Walsh, V. G., conducted the funeral service. Interment was in the old Catholic cemetery.

"Ethel" was taken in to dinner by that western gentleman you introduced to me. He was quite gallant and remarked upon my birdlike appetite. Her Friend—Well, he should be a good judge of that, dear, he runs an ostrich farm in California.
