The surveyor-general says:-"The Mining Act of last session has, I am glad to report, had the desirable effect of directing more general attention to the devicable of the mineral resources of the Province, as shown in the increased activity n prospecting and searching for minerals, Under the old law the rights of prospectors were not clearly defined, and when the mesent Act came into operation, some little resent Act came into operation, some little iction at first courren, owing to grantees it is deasuming that the Government had taken away rights to mines which they reviously held by their grants. It was found, however, by these parties, that the miniple of the new act made no charges in this cape it and that the right to mines had tways been reserved to the Crown and did out pass with the title to the grantee."

"The granting of license to search was, in a large number of cases, opposed by the owners of lands embraced in the applications to search and this gave rise to objections and motes a which necessitated equity into the relative matters in different parts of the Province, which, I am pleased to report, eemed to have had the effect of remissing the prejudices theretofore existing."

The statement of mining licenses shows that five were issued under the old act while that five were issued under the old act while forty-seven licenses to search, three license to work and six prospecting licenses were In addition to the foregoing licenses, 20 applications were made for second Right Licenses to Search; also a number of applications for mining rights under the new law, against which protests have been filed, and no licenses have as yet issued. There were two large surveys made for settlement during the year, viz: 5092 acres in the Parish of St. Isidore, Gloncester County, and, 2472 acres in Parish of St. Francis, County of Madawaska. We observe also that the synopsis of the ovincial game laws has been revised and brought up to date.

THEY MEAN BUSINESS The promptness with which the governnent has laid the different reports on the table is most creditable, as it enables the House to go into supply at once and thus ensure a short session.
