VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 17.—"In spite of all the murmuring and declarations of pessimism, there seems to be peace and prosperity and happiness throughout the land," declared Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, addressing a largely attended luncheon of the Canadian Club yesterday. His message was that the qualities which made for Canada's great success in the war, were applied to her general activities in peace, the troubles of the spirit with which she is unnecessarily beset, would disappear.

Morning Stock Letter

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The success of the Locarno convention no doubt was one of many influences which resulted in the tremendous volume of business transacted yesterday on the exchange.

The commercial agencies were unanimous in stating that the trade of the country is better than at any time in many years. Although rates for call money are fairly high, no anxiety is expressed in banking circles as to the future. The fact that advance was led by G.M.O. and U. S. Steel is looked upon as a favorable indication, as both these stocks are affiliated with the most prominent banking houses in New York.

As to U. S. Steel, rumors are current that consideration now is being given to a plan for the distribution of large surplus in the hands of Corporation.

Some stocks lagged, but it was encouraging to see that rails did better yesterday. Endeavors to buy oils have not met with much success. Another strong market is expected today.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

Brokers' Opinions

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Houseman & Co.—We expect speculative interest to continue to concentrate on the buying side and think equipment stocks are likely to become more of a feature.

Hornblower.—We have stated yesterday would be an important group among the new leadership stocks. Hold them. Despite the big advance in G.M.O., we would hold it on the possibility of its reaching 150 next month. Fisher Body will follow G.M.O.

Pynchon & Co.—Steel stocks are way behind in the bull movement to date and the impressive buying in U. S. Steel is conducive to the belief that a new forward movement is about ready to start in the steel group.

Tobey and Kirk.—No doubt there is a lot of good profit-taking and caution is, of course, advisable, but this is a bullish market and further advances are to be expected.

Poultrymen Want Planes To Fly Higher

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Oct. 16.—Poultrymen in Sonoma County are starting a campaign to make airmen fly higher.

Low flying planes, they say, are demoralizing the chicken business. The chicks scurry for cover and suspend egg-laying activities when the great hawk-like shadows pass with a roar.

Sir James Dunn for High Protection

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—High protection, the kind that has made the United States the richest nation in the world, is what Canada needs today, in the opinion of Sir James Dunn, international banker, of London, England, who came here after a visit to his native province of New Brunswick.

"I do not feel that the great natural resources of this country can be developed except under a policy of high protection; protection of the Canadian markets, under which the strong business men of this country can feel confidence that their investments in the industries of the country, and particularly the new industries, are going to have the kind of protection that similar people have in the United States when they start in to develop an industry, and under which they will be more confident of making their investments. Then Canada should take a new step forward in prosperity of great farming and industrial population of the country."
