"THE GREAT MOMENT"

GLORIA SWANSON and MILTON SILLS

In the Romance of an English Heiress and a Mine Engineer

JUST READ THIS EXTRAORDINARY PLOT:—An English baronet is visiting his Nevada mining property taking with him his charming daughter. When roaming the mine area with the gentlemanly superintendent the young lady is bitten by a snake. The old remedy, whiskey, is freely administered. The fair patient is taken into a shack nearby to recover from the effects of the antidote. In a delirium she makes love to the stranger. The baronet happening upon the scene becomes furious. He forsakes his daughter. When the girl recovers she is mystified at the roundabout turn of affairs and is crushed by her father's cruelty. The Engineer at once annals the foolish marriage. Then follows a real romance—a play in which such stars as Miss Swanson and Mr. Sills can well enact.

who gained golfing fame last season by her defeat of Miss Cecil Leitch in the Berthelby Cup competition at Philadelphia, established a record here for the shortest putt ever missed. Playing in the women's championship tournament, Miss Collett's ball hung on the lip of the cup, in imminent danger of toppling into the hole. Miss Collett took a stab at it, trying to make sure of sinking it. She missed it by an inch, the head of her putter hitting the ground behind the ball and stopping in the turf.
